The question on proceeding to consider the first resolve was decided in the negative by Yeas and Nays.

For consideration Against it The Speaker having stated the question on the 2d and 3d resolves-

Mr. Murfree of N. C. enquired whether the of the House, to put the question of consideration on every motion, no matter how preposterous, that should be proposed. Was such a motion as these resolves embraced in order?

Mr. Gaston of N. C. required a division of this question:

And the question was accordingly taken on the consideration of the 2d resolution, and decided in the negative.

For Consideration Against it The question was then taken on the consideration of the 3d resolution, and decided in the negative as follows: For consideration Against it So the House resolved that it would not now consider either of the three first resolution offered by Mr. King. The other lies on the table for one day, according to a rule of the House.

RIFLE REGIMENTS. On motion of Mr. Truop of Geo. the House resolved itself into a committee of the whole, 124 dollars in money, and 160 acres of land is Mr. Kennedy in the chair, on the bill to raise to be given to each and every able bodied man three regiments of riflemen.

Mr. Fisk of N. Y. opened the debate, and spoke nearly an hour in reply to the remarks yesterday made by Mr. Grosvenor and Mr. Shipherd. Mr. Alexander of Ohio, made a short and and pithy speech on the present state of our affairs. Mr. Miller of N. Y. followed, in reply to some remarks of his colleagues, Mr. Taylor and Mr. Fisk. Mr. Murfree of N. C. next spoke, and made a neat speech of moderate length in support of the government and the war. Mr. Lavett of N. Y. spoke some time in reply to the speches of his colleagues, Mr. Taylor and Mr. Fisk. Mr. M. Kim spoke to the question before the House, which the gentlemen who proceeded him did not discuss, and expressed himself in favor of the bill. Mr. Winter of N. Y. moved to amend the bill so as to strike out the words "in addition to the present military force," and substitute | commissioned officer and private would be entherefore "as a part of the present military | titled to the two first installments of his bounforce, &c." object of which was to convert three of the for a man if he had a family, to render them regiments of infantry now authorized by law, into rifle regiments, instead of making an addition of that amount to the army we now have on paper.

Mr. Tallmadge of Con. supported this motion, because, though decidedly in favor of giving the government a greater proportion of this species of force, he was opposed to increasing the force at present authorized by law (estimated at 60,000 men) by the addition of three other regiments.

Mr. Pickering supported the amendment. He could not see the use in raising additional officers for the purpose of recruiting, when, by a law recently passed every man in the nation was made a recruiting officer, by the bounty of $3 offered for each recruit.

Mr. Desha opposed the amendment, because the government had called for these regiments and he was inclined to place at the disposal of those, whose duty it was to conduct the war, all the reans which they thought necessary. Mr. D. expatiated the advantages of rifle corps, and did not think, he said, that this bill proposed to raise enough of this description of force.

The amendment proposed by Mr. Ridgely was negatived, 54 to 57.

The committee rose and reported the bill; and the House took up the report.

Mr. Ridgeley renewed the amendment which he had moved in committee, spoke in support of it, and required the Yeas and Nays,

At this late hour it appearing that there was not a quorum present-

BALTIMORE: SATURDAY, JAN. 29.

However we may differ in opinion on some subjects with a party in New York, yet, as a community, the Common Council of that city have lately behaved with a spirit, a liberality, and a patriotism, highly honorable, and becoming a great and flourishing people.-Their conduct in respect to our Naval Heroes have been highly commendable; and they have very recently distinguished themselves by a donation of 3000 dollars towards the relief of our brethren on the frontiers, who have lately suffered great hardships by the cruel and barbarous burnings and murderings of the British and their savage allies .- They have likewise recommended that a day of humiliation and prayer be observed in all the plac. es of worship in their city on the 2d of next month, when all good citizens will have an opportunity of contributing to this truly laudable charity-[See the N. TO THE PATIOTIC YOUNG MEN OF BALTIMORE. The inducement held out by the Government of the United States to young men of respectability and patriotism, to join the standard of their country, in defence of its just rights, affords a fine opportunity for young men to form I themselves into one or more companies, chuse their officers, and offer their services to Government, for the time prescribed by law. According to a late act of Congress, a bounty of and after the first day of February next-for the term of five years, or during the war; 50 dolmuster and joining some military corps, and 24 dollars and 160 acres of land at the expiration of the term of service.-There are doubtless many young men of patriotic ardour and at a public rendezvous, who by associating rous exertion of our arms. themselves for the purpose aforesaid, would be enabled to enter the service of their country in | War and Navy Departments are diligently laa more creditable way, independently of the advantage they would secure to themselves, of chusing their own officers; they would not be subject to promiscuous drafts into other corps, except on special service or duty. There is no heart of the enemy's country. No change in doubt but that a company of one hundred and twenty men so associated, would be received into the service of the Government, and the officers chosen commissioned. Besides, on the reception of such company or companies into service, and the organization thereof, each nonty, amounting to the handsome sum of ONE Mr. Ridgely moved an amendment, the HUNDRED DOLLARS !- a sum sufficient comfortable and happy. The patriotism of the young men of Baltimore is proverbial. From our correspondent-Washington, Jan. 21. The recent advices from Europe have been frequently alluded to on the floor of Congress, in the debates relative to the Army Bills, and an Opposition member stated, the other day, in the Senate, that he believed the liberties of Europe were now tolerably secure; whilst another remarked, that though France had sunk to a low point of depression, she would rise again, Antœus-like, and still subsist as a great and flourishing power, but happily disarmed of her ability to injure others. The balance of European power, for which they have so so long trembled, being restored, how does it happen that the politicians of that class still retain all those prejudices and heresies which could only be, in any degree, palliated by the fear of universal monarchy? It cannot be pretended that Britain or Russia are now in any danger of being conquered by France, and consequently so much of their aversion to the The Oppositionists are very angry, that the present war as was grounded upon apprehenmitted to sail for England with Mr. Jeffrey the contrary are they not still English from in which the United States have an interest, by deep, immediate, and solid, occasions them the navies of Europe upon her own colossal marine, and grasping at all the colonies and commerce of the world, not only without fear, but with a pleasure and satisfaction that they selves ean gaze at this tremendous accumula. tion of military and maritime power, with perfect unconcern, they hold it up to the Republican party as an object of terror, and amon-

Such would be the character of any peace that must purchased by the concession of these maritime rights, essential to the national independence, and involving the dearest interests of the country. That bill renounces (in effect) the practice Gibbon's Rome, 8 vols. of naturalizing British seamen, and excluding British subjects from our mercantile and naval service. How we can retreat a single step further from the ground originally taken at the declaration of war, I confess, I am a loss to determine. Wiser heads may, perhaps, find some other mezzo termino by which our maritime rights can be reconciled with those claimed by the British empire; but the Exchange on Friday morning, and the when I consider that those pretended rights are the real foundation of its naval power and commercial monopoly, by the exercise of which Britain engrosses to herself the seamen of all other nations—adds them to her own native stock, and compels to bear her thunder lars whereof to be paid on enrollment, 50 on on every sea, whilst she will not acknowledge the exercise of such a right by any any other government-I can see no reason to believe that she is yet prepared to relinquish them.
