

Motor Boat Wrecked By Blast

Four Passengers Suffer Burns —Girl Rescued After Jumping In River

Four people were burned, a girl was rescued from drowning, and the Conestoga, a 38-foot cabin cruiser was wrecked Sunday night in an explosion off Town Point, Md., while the craft was coming up the Elk river to Chesapeake City.

Another yacht drew alongside the blazing boat and aided in the rescue work.

Louise Brackendorf, Lancaster, Pa., a passenger on the burned yacht, jumped aboard after the blast. Allan Smith, of Brack-Ex, a guest at the Town Point summer cottage of A. B. Williams, saw her struggling in the water and jumped in after her. He got her to the landing and she was revived.

The burned yacht is owned by Magistrate McGann, of Lancaster, Pa. He keeps it at Chesapeake City and Sunday was down the bay with a party of friends. They were returning about 8.30 that night when the explosion occurred. On the boat as passengers also were Miss Jennie Stahl, of Lancaster; Charles Foster and Clarence Reynolds, both of Chesapeake City, and Captain Robert Smith, all of whom suffered burns.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE AND THE BABY

Speaking of the public health nursing service available to young mothers in the counties, Dr. J. H. M. Knox, Jr., Chief of the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the State Department of Health, said: "It has often been said and said truly that a young baby needs medical and nursing care even more than a sick adult does. The baby is entirely dependent upon others for its food, and the routine care given it. If these are satisfactory the baby usually thrives but if any essential matters are neglected, the baby often sickens and may die. "The best way to be sure your baby has the care needed to keep it well, is to secure full directions from your own doctor and to carry them out carefully. As the baby grows, these will be changed from time to time in accordance with its needs. This is the reason it is important for the doctor to see a young baby frequently. He should see the baby at least once a month during the early months. In certain instances, he may ask, through the health officer, that the health department nurse visit the home and assist the mother in carrying out his directions. "For those mothers who employ midwives and are not able to take their babies regularly to the doctor the public health nurse is of special service. The number of nurses employed by the County Health Departments is limited, but in each county a call to the Health Officer requesting that a nurse visit the home to advise an expectant mother or a mother with a young baby will receive prompt attention. "There are many ways in which an experienced public health nurse can be of service to a young mother with her first baby. For instance, she can be helpful in promoting breast nursing. She can also show the mother how to prepare the feedings for the bottle-fed baby from cow's milk, using the utensils in the home. She can show her how to bathe and dress the baby; advise her as to where it should sleep, how to protect it from sick persons in the family and from disease-carrying flies. "Early symptoms of illness which may escape the attention of the mother will be recognized by the nurse who will report to a doctor for directions or will ask him to see the baby in time to prevent serious trouble. "The public health nurse cannot assume the complete care of the baby. She can however be of great value in instructing the mother in general measures of routine care, reporting to the family doctor if there is one, or to the County Health Officer, for any special directions which may be required."

James Biggs, through his attorney, Joshua Clayton, has filed a bill in the Cecil County Court for a divorce from Dora B. Biggs, on the grounds of desertion. They were married in Elkton, October 19th, 1913, and separated in August, 1927. The defendant is a resident of New Jersey.

The State Roads Commission on Tuesday awarded $171,153.70 contract for the concrete surfacing of 3.31 miles of the dual Philadelphia highway, between Golden Ring and Cowentown, to the H. T. Campbell Sons Co., of Towson.

ENTRIES SHOULD BE MADE NOW IN TEN-TON TOMATO CONTEST

Plans for the ninth annual Maryland Ten-Ton Tomato Club Contest are just about complete and any growers desiring to enroll should notify their respective county agents before August 1, it is announced by Herman A. Hunter, Canning Crops Specialist for the University of Maryland Extension Service. The contest is sponsored by the Extension Service in cooperation with the Tri-State Packers' Association and is open and free to all growers in Maryland. Two acres is the minimum that may be entered by any one grower in the contest.

This year the contest will be conducted somewhat differently in that it will be divided into two parts. The first division will be for those growers having two to five acres entered and the second division is for growers having in excess of five acres entered. Gold watches will be awarded the two growers making highest yields per acre in each group and all growers producing ten or more tons of tomatoes to the acre will receive certificates of membership in the Ten-Ton Tomato Club.

The object of the Ten-Ton Tomato Club is to encourage production of higher yields per acre of canning tomatoes. According to Mr. Hunter, experience has shown that in general a higher yield means better quality tomatoes and a resulting increase in profits for the grower.

The winner of first prize last year was A. R. Peterson, of Cambridge, who produced an average of 12.63 tons of tomatoes on 5.03 acres. Russell P. Smith, also of Cambridge, was second, and Frank H. McConnell, of Havre de Grace, was third.

