

CAME WITHIN AN ACE OF CAPTURING BERGDOLL.—Lieutenant Corliss Hooven Griffis, American army officer, who recently arrived in New York on the S. S. Albert Ballin after having been released from the German jail where he had served part of a sentence of twenty-one months' imprisonment for his attempt with some companions to kidnap Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the draft evader. Griffis had a rousing reception at the New York City

SOME WHO DON'T GRUMBLE AT ZERO WEATHER.—Polar bears in their den at Forest Park, St. Louis—the only one in the United States without a fence—roaming about in a high state of glee when the thermometer sank to zero during a re-

ALOFT" must have been watching over Tennis Kolts, who recently escaped death when his car in a speedway race at Los Angeles, while traveling at a gait of over a hundred miles an hour, turned turtle and skidded through a steel guard rail. Kolts was not even scratched.

CHAMPION BULLDOG AND HIS FAVORITE MASCOT.—The theory of the ineradicable enmity between cats and dogs receives something of a jolt when one sees Purple Flashes, a champion in dogdom, on the most friendly terms with Lightning, a house cat, which is his inseparable companion.

THESE CLUBMEN HAD SOME EXPLAINING TO DO when they reached home in Los Angeles, clothed only in barrels and the California sunshine, but they were forgiven when it was learned that at one of their weekly luncheons they had sold all their clothes to raise funds for disabled veterans, realizing enough to supply the needs of one hundred ex-service men.
