The Farmer.

A Few Hints on Wheat Culture.

Farmers are beginning to think about preparing their ground for wheat. A few words on the subject may not be inappropriate.—When the ground is properly prepared, and the seed properly sown—the wheat crop, on farms distant from market, is one of the most profitable. There is but little wheat put in as it ought to be. In too many cases the ground is plowed but once and then but three or four inches in depth. Can a heavy crop be expected from such a preparation? The soil should be plowed to the depth of at least 12 inches, and it should be plowed two or three inches before the seed is sown. Some practise sub-soiling, and say that it pays them abundantly. By this depth of plowing not only is there more plant food furnished—not only can the roots run down deeper in the soil, and thus be able to better withstand the upheaving of the earth by the winter frosts—not only can they better endure the severe drouths of the succeeding spring (such as we have just passed through); but what is more important than all, the great depth of soil furnishes an excellent drainage for the winter rains, allowing the water to work down into the soil, and to gradually work off, thus preventing winter-killing by the plants being heaved out by the constant thawing and freezing, and the upheaval of the soil, where it is moist, exposing the roots of the plants to the drying winds and cutting frost. Not a winter passes but in some section or other, or in all sections, we hear that the wheat is "winter-killed." And so it is, when put in shallow, but, when put in properly no such complaint will be heard.

In selecting ground for wheat, choose that which is rolling and naturally well drained. In the Northern climate, where snow falls and lays upon the ground all winter, this is not so important. But here, where we have rain instead of snow, where it thaws one day and freezes the next, or does both on the same day—it is a matter of the first importance. It is also well to plow the ground in what are termed back furrows, leaving open or water furrows to carry off the surplus water.

We urge the value of the drill in putting in the seed. It can certainly be done more evenly, and the plants will be less liable to be heaved out. The yield will also prove greater.

Seed is a matter of the first importance.—None but the plumpest and best should ever be used. It should be fanned and re-fanned, and all the foul seed and light kernels blown from it. Then it should be washed in lime water, or other pickle, removing everything from the kernel that may affect the health of the plant.

The little extra labor used in cleansing and purifying the seed, will reward one a hundred-fold. Then cheat or chess, oats, smut, &c., will be strangers to the coming crop, the succeeding spring, and the field will be a pleasant sight to behold.

Oiling and Blacking Harness.

At this season the farmer should overhaul, repair, oil and black his harness, so they will be pliable in the cold weather, and durable and safe. A correspondent of the Scientific American gives the following method:

In the first place, I subject the harness to one or two coats (as the leather may need) of lampblack and castor oil, warmed sufficiently to make it penetrate the stock readily.—Then I make about two quarts of warm soap suds, and with a sponge wash the harness.—When dry, rub it over with a mixture of oil and tallow, equal parts with sufficient lampblack to give it color, or what is better, Prussian blue, which gives it a new and fresh look. This compound should be applied sparingly and well rubbed in, which can be quickly done, and will leave a smooth and clean surface.

"By saturating the stock, in the first place, with oil, the soap and water are prevented from penetrating it in process of washing.—When leather is permitted to absorb water or soap it has an ultimate tendency to harden it. When the harness is washed first (as is generally the case) the water repels the oil; consequently, in the one case, you have the oil inside of the stock, and in the other you have the soap and water. By oiling first, it softens the dirt so that it can be washed off in at least one half the time required when washed before oiling, and also saves the 'scraping' process, which defaces the grain of the leather. It will remain soft much longer from the fact of its being penetrated with oil. The whole process can be accomplished without the delay of waiting for it to dry. Consequently the harness can be oiled in much less time, will remain soft longer, and look better than when cleaned by the old method. And I consider these reasons of sufficient importance for every one having a harness to give this method a fair trial."

The English patent harness blacking, which is commended for keeping leather soft, and giving it a good polish, is made by dissolving together over a slow fire three ounces of turpentine, two ounces of white wax, then add one ounce of ivory black and one drachm of indigo, to be well pulverized and mixed together. When the wax and turpentine are dissolved, add the ivory black and indigo, and stir till cold. Apply very thin and brush afterwards.

How Dairy Stock Run Down.