HUSTLERS TAKE TWO

The Rising Sun Hustlers redeemed themselves on Saturday, when they took the Bay View Club, who are leading the league, over the hurdles by the score of 7-3.

After dropping the first two games of the second half the Hustlers gave Mike Brown wonderful support behind his efficient hurling, allowing only six hits. Dud Rawlings in the first inning hit a home run, scoring Little and Reynolds ahead of him, both of whom had singled, being advanced by McCush's sacrifice.

Reda Richardson hit a triple in the third and scored on M. Rawlings' single; McCush hit a home run in the fifth, the ball going deep in left field.

Richardson and Benjamin shared the receiving honors. Emrey played a wonderful game afield for the Sun Club. Lucas, replacing Reynolds, who hurt his hand in the fifth, made a wonderful running catch for the last out in the ninth, receiving a big hand from the spectators.

Lefty Armour, hurling for Bay View, was tapped for 13 bingles, receiving very poor support from his teammates, dropped his first game of the second half.

Ted Brown's Hustlers on Monday evening topped the Triumph Fuse Club (of Elkton) by the score of 11-5. Using the same line-up as in Saturday's game, the Hustlers continued their hard hitting, Dud Rawlings, McCush, Poist, Reynolds leading the way. Ernest Little dropped a long drive into right field for a home run in the fifth.

Jackson, hurling for Elkton, was tapped for 11 hits, receiving poor support from his teammates. Cathers, Sun's starting pitcher, was replaced by Poist in the second inning, who pitched good ball thru-out the game.

Calvert plays at Rising Sun on Saturday.

DR. M. A. JULL NAMED HEAD OF UNIVERSITY POULTRY WORK

Dr. Morley A. Jull, Senior Poultry Husbandman of the United States Department of Agriculture, has been appointed Head of the Poultry Department of the University of Maryland, it is announced by President H. C. Byrd.

Dr. Jull is recognized as one of the outstanding poultry authorities of the World, Dr. Byrd declared, and bringing him to the University of Maryland is in line with the policy of providing greater service to this rapidly growing industry in the State. Poultrymen, themselves, have been extremely active in promoting their industry during the last few years, he stated, and it now has an aggregate value of approximately $15,000,000 annually. Under Dr. Jull's leadership, he said, the educational and research work of the University will be developed to a point which places it on a par with any State in the Country.

Dr. Jull is the author of books on "Poultry Husbandry" and "Poultry Breeding," which are used as standard textbooks in American and foreign colleges. He has contributed extensively also to both scientific and popular publications.

DEATHS

LEVI LOTMAN

Levi Lotman died July 4 at his home near Chesapeake City, aged 47 years. He was a son of Henry Lotman, of Chesapeake City. Surviving are his wife and several children. Interment was made in Bethel cemetery.

THOMAS C. LOCKARD

Thomas C. Lockard, aged 30 years, died July 7, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lockard, in Elk Neck. His parents, six brothers and three sisters survive. Funeral services were held at his late home Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. Interment in the North East M. E. Cemetery.

JOSEPH WEINROTH

Joseph Weinroth, for a number of years engaged in the mercantile business at Cecilton, died July 4, in a Philadelphia hospital, aged 59 years. Mr. Weinroth was a native of Russia, but came to America in 1898 and was naturalized in 1907. He is survived by his wife, who was associated with him in business, and two sons, James Weinroth, Esq., a member of the Cecil County Bar, and Ralph Weinroth, who was graduated from Washington College in June. Interment was made in Mt. Lebanon cemetery, Lansdowne, Pa.

CUSTIS C. PRICE

Custis C. Price, aged 64 years, a prominent farmer of the First district, and member of the Democratic State Central Committee for Cecil County, died about eleven o'clock Tuesday night, July 7, at his home near Warwick from heart trouble.

He is survived by his wife and two sons, Austin C. Price, of Ambler, Pa., and Edgar A. Price, at home; also by a brother, William Price, of Middletown, Del., and two sisters—Mrs. George B. Robertson, of Fayetteville, N. C., and Miss Mary Price of Middletown.

Funeral services were held at his late home Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, and interment made in Bethel Cemetery.

DEATH CLAIMS TWO

A double funeral service was held July 3 at 2624 North Calvert street, Baltimore, for two natives and former residents of Cecil County, Captain John Wallace Grace and his wife, Mrs. Julia W. Hyland Grace.

Capt. Grace was a son of the late Ephraim Grace, of Elk Neck, and was about 87 years of age. In his active life he followed the water, being a master in the service of the Ericsson Line. His death occurred on July 2, two days following that of his wife, who was formerly Miss Julia W. (Minie) Hyland, also of Elk Neck, and who was about 76 years of age. They are survived by a son, Eugene Grace, and a married daughter. Mrs. Grace is also survived by two sisters, Misses Laura and Sallie Hyland, of Baltimore.

