Duty to Neighbor

There is an idea abroad among moral people that they should make their neighbors good. One person I have to make good: myself. But my duty to my neighbor is much more nearly expressed by saying that I have to make him happy if I may.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Greenberg's Return

HANK GREENBERG doesn't expect to leave army life for another couple of weeks. I ran across the towering slugger the other day and he confessed that he had never felt better in his life. Hank will be 31 years old this impending January, and his army release means his return to a baseball career well in advance of the next spring training season.

Hank looked lean and hard and about five years younger than he looked in Florida last spring. "I feel that way," he said. "Even on my way to 31."

I asked Greenberg about various reports that he was to be traded or sold to the Red Sox.

"I haven't heard a word about it," he said. "Detroit is a great baseball town and so is Boston. Walter Briggs and Tom Yawkey are both fine owners to work for. My main idea after I leave the army is to pick up where I left off in 1940, to keep in shape and try for a big year."

It may be recalled that in 1940 the Tiger gunner batted .340, blew himself to 41 home runs and 150 runs driven home—one of his greatest years. At the age of 31 he should be close to his prime next spring. Certainly the few months he missed from baseball last summer should have no stumping effect upon his 1942 play.

I doubt that the Tigers will either trade or sell him, considering the fact that Hank Hank was one of the main answers to a Tiger pennant in 1940.

The Hot Stove

Even the loud noises that rise from so many packed football stands can't quite drown out early gossip around the Old Stove at the edge of the winter league.

Tom Yawkey and Joe Cronin are still sighing for a few more pitchers. Which is like sighing for a few more millions.

The Red Sox were 20 games away from the top when the Yankees packed away the pennant last September, and the Yankees show no signs of caving in, skidding or diving overboard. Only the act of taking another pennant for granted can slow them down, and Joe McCarthy isn't the fellow to let that happen.

In the meanwhile, the Red Sox are growing older, year by year. Jimmy Fox, Cronin and others are no longer bounding rookies. There are other gaps to fill as well as the pitching, where even a million dollars might not be enough.

Winter Golf Training

Northern golfers are wondering about the best methods of building up a better game for next year, since hope still springs eternal in the golfing breast.

One method is the indoor school. Another can be used in the home apartment, provided there is space enough to swing a club.

One common weakness among most golfers is the collapse of the left hand and wrist before impact, as the right hand takes control. Right-hand action is important, but there also must be a strong supporting left hand and left side to keep the club face on its proper line.

The Florida Trek

It is only a matter of a few weeks now before golf's leading stars will be moving into Florida to open another 10,000-mile campaign. The first big show comes off at Miami in December, with $10,000 on tap for the money finishers, and from there swings to California and back via Arizona, Texas and Louisiana.

