It requires greater wisdom and virtue to make a proper use of success, than to bear ad-

A Congress has been proposed to assemble the 27th Dec. to repair to the continent. These are the prominent facts. Our papers | the continent. contain numerous speculations on the subject which we cannot copy. The Allies guarantee to the Emperor a larger domain than any the Kings of France have ruled over, and Bonaparte is to relinquish the Confederation of the Rhine, and acknowledge the independence of Spain and Portugal.

Our opinion is that a General Peace will not take place in Europe.

PACIFIC OVERTURES. Our papers contain numerous articles on a Proposition of Peace, and Congress at Manheim. We shall present such of them as will give a sketch of the subject.

Propositions of the Allies. FRANKFORT, Dec. 1. (Official Article.)-Wictory has conducted the Allies armies to the banks of the Rhine. The first use which their Imperial and Royal Majesties have made of victory, has been to offer Peace to his Majesty the Emperor of the French. An attitude strengthened by the accession of all the Sovereigns and Princes of Germany, has had no | figure in the grand Drama, shall have a due influence on the conditions of the peace.-These conditions are founded on the independence of the French Empire, as well as on the independence of the other States of Europe. The views of the powers are just in their object, generous and liberalin their application, giving security to all, honorable to each. The powers confirm to the French Empire, an extent of territory which France under her Kings never knew.

The London Courier says,-" The funds rose rapidly yesterday in consequence of the ing equitable terms. speech of Bonaparte, and the intended departure of Lord Castlereagh for the continent."

the Courier adds, delay in the communications with the Allies. | pinion, "that a peace was near at hand." Had there been a Congress likely to be held immediately, we hardly think our Minister for Foreign Affairs would have proceeded thither. His Lordship's presence, being so perfectly acquainted with all the views and intentions of | rival at that port from Liverpool, with advices government, may be necessary to heal differences, should there be any, to remove jealousies, to confirm the wavering, and to knit all the powers together in the strongest manner. "It is to be remarked that the French funds have not risen more than I per cent. "The confident pacific expectations indulged yesterday in the City have subsided this morning.—Omnium which opened at 17 1-2 and 18, sell to 14 13 7.8. It rose afterwards to about 143-4 15.

"We scarcely ever remember, upon any political subject, a more unanimons opinion among almost all ranks, an opinion against making peace with Bonaparte."

The Courier of Dec. 25th says, " Lord Castlereagh sets off for the Continent on Monday, accompanied by the Hon. Mr. Robinson.-Nothing has transpired from the Cabinet of the object of the mission; but the business must be imperious, which would have induced one of its members to undertake a mission."

A London paper states, that Lord Castlereagh proceeds in person to Frankfort, to give, on the spot, direct, immediate and unreserved explanations of the principles and objects of the British cabinet.

The Rostrum.

On his visit to the city of Washington, Mrs Ogilvie has revisited Baltimore, and most respectfully announces his intention to remain here a few days, for the purpose of delivering one or two of his Orations. He recollects, with due sensibility, the flattering and liberal attention with which his exhibitions on the Rostrum were honored during his former visit to this city; he has not forgotten, nor will be ever forget, that in this city, success first dawned upon his literary enterprize; that his exhibitions attracted some portion of favorable attention, from the taste and intelligence, the beauty and fashion, of Baltimore, precisely at the time when that attention was most gratifying, because it was least expected, and most precious, because most essential to the successful prosecution of the design he had undertaken. He has not forgotten this, nor will he ever forget it.

On Monday Evening, at 7 o'clock, Mr. Ogilvie will deliver, in Mr. Mallet's Assembly-Room, an Oration, in which he has endeavored to expose the Essential Immorality and Penal Wretchiedness,

OF GAMING. This Oration will be followed by a short Address, recently delivered in New York, for the purpose of illustrating the utility of Asylums for the protection and education, OF ORPHANS,
