favor if sent back to Washington. "I am for a League of Nations," he said. "Our party platform is for a League of Nations. Our candidates on the national ticket are for a League of Nations. The Republican party don't know what they are for. They are for a League of Nations and they are against a League of Nations. The trouble with my friend, Senator Hard-ing is, that he is trying to ride two horses and if he doesn't look out he will fall between the two." After paying a tribute to Governor Cox and his running-mate on the Dem-oratic ticket, Mr. Roosevelt, Senator Smith paid a fine tribute to Congress-man Benson. "You are to be congrat-

now. The question of woman suffrage is settled. It is too late now to give as an excuse for not voting that one has always been opposed to suffrage being ex-tended to women. Let it be re-membered that when the ballot boxes are opened election night, there will be no way to tell whether a ballot has been cast by a man or a woman. All will count the same. The ballot of no good woman will count un-less she has first registered as a voter and then goes to the polls on election day and sees 'to it that her convictions are express-ed by her vote. She referred to President Wilson as "one of the greatest presidents Ameri-ca ever had," and declared that 16 na-tions of the world had followed his declaration of principles, thus hasten-ing the termination of the war. She said that it would be "to the everlast-the the exigencies certain to arise in the period of transition from the old to the period of transition from the old to the the exigencies certain to arise in the period of transition from the old to the new order. She told her women hearers: "You must register, you must vote, whether you want to or not; you must do it as a matter of conscience and duty." She drew comparisons as to the manner in which the two national con-ventions were conducted; and said that while there were only 27 women delegates at Chicago there were 400 at San Francisco. She spoke of the splendid record of Governor Cox and his eminent fitness for the high office of President, and said: "There is noth-ing in Mr. Cox's record that any man or woman need blush for." She referred to the fact that the "god of war" has claimed a human life every 20 minutes through all the centuries," and appealed to the women as a matter of honor and duty, to make some sacrifice in order to bring about the ratification of the Treaty of Versailles, in order that the United States may become a member of the League of Nations and thus help to make future wars ipmossible. Refer-ring to Senator Smith's stand on the League of Nations, she said: "How proud I would have been if Pennsyl-vania had had a Senator Smith to speak for it on the League of Nations instead of the unspeakable Bise Pen-rose, who picked out Harding for President." (Great applause). During the course of her address Mrs. Fuller told a number of humor-ous stories. One was of an old colored woman in one of the Southern States, who was busily engaged in making apple butter, and the cows broke down the fence and entered the yard sur-rounding her home and got mixed up with her children, chickens, hogs and other things. Her "Lord and Master" was sitting on the front porch, taking it easy, and she called to him for help, saying, "Who you think you is, any-how, Warren G. Harding?" Mrs. Ful-lar said stw.
