Help Wage War On Tuberculosis Opportunity Offered To Aid In Combat- ing Infection

"Here's another chance for every body to help in the fight against tuberculosis," Dr. R. H. Riley, Director of the State Department of Health said in calling attention to the opening of the annual sale of Christmas seals for the benefit of the various services used in the care, control, and prevention of tuberculosis. The nation-wide sale—the thirty-fifth annual one opens a few days after Thanksgiving and continues until the end of December.

The sale in Maryland will be conducted, as usual, under the direction of the State Tuberculosis Association. The money derived from the sale of the seals will be used to finance the various activities conducted jointly by the State, Baltimore City and the County Health Departments and the Tuberculosis Association.

"It would be difficult to estimate the number of people in Maryland who have benefited either directly or indirectly through the special services made possible in the thirty-five years since the seals have been used as a source of revenue," Dr. Riley continued, in urging everybody to lay in a generous supply of the little stickers. "Last year, for example, nearly 6,000 people attended the clinics held in the counties and many more were reached through the services in Baltimore City, but far beyond that number were benefited through follow-up services in the homes of persons ill with the disease or who have been in contact with it; through activities in the schools; and in countless other ways.

"Both sickness and deaths from tuberculosis have been greatly reduced in Maryland in the last thirty-five years. There were 2,610 deaths from the disease in the State in 1906; last year—1940—there were only half as many, 1,302. In 1906, tuberculosis was responsible for one death in every eight from all causes and at all ages; last year it was responsible for one death in every 17 in the State. These changes have been brought about by the combined work of all agencies, public and private, and through better living conditions as well as medical care.

"We have gone a long way, but we have a long hard fight ahead of us, before the task will be accomplished and it will need the hard work and help of every means within our power. The pictures on this year's seal, of a light house with its great beacon throwing light into unseemly rocks and dangers and showing the way to safe harbors, symbolizes the way in which science and skilled care are helping to combat the dangers of tuberculosis.

"With the seals costing only a penny a piece, every one of us, can have a share in this fight. Last year's sale of the Christmas seals was the most successful in the long history of the State Tuberculosis Association. If we all help we can make this year's sale even better. Let's make it a real Victory Year in our fight against tuberculosis."

Academy Celebrates Thanksgiving Day With Victory

West Nottingham Academy's Thanksgiving Day football game was a spectacular duel between two ace forward passers. Nottingham's Bob Jenkins and Charlotte Hall Military Academy's Frank Cady, in which the Nottingham quarterback had the edge. The maroon won, 40 to 7.

Jenkins pitched three touchdowns, all to left and Marvin Fullmer. One in the first quarter went 12 yards. Another in the second period counted from the Charlotte Hall 3-yard line and the last one in the final count scored from the Charlotte Hall 37.

Cady cashed in only once—in the second quarter. Noting from his position in the Charlotte Hall 28-yard line that the Nottingham entries were momentarily dosing, Cady tossed a "sleeper" pass to quarterback Junior Dyson near the sideline. A few seconds later the maroon guards awoke to see Dyson seampiering un molested across their goal line 72 yards away.

For Nottingham left halfback Gene Carroll and his substitute, Maney Lingenfelter, each counted in the second period on end sweeps of 88 yards and 21 yards, respectively. Bob Hillis, of Baltimore, substituting for Frans Holscher at right halfback, went over on a reverse from the Charlotte Hall seven in the third period.

DRAFT BOARD AIDS NAMED

At the request of the War Department Governor O'Connor has appointed "coordinators" for the selective service boards of Maryland, whose duties will be to assist in the "re-employment of retiring service men".

Upon being released from the service, through cooperation of the national Government, each man will be informed of the address of the re-employment coordinator designated by the Governor for his particular selective service area.

The coordinators will explain to the returned men plans whereby they can obtain reemployment with former employers, if possible.

In cases where their old positions no longer are available, the men will be given information as to available employment. For this purpose, the offices of the Maryland State Employment Service will be at the disposal of the selective service system.

"Regular reports will be submitted to reemployment coordinators each local board, showing the placements made of various men who have been referred to the board," the Governor's announcement said.

"At the end of each month, a list of all returned men who have not been placed will be given to the coordinator so that extra effort can be exercised to obtain employment for them."

"Millions For Defense"

With these ringing words, Chas. Coatesworth Pinckney, United States Ambassador to France, stated the foreign policy of our country almost 150 years ago. Yet today, all of us are paying tribute to the greatest pirate and outlaw of all times—Tuberculosis.

Of prime importance in any tuberculosis control program are clinics, as here the disease is found. During the year, Cecil County had 10 of these free clinics, in which 185 of our fellow citizens were examined. 117 were free of tuberculosis but 12 were found to be positive cases, while the remainder were either inactive or suspects.

These clinics are protecting your home and your children from this communicable disease. They must be kept going.

By purchasing Christmas Seals, which sell for a penny a piece or one dollar a sheet, you are aiding in the defense of your home. Won't you help?

This publication is published through the cooperation of over 600 American universities and colleges. It is the only means of national recognition for graduates which is devoid of politics, fees, and dues. Several students from accredited colleges are selected each year, by an unprejudiced committee, for their biographies to appear in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges". These books are placed in the hands of hundreds of companies and others who annually recruit outstanding students for employments.

The purpose of "Who's Who" is to serve as an incentive for students to get the most out of their college careers, as a means of compensation to students for what they have already done, as a recommendation to the business world; and as a standard of measurement for students.