Dairymen complain that they cannot afford to raise their calves, that it is cheaper to buy cows to replenish their stock than to raise them. This may be so when they look at the matter of present expenditure of dollars and cents. But it is quite questionable whether the rule holds good to the end, whether the dairymen, or indeed farmers generally, could not be expending $50 in raising a calf until it becomes a cow, start it on its productive existence in an improved condition so as to make a profit on the investment. As it is true that an animal starved and stunted in its early life, never regains what has been lost, so is it true that one fed and encouraged in its period of growth may be made better and more productive throughout life. If the present destruction of calves for the market is persisted in, the present scarcity of good cows must increase, and the supply to which the dairymen look to replenish their stock must decrease, and as a consequence prices must advance. Further, as the best calves are taken for the knife and the poorest retained, another element is added to those which make up the sum of the deficiency.

Corn Fodder.

Mr Alexander Reed, of Lockhaven, Clinton county, Pennsylvania, reports that his practice is to cut up his corn as late as he can, and avoid frost. After husking, the stalks are bound and carefully shocked till cured, then stowed in barn. They are prepared for feed as follows: Each morning and evening the quantity needed for one feeding is cut with a "power cutter," put in a tight box with a mixture of meal bran sprinkled in; boiling water is then poured on, and the box closed with a tight lid, so as to shut out both heat and steam. That steamed at night is warm when fed in the morning, and that in the morning when fed in the afternoon. Mr Reed states that, prepared in this way, the cows eat all the butts, a ton will produce more and much better milk for butter than a ton of the best hay prepared in the same way.

Novel Butter-Cooler.—A simple mode of keeping butter in warm weather, where ice is not handy, is to invert a common flower-pot over the butter, with some water in the dish in which it is laid. The orifice at the bottom may be corked or not. The porousness of the earthenware will keep the butter cool.

You Can do Your Own Painting,

Bradley's Patent Enamel Paint,
The Most Economical, Beautiful and Durable.

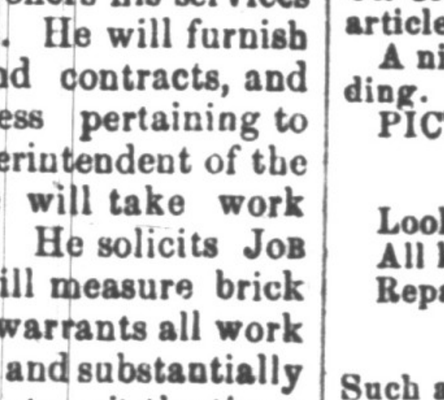

These Paints are composed of PURE WHITE LEAD, ZINC and LINSEED OIL, with other materials which add greatly to the durability, elasticity, beauty and strength of the Paint. The whole are chemically combined, so that the pigments are held in permanent solution, thus forming a new compound which dries upon the surface and adheres firmly to it, thus forming a smooth, glossy, firm, elastic and durable Paint. The Oil, which is the real life of the Paint, cannot leave it and be absorbed by the substance to which it is applied, as it does in paints mixed in the ordinary way, and thus leave the pigment dead and brittle, to wash and rub off in a few months, or at farthest in three or four years. This Paint is unaffected by changes of temperature, is perfectly impervious to the action of water, is well adapted to all classes of work, and is in every way a better Paint for either INSIDE or OUTSIDE WORK or BOAT PAINTING, than any other Paint known to the trade, and will last at least THREE TIMES AS LONG AS THE BEST LEAD AND OIL MIXED IN THE ORDINARY WAY.

THIS preparation is the result of considerable thought and experiment. Twelve years having been devoted to its preparation, it is now all that the horse needs. It will regulate Digestion, Purify the Blood, and promote General Health. It will destroy and prevent an accumulation of Worm in the Maw, which so often proves fatal, and is besides a great consumer of the nutritious elements of the food eaten by the Horse.—Containing nothing in any way injurious, it is the ounce of preventative which is worth the pound of cure. It saves food and prolongs life, and has met with the highest approval of all who have ever used it. Sold wholesale by CANBY, GILPIN & Co., Cor. Light and Lombard Sts., Baltimore, Md., and at retail by all country store-keepers.—Ask your dealer for it, and send for circulars, containing valuable certificates and full information, which will be furnished free.

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored.

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of SPERMATORRHŒA, or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, CONSUMPTION, EPILEPSY, and FITS, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

☞ This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, postpaid on receipt of six cents, or two post stamps.

Also, Dr. Culverwell's "Marriage Guide," price 50 cents.
