SENDING GOOD CHEER

EVANGELIST JOHN MOSES BAKER
Baltimore, Maryland

I write this poem to send good cheer
 Into your life today.
 And to help you bear its burdens,
 Scattering sunshine over your way.

I write this poem to send good cheer,
 When the night seems dark and long,
 And storm clouds gather round you;
 Then fill your life with praise and song.

I write this poem to send good cheer,
 When friends have proven untrue.
 Remember they never were your friends,
 This is not what real friends do.

I write this poem to send good cheer;
 God will take care of His own.
 Trust in Him, go on, never falter,
 He will bring you safely home.

They persecuted the Master,
 Saying many things untrue.
 The Bible tells us all about it;
 They will persecute me and you.

In perfect peace God will keep us,
 Watching over you and me.
 We will sail in greatest safety;
 None can harm us over life's stormy sea.

ORIGIN OF "O.K."

The editors of the Chevrolet dealers' magazine have been doing research work, seeking the origin of the expression O.K., in response to inquiries received from its readers. The expression figures so largely in the company's used car advertising, which features the "Guaranteed O.K. tag" affixed to reconditioned used cars, that dealers became interested in its history.

Several plausible explanations have been uncovered. One of the most likely is that the expression is derived from a seaport on the southern coast of Haiti, which was a famous source of superior rum and tobacco shipped to the American colonies. The name of the port was Aux Cayes (pronounced "oh cay"). The colonists buying rum or tobacco would ask, "Is it Aux Cayes?" If it was, they knew it was good. The words soon became a symbol for good quality, but the letters O.K. naturally took the place of the words when written by persons not familiar with the real meaning.

Another theory traces O.K. to the Choctaw Indians. In their bartering with other tribes, they used the word "okeh" to designate a piece of merchandise or livestock as fit and good.

Others hold to the theory that the initials O.R., meaning "ordered recorded," being carelessly written on documents, were misread as O.K. and so came to stand for a symbol of correctness. It is also asserted that O.K., as an abbreviation for Artemus Ward's spelling of "all correct," first gained currency among oldtime telegraph operators.

Still another theory is that years ago a customs inspector whose initials were "O.K." stamped them on bales of goods that he passed.

As a verb, the Chevrolet publication says, the expression should be written O.K.'d or O.K.'ing.

As used by Chevrolet dealers O.K. means that used cars bearing these letters were carefully checked and reconditioned before being put on display.

MILK PRODUCERS ASK FOR HIGHER PRICES

Inter-State Association Asserts Increase Is Justified Because Of Higher Costs

An increase of 46 cents per hundred pounds in the price of milk to producers was requested by the Executive Committee of the Inter-State Milk Producers' Association through a resolution sent on May 29 to the milk control boards of Pennsylvania and New Jersey by B. H. Welty, Waynesboro, Pa., President of the Association. The resolution asked that the increase be made effective on July 16, by which time it is expected a shortage of milk will begin to be felt in this area.

This increase is to apply on milk used for fluid purposes only, the resolution also requesting that the price of all milk used for other purposes be determined according to butter prices and that price schedules and buying plans be uniform throughout the area supplying Philadelphia with milk.

A copy of the resolution was also sent by Mr. Welty to the A.A.A., requesting that Federal body to establish a similar price schedule on interstate milk. This is considered necessary in order to protect producers in nearby counties of Delaware and Maryland who supply Philadelphia with milk and any other producers in the milk shed whose milk may cross state lines. This milk enters interstate commerce and, therefore, is beyond control of any state regulatory body.

TRUE MYSTERY STORY

An exciting account of a strange case in which detectives found many unusual clues that finally unraveled the mystery. One of many interesting stories in the June 14 issue of the American Weekly, the big magazine which comes every Sunday with the BALTIMORE AMERICAN. Your newsdealer will supply your copy.

In commenting on this request for higher prices, A. H. Lauterbach, General Manager of the Inter-State Milk Producers' Association and formerly Chief of the Dairy Section of the A.A.A., declared that there has been no increase in this market in the price of Class I milk, which is the milk used for fluid purposes, since August, 1933. During that time the index of farm prices in Pennsylvania has increased by 20 per cent. "The price of milk cows," he stated, "has gone up from $47 to $73 since December, 1934, and, in comparison with milk prices, the cost of good dairy cows is close to a record high."

"Other costs encountered by dairy farmers which have risen sharply include farm labor and dairy farm equipment. Sanitary requirements have been made more severe during the last three years, often requiring considerable expense to the farmers with no compensating increase in milk prices."

In transmitting this request for a higher milk price to the control boards and to the A.A.A., the Inter-State asked for the privilege of presenting facts to these officials in supporting this need for higher prices to milk producers.

HOBBY RIDING WITH MAX CHAMBERS SWIMMING

There is good swimming in all of the 2429 square miles of the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries and aside from a few sea nettles and an occasional crab, it is free of the hazards in tropical waters.

One of the best swimmers on the Peninsula is Wendell H. Marshall, of Easton, who for six years lived in Hawaii while taking his degree at the University of Honolulu. Mr. Marshall is well acquainted with Duke Kahanamoku, late world champion swimmer, who is now sheriff of Honolulu and of him says, "The Duke is now forty-four years old but a perfect specimen of manhood. He started as a beach boy, became an expert swimmer and surf rider and travelled around the world exhibiting his skill as an aquatic instructor. Swimming brought him health, wealth, and what appears to be perennial youth. He developed a new style of arm and leg rhythm and perfect relaxation of the arms as they move forward after a completed stroke which gives a maximum of speed with less energy. He developed the idea that a real swimming form is of utmost importance."

