NEW-YORY, Feb. 8. Captain Forbes, of the schr. Banyer, who arrived here yesterday in 17 days from St. Jago de Cuba, informs, that a few days previous to his sailing, a vessel arrived there from Porto Bello, with intelligence that a great battle had been recently fought, in the neighborhood of the Caraccas, between the Royalists and the Patriots in which the latter were totally defeated. The second Lieutenant of the U. S. frigate Essex died lately at Kingston, Jamaica, and was interred with the honors of war.

The British cruizers capture all the Carthagenian privateers they meet. By this arrival Jamaica papers of the 6th and Haynes, sailed from port Royal yesterday noon for the Bay of Honduras, after which she is to proceed to the Havanna. The ship Monarch, Campbell, which sailed on Tuesday last for St. Jago de Cuba, returned into port yesterday to wait for convoy. From the Captain and passengers in the Perpignan, we learn that the Texel fleet, consisting of 15 sail of the line, and 4 frigates, did not surrender as has been stated, but were captured af- gress. ter a severe engagement of six hours, by the fleet under Vice Admiral Young, during which two of them were sunk. In the town we found a large quantity of provisions and immense property of various kinds, which the enemy flying precipitately, were obliged to leave behind, and which, together with two hundred houses, were destroyed. They had barely time to remove their women and children across the Alabama, which runs near where the town stood. The next day was occupied in destroying a town, confisting of fixty houses, eight miles higher up the river, and in taking and destroying the enemy's boats. At the town last destroyed was killed three Indians of some distinction. The town first destroyed was built since the commencement of hostilities, and was established as a place of security for the inhabitants of several villages. The leader Witherford, Francis, and the Choctaw Sinquistur's son, who were principal prophets, refided here. Three Shawnese were among the slain.

Col. Carson of the volunteers, Lt. Colonel Russell of the 3d regt. U. States' Infantry, & Major moot of the Militia, greatly distinguished themselves. The activity and zeal of the Ast. Dep.
