

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE RETURNS STILL COMING IN

Baltimore, Allegany, Montgomery and Washington counties were leading the State in Christmas Seal returns to date in a bulletin issued by William B. Matthews, Managing Director of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association.

The results of the Seal Sale in the various counties according to the latest figures of the chairmen are as follows:

Table listing counties and their respective seal sale returns, including Allegany, Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Calvert, Carroll, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Frederick, Garrett, Harford, Howard, Kent, Montgomery, Prince George's, Queen Anne's, Somerset, Talbot, Washington, Wicomico, and Worcester.

Mr. Matthews also pointed out that the amount of tuberculosis work that is done in each county is limited by the amount of money realized in that county from the annual sale of Christmas Seals.

WHAT PROHIBITION DID

On January 16th, 1934, Senator Morris Sheppard, co-author of the 18th Amendment, celebrated the adoption of the same by delivering a speech which appears in the Congressional Record.

Think of the achievements of Prohibition:

- 1. A decrease in the Death-Rate equalling a saving of 200,000 lives every year during the prohibition era.
2. A decrease of at least two-thirds in the consumption of intoxicating liquors as compared with the peak Wet year of 1914.
3. A decrease of 54 per cent. in the number of children brought to child welfare associations on account of cruelty and neglect from drunken parents.
4. A decrease by thousands in the number of special alcoholic wards in hospitals and sanitariums.
5. The almost complete disappearance of institutions for the cure of alcoholism, such as Keeley and Neal establishments.
6. A decrease of at least 50 per cent. in arrests for prostitution throughout the nation.
7. A gain of 30 per cent. in the survival of infants under one year of age.
8. A gain of 40 per cent. in the survival of children under five years of age.
9. An unprecedented increase in savings and life insurance.
10. And, above all, the abolition of the open saloon.

As we approach the Anniversary of Prohibition, I call the quotation given above to the attention of readers in general.

Church, and also a member of the Homemakers Club.

PILOT MUSINGS

"Now the New Year reviving old Desires, The thoughtful Soul to Solitude retires—"

It was a fierce storm the last days of December but the cattle were housed, fed and watered. "While in the homes the hot fires heat"

The frost-line back with tropic heat." The drifted snow made travel almost impossible but Carrier Lutman got through with the mail.

Pilot has a genius in the person of Walter Ritchie. What ever is required in ornamental or useful wood work he seems able to produce. Cedar chests and chairs are made to order. We hope he continues to branch out in his work, eventually building a large plant here.

Florence has a pretty wit. A man chucked up on his barn these words, viz: NO CIDER SOLD HERE. The only occupant of the barn was an old horse, and Florence said "Why does he pick on the horse who drinks no cider?"

A farmer sold Florence a quarter of beef which he delivered on his shoulder, whereupon Florence said "Take it down cellar." The man going down dislocated a tub and tub, man and beef landed on the cellar floor, whereupon Florence called down, "What the Hell are you trying to do?"

J. R. KEITHLEY

The funeral of John R. Keithley, aged 84, of Elk Neck, who died suddenly at his home from heart trouble, was held Thursday afternoon. Services were held at his home, with interment in Hart's cemetery, Elk Neck. He is survived by his wife and five children—Harold, Emily, Edward, Helen and Mary, all of Elk Neck.

MISS CAROLINE KIRK

At her home at New London, Pa., Dec. 26, Miss Caroline Kirk passed away in the 80th year of her age. Deceased was born at Rising Sun, Md. Most of her life was spent at New London. She was a daughter of Theodore Kirk and Harriet Louise Passmore Kirk.

Two brothers and two sister survive: Alfred Kirk, Baltimore; Mrs. Eloise Paxson, Lancaster; Mrs. Mary Hughes, of Glen Roy, and Frank Kirk, New London.

Interment was made in New London cemetery.