HOWARD T. RUHL

Funeral services for Howard T. Ruhl, Maryland educator, who died suddenly on July 7 at Princess Anne, Md., from heart disease, were held at 9 A. M. Friday from St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, with the Rev. Homer F. Bufton, rector, officiating. Interment was in Druid Ridge Cemetery, Baltimore.

Mr. Ruhl was a graduate of Tome Preparatory School, Port Deposit, and St. John's College, Annapolis, and from 1908 until 1911 was principal of Washington High School in Princess Anne. In 1911 he resigned to complete work at Columbia University, New York City, from which institution he received the degree of master of arts.

From 1913 until 1916 he was head of rural work and professor of rural education at the University of Delaware. He then went to Milledge, Ga., as a member of the faculty of Georgia College for Women.

In 1919 he became superintendent of schools of Calvert county, Maryland, and held a similar position in Cecil county from 1925 until his resignation, due to ill health, in 1935.

He was connected with some of Maryland's oldest families. His widow, Elizabeth Poik Dashiell, a joint heir to Teackle Mansion, Princess Anne, one of the show places of the Eastern Shore, is his only survivor.

JAMES CRAIG

James Craig died Sunday, July 5, at a hospital near Baltimore, after an illness of several months. Mr. Craig was a native of Principio but settled in Port Deposit about the time of his marriage. Besides his wife, Mrs. Belle Duke Craig, he is survived by two daughters: Mrs. Albert Thomas and Katherine Craig; three sons, Edwin, James and Joseph. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon with interment in Principio cemetery.

AGED NEGRO WOMAN DIES AT AGE OF 104

Aunt Charlotte Yorker is dead. The aged Negro woman, possessor of records that showed her to be 104 years old was buried yesterday, her funeral largely attended by "white folks," descendants of families she had served before and after the Civil War.

Aunt Charlotte was born in July 1832 as a slave in the family of Judge Ezekiel Chambers, her birth occurring in a servants' wing of "Widehall," the home today of W. W. Hubbard. Her birth was recorded in the Chambers family Bible because it occurred on the same day as that of a daughter born to the famous Maryland judge and his wife. Following a custom of the time the infant slave girl was given to the infant daughter of the master. The Chambers child, however, died when 11 years old and Aunt Charlotte served other members of the Chambers family as a nurse until freed following the Civil War.

Since that time she had acted as a servant in many of the well-known families of this section and loved to recall incidents in the childhood of some of the county's great of the past generation.—Enterprise, Chestertown, Md.

SANDY COVE YACHT CLUB

With a membership of 20 women, summer visitors at Sandy Cove, on the North East river, have organized Sandy Cove Yacht Club.

Miss Lillian Meredith, Philadelphia, member of the Philadelphia Yacht Club, has been elected commodore; Miss Virginia L. Montgomery, vice-commodore; Miss Lois Garlack of Washington, rear commodore and Miss Helen Dunn of Chester, treasurer. Crowds lined the pier and water front Sunday as the "Sandra," flagship, was christened by Miss Margaret Lockhard of Philadelphia. Miss Elsie Ottinger of Baltimore was master of ceremonies.

Plans are under way for the erection of a special club house.

CECIL COUNTY CATTLE SHOW

Friday and Saturday, September 18 and 19, have been selected as the dates for holding the annual Cecil County Cattle Show, on the William duPont farm, at Fair Hill. It will be an open show. Heretofore, only cattle raised in Cecil County were shown. The Jersey breeders will hold a county show on the same farm next month. The average purse for the cattle exhibit has been set at $350 per breed.

MISS ELLA ARCHIBALD

Miss Ella Archibald, aged about 80 years, died July 1, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Cornelia Thompson, Baltimore. Miss Archibald had been in Port Deposit attending some business during the early part of the previous week and suffered a stroke shortly after her return to Baltimore. Funeral services were held at the Patterson funeral home, the Rev. H. D. McDade officiating. Interment in Hopewell cemetery.

MRS. AMELIA DEAN

Mrs. Amelia Dean, 86 years old, a former resident of Elkton, widow of William P. Dean, died Saturday night at the home of a daughter, Mrs. James Davis, 904 West Ninth Street, Wilmington, Del., where she had been living ten years. She had been ill three months. In addition to Mrs. Davis, she is survived by a foster son, Harry Laws; a granddaughter, Mrs. Ralph S. Keenan; a grandson, Clifton Laks; a great-grandson, Ralph S. Keenan, Jr.; a brother, John Cunningham, Newark, and a sister, Mrs. H. H. Gallaher, Wilmington.