Irving S. Mumford, Sr., of Ocean City is the peninsula's champion daily swimmer for he has missed only one dip in the Atlantic Ocean in the past three years and that was on February 2, this year, when the ocean was frozen over for about half a mile at sea. To quote Mr. Mumford, "I haven't had a cold in three years and my seven children have never had any catarrhal trouble. I am sixty-six years old and even in the coldest weather I walk barefooted down to the beach through the snow, leave my trunks on the boardwalk and go swimming in my birthday suit. I believe people would feel better if they could take a cold salt water shower or dip every day."

Again this year, several of the Eastern Shore communities will avail themselves of the opportunity of having Life Saving and First Aid classes through the Adult Education Program. You'd be surprised at the number of watermen on the Eastern Shore who do not know the first stroke.

Swimming can hardly be mentioned without a dive in the same breath but not much is being said in favor of diving for I remember the boy whose brother "clim' a tree, dove in the creek, and sprung his neck."

The fastest swimmer moves five times slower than fastest dash runner. Why is it easy for a fat man to float? And do you remember Annette Kellerman, Gertrude Ederle, Helen Morgan, Johnny Weissmuller, the Cannon girl who swam across the Bay, the swim from Miles River Bridge to St. Michaels? Who knows of others? President Roosevelt keeps in condition by swimming regularly in the White House pool. There's a fine article on swimming in the Saturday Evening Post of May 30.

Among the enthusiasts are Isabelle Walton, Perryville; Mary Collins, Vienna; Howard Cartwright and Robert Lee Tawes, Crisfield; and Ruth Russell of Oxford. In other sections there are associations interested in developing swimming but this column knows of none on the Peninsula.

From swimming one learns self-control, poise, overcomes fear and should learn first aid. Swimming gives every muscle in the body exercise. Five times you'll find swim in the Bible while swimmer appears only once.

There's enough water in and around the Peninsula to float everybody in the East without crowding the fish.

Who'll start a "swimfest." Enjoy the sport. "If you want to learn to swim go jump in a lake, the Bay or the Ocean." It's a good summertime hobby but be careful!

VANDALS DESTROYING HISTORIC MARKERS

During the past few weeks vandals have begun to destroy and take away historic markers erected through the efforts of Mr. J. Alexis Shriver, Director Historical Markers for the State Roads Commission, and already five have been taken from Charles and Prince George's counties.

The Police Department of the District of Columbia has been actively at work endeavoring to check any junk dealers who might have received these markers from the vandals. (The markers being of aluminum are more valuable than they would be if they were of cast iron). The Police Department of Baltimore is issuing a circular to all junk dealers in an endeavor to locate any place where the markers may have been disposed of in Baltimore, and the State Police Department is also cooperating in an effort to see if any of these markers have been disposed of to junk dealers throughout the State.

As the State Roads Commission has placed approximately 200 of these markers in the various counties throughout the State, for the purpose of drawing tourists there to see the points of historic interest, which plan has been most successfully carried out in Virginia and other states, it is a matter of deep concern to each County that markers be erected and protected for the future.

Any information leading to the arrest and conviction of vandals who wish to destroy such valuable assets of the State should be promptly reported to the State Police Department or directly to the State Roads Commission, so that the matter can be followed up without delay.

It should be a matter of pride to the residents of each community to help preserve historic spots, which are not only interesting to us but draw people from all over the United States into each community.

Will you cooperate in helping to preserve these markers?

The markers which have been destroyed are: "Araby," "Rose Hill," "Piscataway," "Governor Smallwood's Home."

The State Roads Commission is planning to erect about 25 additional markers this year.

J. ALEXIS SHRIVER,
 Director Historical Markers, 201 W. Monument Street, Baltimore, Maryland.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICES

"God the Preserver of Man" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, June 14.

The Golden Text will be from Isa. 41:10—"Fear thou not; for I am with thee; be thou not dismayed; for I am thy God; I will strengthen thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness."

Among the citations comprising the Lesson-Sermon will be the following from the Bible—Deut. 2:7—"For the Lord thy God hath blessed thee in all the works of thy hands; he knoweth thy walking through this wilderness; these forty years the Lord thy God hath been with thee; thou hast lacked nothing."

The Lesson Sermon also will include the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, page 494—"Divine Love always has met and always will meet every human need."

THE LOCUST

By UNA CLINGAN RANDS

Nature has her little pleasures,
 And plays her little jokes.
 But it seems that they are not confined
 To us poor human folks.

Just take the seventeen-year locust,
 That emerges and grows wings;
 And with no more apparent aim in life,
 Files up a tree and sings.

Yet, is so much more credit due
 The human race, by rights?
 It spends little time in singing,
 But eats, and grows, and fights!

I thought, as I heard the trilling,
 Out in the woodland trees,
 "If years lapsed twixt each generation,
 Would the human race more please?"

For we take up our parents' burdens,
 Prejudice, fear and hate,
 Till the race is well nigh crippled,
 With the accumulated weight.

Still we should pass on to our children
 The truths we've learned, sublime,
 Or we may have to all stay locusts,
 Or worse—to the end of time.

So let's forget the wrongs now past,
 Reaching forward to the better;
 Forget the hurts that blind and blast
 Neighbor and nation, and hold them fast
 In man-made chain and fetter.

For our thoughts forge these same
 chains that bind,
 But the Truth can make us free,
 And we ought to be as happy
 As a locust in a tree!
