1860 Lines

SIDE TWO

without realizing for ourselves and each other that the things around us are transitory and unsatisfying. I feel solicitous about your health. and hope you are better than when Galloway left. He reported you as looking wearied. I am looking still for a carriage but not with as much anxiety as I ought I am afraid. I see nothing but that which is being furnished at Watsons what meets your views. That does entirely. Leather the price wheel is $325. It will be light and commodious. I think it very much like Jamies. - This morning Miss Morris paid me $100. Her account is pretty correct the $ she owes me the price of the coal which I am to take out in Galloways dinners or sundays. - She gave notice of her intention to give up the house at the end of the year. She said Charlotte and Sally had not fully determined but the had as they should be entirely to dispose during the summer and had already paid $300 this year. I expressed my great regret at this. and told her I hoped her sisters would inform me as soon as possible what their determination is - Misses and Thobs are gradually creeping up there are now three of the houses between 12 & 13th being changed - one for a Jewellers Establishment with D. Cheapmans - two Elegant store fronts - one for a Carriage Depository - (Mr Cochrans) and one of the houses on the row which stands back on the North side above 12th I am feeling very tranquil. God has led us and cared for us thus far not because we deserved his goodness. but merely of his grace. Let unworthy - sad may I trust them to tell - Lord enable me to love him more and serve him better. Not that I could deserve more at his hand. It shall still be my delight to owe every thing to his mercy and goodness. But oh I do long to more like him - to be free from the hateful feelings and passions which mar my happiness & bring me to the entrance of the outer court - I took tea the evening at Ingleside. Polly looks well & they all desired their love to you & many - An opportunity has offered of an Escort for Sally Chester. She is enjoying the country very much. Wonders how any one can live in town