It has official dis- land were heard in praise of the galtheir late raid on the railroad south of Richmond, by which some thirty miles of useful road to the rebel army, was entirely destroyed, the no less brave and intrepid officer, General Thomas, operating at Nashville, Tennessee, whips and almost annihilates the rebels under Hood.

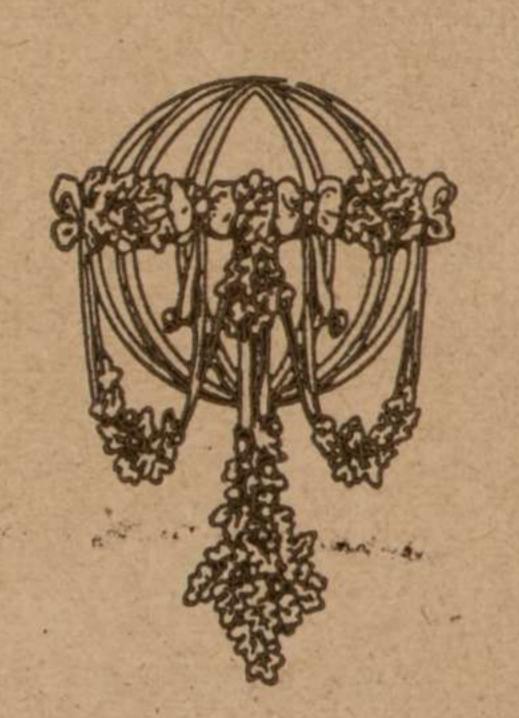

All these things, however, great and encouraging as they may be, sink into utter insignificance when with the triumphant compared march of General Sherman from Atlanta, three hundred miles through a hostile country such as the State of Georgia is, and has been, to the sea-coast.

"Again, whilst these things have been going on, our army in other parts of the South have not been idle, all of which combined, makes the last 30 days the most damaging and destructive to that rebellious! people that has occurred in the same space of time since the bloody hand of black treasuon was first raised against our Government. A few more such months of punishment to armed rebels, and the hopes and wishes of toyal people will have been fully carried out—the rebellion will have been put down and our country will assume the position allotted to it by the Great Ruler of all things, viz: 'The strongest, most free and independent nation on the face of the earth."