The funeral took place from the Pippin Funeral Home, Elkton, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in the Methodist Episcopal Church cemetery at Elkton.

EDWARD CULLUM KYLE

Edward Cullum Kyle, aged 84 years, died early Saturday morning, at the home of his son, William Kyle, near Rowlandville, from a complication of diseases.

The deceased, a son of Rev. W. W. Kyle, was born in York county, Pa. Years ago he was employed at the plant of the McCullough Iron Co., in North East, as a puddler, when that company was a flourishing industry with plants at North East, Rowlandville and West Amwell, in Cecil county. Almost his entire life was spent in Cecil county.

Surviving are two sons, William Kyle, with whom he made his home; Philip R. Kyle, of Rising Sun; one daughter, Mrs. Naomi Duff, of Rowlandville; one stepdaughter, Mrs. May Smith, of Port Deposit; also two half brothers, Harry Kyle, of Chester, Pa., and Pusey Kyle, of near Colora.

Funeral services were held at the Tyson Funeral Home, Rising Sun, Monday afternoon, and interment made in Zion M. E. cemetery.

UNIVERSITY SUMMER SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

Twenty-five states and the District of Columbia are represented on the University of Maryland campus in the Summer School registration of over a thousand students.

The six weeks session, which is planned to meet the needs of teachers in service, and of students desiring to satisfy the requirements for undergraduate and graduate degrees, has attracted teachers from all over the country. Over six hundred of the registrants are principals of schools and school teachers while the remaining four hundred are divided into graduate and undergraduate students.

Two hundred and seventeen students from the District of Columbia are attending, one hundred and seven of them teachers. Baltimore city has a total of 73, while the entire state of Maryland covers 749 of the students.

Following are the states represented: Washington, 1; Texas, 1; Wyoming, 1; California, 1; North Carolina, 6; Virginia, 15; New York, 13; New Jersey, 8; South Carolina, 3; Pennsylvania, 6; Indiana, 1; West Va., 10; Connecticut, 1; Maine, 2; Wisconsin, 1; Ohio, 2; Florida, 2; Mississippi, 2; Georgia, 2; Delaware, 4; Montana, 1; Nebraska, 1; Missouri, 1; Alabama, 1.

Prince George's County leads the twenty-three counties of Maryland with a registration of 161 students, seventy-eight of whom are teachers, Montgomery, with 123 and Allegany, with 84 rank second and third.

Following are the county figures: Prince George's, 151; Montgomery, 123; Charles, 17; St. Mary's, 10; Allegany, 84; Washington, 34; Carroll, 12; Dorchester, 21; Anne Arundel, 30; Harford, 15; Queen Anne, 14; Howard, 21; Kent, 11; Frederick, 38; Caroline, 2; Worcester, 13; Talbot, 18; Somerset, 18; Garrett, 13; Wicomico, 20, and Cecil 13.

CONTROL OF JAPANESE BEETLE DESCRIBED BY SPECIALIST

Control of the Japanese beetle is difficult because of the wide range of plants upon which it feeds, according to Dr. George S. Langford, Specialist in Insect Control for the Maryland Extension Service. Community effort and cooperation are a valuable adjunct to individual effort, he states.

Five control measures recommended by Dr. Langford are, spraying, use of traps, jarring, soil treatment and by planting plans.

It is possible, he says, to protect the foliage of most plants by keeping them covered thoroughly with a deposit of spray residue. The first application of spray should be made around June 25 and followed with two or three additional applications at weekly or ten-day intervals. Use of a spray made with one pound of hydrated lime in three gallons of water is advised for grapes, small fruits and early ripening tree fruits, all portions of the foliage being kept covered. Corn may be protected by dusting the tips of ears with fine hydrated lime when the plants start to silk.

Ornamental plants, such as shrubs and shade trees, may be protected by spraying with 4 pounds of oleate coated arsenate of lead paste to 50 gallons of water. If this is not available, common arsenate of lead, 2 pounds and wheat flour 2 pounds in 50 gallons of water may be used.

For tender foliage and flowers, Dr. Langford advises use of pyrethrum soap sprays, several of which are on the market, he says. These are to be used according to the manufacturer's direction. A kill may be obtained, it is stated, by spraying with 1 pound of common soap dissolved in 3 or 4 gallons of water.

Several types of traps are manufactured and marketed in which thousands of beetles may be caught. They are attracted to the traps by use of geraniol.

If heavily infested plants are jarred early in the morning, before the beetles are active, large numbers can be caught in sheets and destroyed.

A lawn may be made immune to injury by Japanese beetle grubs by treating it with arsenate of lead. Further information regarding this pest and control measures may be obtained by writing to the State Entomologist, University of Maryland, College Park, Maryland.
