WHAT THE PRESS OF THE NATION HAS TO SAY ABOUT JAMES M. COX, DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE FOR PRESIDENT.

Notwithstanding what happens in November the next, President of the United States will be an Ohioan who began life as a printer's "devil" — successfully edited and published small town papers, rose to popularity politically and became great man in the respective communities.

(From the Milwaukee American Independent)—"Governor Cox is the first Presidential nominee to belong to a new political generation. He is the first candidate whose political life has not been concerned with the tariff and the train of similar policies that has figured at least since the middle seventies. As Governor his chief work has been the reorganization of the governmental machinery of Ohio to meet the demands of a new age."

(From The San Francisco Bulletin)

(Independent)—"Cox is a candidate of Presidential quality, a man of the people; he has risen to his present position by hard work and superior abilities. On the personal side he has the qualities that make for a popular leader and with a popular Democratic platform to stand on he should make a fight that will cause his opponent to strain every nerve. It may be predicted that the November battle will be one of the keenest in the political history of America."

(From The San Francisco News (Independent))—"Cox will be an effective leader of the masses of Americans who have no use for Wall Street dictation in political affairs; who can not stomach the narrow, selfish, Lodge combination of Senators; who do not want a colorless and flaccid Harding as President of the United States; who have for four years. Cox will carry California. He will carry his own home State. His chance for election is better than that of any other Democrat who could have been named."

(From The New York World)—"An important element in the campaign is the attitude of labor. While official statements are yet to come, Mr. Gompers has called Cox "the best solution," and in a dispatch to the New York World from San Francisco, Mr. John J. Leary, Jr., sets forth several reasons for considering the nomination of Cox eminently satisfactory to organized labor."

"Cox has always been rated as friendly to organized labor. Within the month of convention of the American Federation of Labor in Montreal went on record as recommending to other commonwealths the Ohio Workmen's Compensation Insurance Fund

Law, commonly known as the Cox law.

"His nomination means the passing of Burleson, arch-enemy of organized labor, no matter what the result in November. If Cox wins he is as certain to go as if Harding wins."

"The defeat of A. Mitchell Palmer, who enraged labor by his use of the injunction process against the soft-coal miners last winter."

"The fact that Cox was at all times opposed by Governor John J. Cornwell, of West Virginia, and others from Southern States rated as reactionaries."

"The fact that Cox is sufficiently progressive to support the principle of independent labor party."

"The nomination is regarded as curing such defects as may exist in the platform."

"From the Dayton News (Governor Cox's newspaper).—"We want to congratulate the 'Chief,' because we believe he deserves it. He is a representative in the stars that the greatest honor should come to him. His record as Governor of Ohio is representative of the historic Third Ohio District, and as private citizen in Dayton is brilliant. No man who endeavors first to be of service to his fellow-man can be denied a place in the world. The universe admires a man who sticks everlastingly at it until the principles he favors are triumphant."

"From the Cleveland Plain Dealer (Democratic).—"He is the best qualified man to meet Warren G. Harding in the campaign and to beat him."

"From the Memphis Press (Independent).—"James M. Cox is the Democratic party's strongest vote getter."

"From the News and Observer, Raleigh, N. C., (owned by Secretary of Navy Daniels).—"The Democrats, to win the election should be able to carry New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, where Cox is stronger than any other candidate. The Democrats could have named. Another important factor is that Cox's nomination removes the taint of reform for any possible allegation that the President or his Administration dictated the candidate. But Cox the man was the greatest factor in his naming. He began life as a newspaper man and has three times been elected Governor of Ohio. No Governor in the forty-eight States has to his credit such an amazing number of important reforms accomplished. During the war he was one of the greatest State pillars and Washington looked to him and listened to him with an attention which it gave to no other Governor. He kept his State warm and at work in the coal strike while other States around it were idle and freezing. If elected President he will be one of the greatest administrators who has ever held the office."

"From the Nashville Tennessean (Democratic).—"Cox will appeal to all elements in American life."

From the News-Leader, Richmond, Va.—"Cox will appeal to labor without affronting capital, and he will support a courageous and national policy without making that the exclusive issue. With the solid South behind him and with good prospects of gaining Ohio's twenty-four votes, he can be elected and he can carry in addition New York and New Jersey and get twenty-five scattered votes."

From the Omaha, West World Herald—"Cox will win. He is a progressive and liberal executive."

From the Hartford Times—"The country needs a man like Cox for president, and not a man of the Hanna type."

From The Philadelphia Record (Democratic)—"Governor Cox is splendidly equipped and trained to be the leader of the Democratic party in the nation and to be the Chief executive if the United States."

From The New York World—"The San Francisco convention has given its party a leader well versed in the principles of democracy, a candidate who has the pleasing habit of carrying his own State, and a man who in high office has demonstrated his capacity to legislate and to govern."

The World, which has opposed nation-wide prohibition, replies to prohibitionist assertions that he incurred the hostility of the liquor interests by enforcing the Sunday-closing law. It adds: Governor Cox, if elected, would enforce the prohibition amendment to the letter and all laws made in harmony therewith. He is not likely, in response to any exhortation, public or private, to go beyond that."

From the New York Times—"He is a man of the people, that fine type of the successful American man of affairs. He has the qualities of the humble beginnings by his own unaided industry, native ability, and sound judgment in the possession of a competence and to high office."