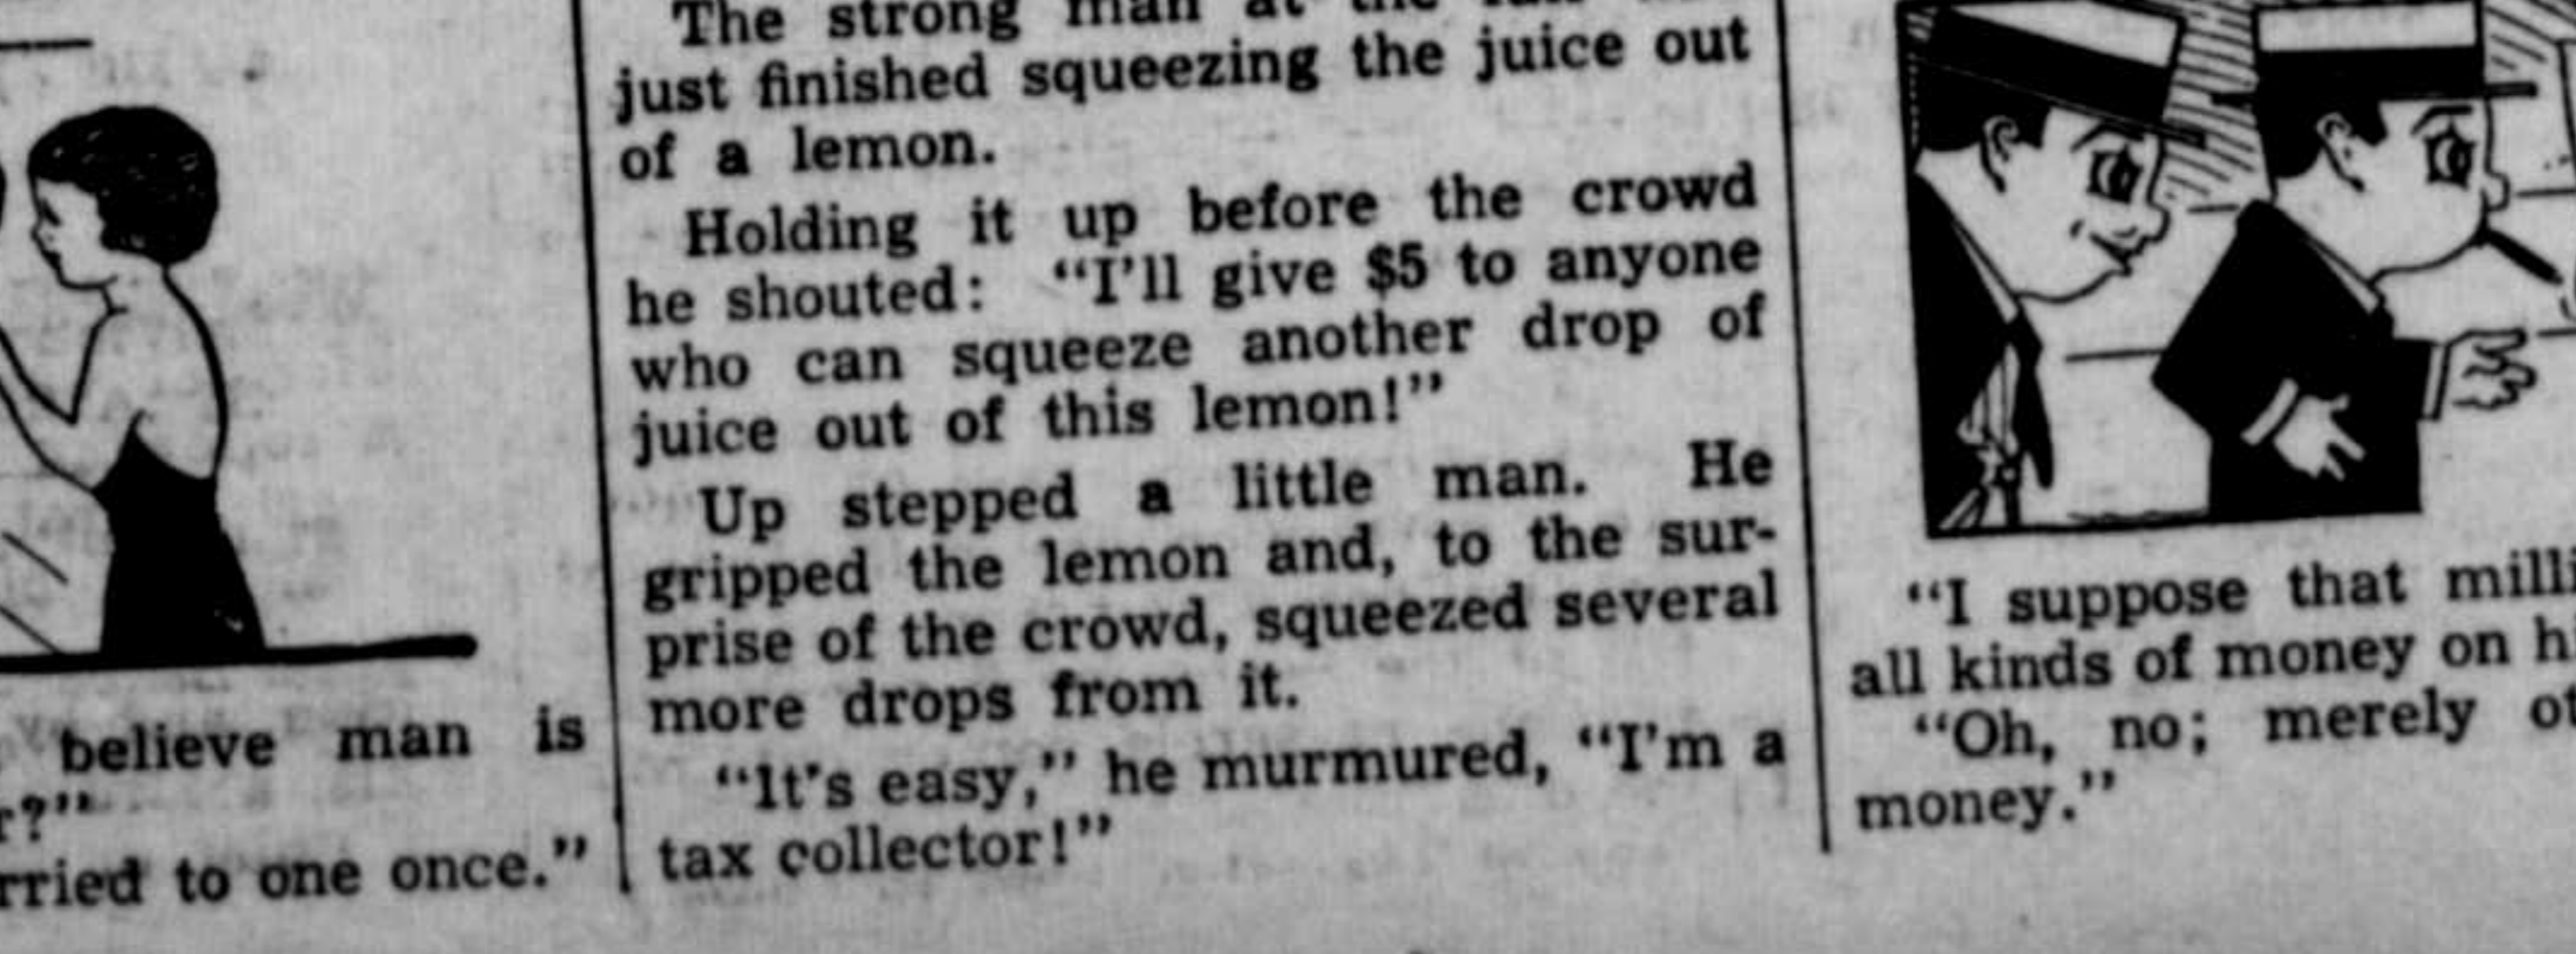

This new campaign figures to be the most interesting of them all.

In the first place, there is Ben Hogan's dream of starting another long in-the-money parade, ended last fall after 56 successful tournaments. Ben is resting from the tournament grind at this moment, but not from practice. In this respect the slight Texan is the hardest worker of the lot. I've seen him play short 40 and 50-yard pitches for an hour at a time.

In the second place, the pace set by Craig Wood and Sammy Sneed will call for more than passing observation.

IT'S RACE SEASON DOWN HERE in Maryland
Hearts are beating in time to the swift tattoo of flying hooves on the many famous Maryland tracks! The sporting crowd is thronging the lobby of the largest and newest hotel in the city. To enjoy the best that Baltimore offers, plan to stay at the Lord Baltimore, the hotel that is "Hot to Most Who Visit Baltimore."

KNOWLEDGE

The strong man at the fair had just finished squeezing the juice out of a lemon. Holding it up before the crowd he shouted: "I'll give $5 to anyone who can squeeze another drop of juice out of this lemon!" Up stepped a little man. He gripped the lemon and, to the surprise of the crowd, squeezed several more drops from it. "It's easy," he murmured, "I'm a tax collector!"

HOW NICE

"I suppose that millionaire spent all kinds of money on his mansion?" "Oh, no; merely other people's money."
