MOSES KAHN OF OLD TOWN "The Good Maker of Kahn's Good Klothes." COR. GAY and EAST STREETS Just One Short Block South of Belair Market The Prodigals And Profiteers Are Coming Home To Roost THE old sinners—the extortioners in the clothing business who have waxed fat at the expense of the "common people" and who read the "handwriting on the wall," now want to "square themselves" by reducing their prices as much as 10 and 20 per cent., and in one or two instances as much as 25 per cent. As much as "Mose" believes in the sanctity of forgiveness, and with all the reverence that he holds for that good saying, "The vilest sinner may return," he doesn't altogether believe that these old reprobates are truly penitent. They've been out of the "straight and narrow path" so long that they are hardened in the ways of transgression, and while their voice is soft and musical and plaintive, "very like the voice of Jacob," "Mose" is not so sure that the hand they offer is not the hand of Esau. WHILE these adventurers—these high price clothiers—were "lining their vests" with war profits, "Mose" was at his tailors' bench, cutting and making the garments that he offers you today and tomorrow and every day at his old prices, which always have been and always will be much below the prices. AND "Mose" not only makes all the good clothing he sells, and who sells it for less than others, but he gives a generous hand to every honest and deserving man. Your Good Money Back If The Goods Are Not As "Mose" Represents Them Outlefish Hide Themselves In Their Own Ink BUT the sins of man will find him out. Indeed, the way of the transgressor is hard. The best way to get along in this good old world is to do right. What profiteth it a clothier to make a fortune on high prices and lose the confidence of the people? Lost fortunes are oftimes regained, but lost confidence, never. "Mose" thinks more of his friends and their confidence in him than he does of his bank account, and that's the reason he has so many friends and does such a wonderful business. All men are susceptible, and smart (?) tradesmen can fool them once; but does it pay? These smart (?) prodigals that take it have found, and to their sorrow, that it doesn't. Indeed, it doesn't! Think goodness, "Mose" never played that game with the people, and if the Good Lord spares him he never will. "Honesty is the best policy" has always been "Mose's" motto, and "sink or swim," "survive or perish," he'll stick to it to the end. The Man Who Plays A Square Game Open And Above Board AN Ostrich Thinks He Hides Himself In The Sand "MOSE" never had to hide anywhere, because he never had anything to cover up. His methods in business have been as open as his books, and he's never had to dodge a customer or run from a creditor. "Mose" has been right here, where he is today, corner Gay and East Streets, going on 30 years—right under his own vine and fig tree—and he honestly believes that he has more friends than any other clothing man in Baltimore. And it all comes about because "Mose" knows how to treat his friends and he knows his business. So it's a sure, safe thing that when you deal with "Mose" you are dealing with a "square" man—one who will give you one hundred cents worth of value for every dollar you invest with him. That's the true Quaker Spirit—the kind that "moves" us to keep one another—and that's "Mose's" religion every day in the week and Sunday, too. Come around to see "Mose" tomorrow and see him practice what he preaches.
