We are pleased to announce the restoration to health of our highly esteemed citizen, Dr. Alexander Matthews. His visit to Washington proved a great benefit, and we extend him our best wishes for a long and happy life. He has passed his best days in Oxford in relieving the sufferings of the sick, and it can be truly said of him that the wants of others were always his first care. May the deeds of such a useful life be reflected upon the minds of the rising generation, printing thereupon lessons worthy of imitation.

The public school here has lately been supplemented with another teacher, Miss M. Addie Dean, making the faculty to number six.

On Monday next the mail by stage between Easton and St. Michaels, and the one from Royal Oak, will be superseded by service twice a day on the railroad. This arrangement will cut off a morning mail from, and an afternoon mail to, Baltimore on Sunday by Choptank steamers, but in lieu thereof gives us access to the afternoon mail by rail from Easton and communication with Easton and the rest of the county early in the day, instead of at night for Easton and the day after for other parts, as they are now carried. The whole system will be changed for further benefits, on opening through to Baltimore in the summer.

The deaths of two octogenarians occurred here on Saturday last. Mrs. Rebecca Sheeler, sister of the late Philemon T. Hambleton, died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Alfred H. Hambleton, aged 80 years. She was buried in Olivet Cemetery on Sunday afternoon.

It was a coincidence that Mr. R.'s birth, marriage and death each occurred in March, the dates being 6th, 17th and 29th, respectively.

A resolution was offered by Mr. Long protesting against the appointment of any one as principal of the State Normal School who is not a practical school teacher, by the State board of education, and viewing with alarm the introduction of politics or politicians in the school system of Maryland. Professors Long, Murdaugh and Pattison were appointed a committee to lay the resolution before the State board of education.

A communication was received from the Easton Gazette, and a committee appointed to consider the proposition.

The association adjourned to meet again at St. Michaels on Friday, May 23d, 1890.

Penetrating the "Dark Continent."

For some time past the attention of the reading public has been attracted to the number of wonderful cures wrought by certain Family Specifics, and having found these Specifics of vast usefulness in our own family, we regard it as a pleasant duty to make mention of the fact that two of them, Nos. One and Seven for coughs, colds and sore throats, have saved our patrons hundreds of dollars in doctor's bills. It is needless to state whose Specifics these are. Dr. Humphreys of New York is too well known as a learned and scientific character to require personal mention in Europe or America. The curative properties of his wonderful Specifics are, and have been for years, the delight and wonder of the people of 2 continents, and recently they have made their way into Africa. Indeed, they are everywhere received with confidence, hence we regard it the imperative duty of every mother to have a Family Case of them and a Book of Directions for their use, constantly at hand.—Western Broker, Chicago.

FARMERS' COLUMN.

Put white butter and yellow butter side by side and tell the consumer that one is artificially colored, and he will take the colored article 999,999 times in 1,000,000. Let nobody worry about the consumer being deceived. He is after the "yaller."

Apple, peach, plum and cherry trees see along boundary lines of farms interfere very little with cultivation, and their fruit is produced almost without cost after the trees are well established, while, at the same time, they serve a useful purpose as screens to mitigate the force of driving storms.

A Lincoln, Neb., special says: "Gov. Thayer has addressed an open letter to the general managers of the Burlington, the Northwestern, the Missouri Pacific, the Union Pacific, the Rock Island and the Omaha Railroads urging them to put into effect a rate on corn at least five cents per hundred lower than that in force."

The hardest blow received by the jute trust was delivered by the farmers of Georgia. According to the report of the State Agricultural Department, over one-half of the last cotton crop in that State was wrapped in cotton bagging. The Mobile Register says: "Actions like this will do farmers more good than can be derived from any amount of conventions and platforms."

No wonder corn is cheap in Kansas. The Wichita Daily Journal of a recent issue tells of an ear of corn, grown in that State by a man named Cooper, that measured twenty-three and one-half inches in length and twelve and one-third inches in circumference at the base. "Mammoth" is a good name for that production. It was the largest ear of corn raised in the whole country.

A Minnesota farmer says he picks his seed corn as soon as the corn is fit to cut up. He husks it and lays it in the chamber to dry, and does not care if it does not get so very dry. Then, when the weather gets cold, he boxes it up and puts it in the cellar. If you have a mouse-tight cellar, it can stand in open barrels just as well. He has tried it for six years, and it has not failed him once yet. And he says it will come up more quickly than corn kept bone-dry all winter.

The executive committee of the Farmers' Association of South Carolina has issued an address to the Democracy of the State, charging the element of the party now governing the State with gross mismanagement, extravagance and inefficiency, and declaring that the State never has had a Republican form of government, but has been dominated and ruled by an "aristocratic oligarchy." A call has been issued for a convention of Democratic farmers to meet on May 27 to nominate a full State ticket.

The New York Star says: The report of the State Assessors to the Legislature furnishes evidence of a startling depreciation in the value of the farms in the State.

It is an established fact that in many localities the annual income from agricultural lands is insufficient to meet the interest on the mortgages upon them. Consequently mortgages are being foreclosed in great numbers, and farmers are being evicted by a process not less hard in its operation than eviction by Irish landlords.

Of course, the degree of hardship varies in different localities, with the varying conditions that obtain in them. There are cases where values have been increased, but such are almost exclusively in the vicinity of cities, where it pays to conduct the business of "truck" farming. The ordinary farmer, whose land is devoted to staple crops, sees his fortunes steadily decreasing.

A few instances show how steady is the depreciation. In Albany county, outside of the three cities, the decreased valuation is $330,000. In Chenango—a purely farming region—the assessed valuation in 1889 was $8,000,000 less than in 1887. In Genesee, a depreciation of one-third has occurred in the last twelve years, and in Greene property has been marked down from 20 to 15 per cent. during the same period.

About Pea Culture.

Having had so many inquiries how to grow peas I take this method in giving my past experience in pea culture. My first thing is to start a compost heap. I put in two loads of ditch bank or fence row to one load of stable manure. This I put in layers from two to three inches in depth, then I spread over this with good ashes an average of a peck to each load, as soon as I can after the first of January. I then haul out and put in piles in the field from 26 to 50 loads in a pile. In hauling it out I have them to use a hoe and dig from top to bottom. This with rehandling mixes the stable manure, fence row and ashes thoroughly; I always plow in the fall; in the spring I replow and drag until it is in complete order. I ran my rows 4 foot wide about the depth I would plow to plant corn; then sow about 1 bushel of peas to the acre in furrows, then I put from 20 to 25 loads of this compost heap in the furrows to the acre, then I use about two hundred pounds of Woolley's No. 2 Phosphate sowed on top of the manure to the acre, I then cover with a plow. Heretofore I have hooked a pair of horses to a railroad tie and drag over the ground to level it. I have a smoothing harrow put up that I am using now that leaves the ground in much better order than the tie. As soon as the peas are up I use cultivators. After the first working we use flukes as long as we can get through them.—W. S. Kinney, in Seaford Review.

A colored man suddenly and mysteriously disappeared from the steamer Joppa Saturday night of last week while the steamer was lying at the wharf at Denton. The man was an employe of the boat and was sent to a store in the town to make some purchases. He has not been seen since he started on the errand. The night was dark and stormy, and it is supposed that he fell overboard.

The following are the rates for work on the roads of Caroline county for the present year as arranged by the commissioners: Cart and horse per day, 75 cents; plow and two horses or mules per day, $1.50; able-bodied man not less than 18 years of age, 90 cents per day; drag harrow scraper or roller, with two horses or mules per day, $1.50; bridge plank, per hundred feet, $1.87½; road supervisors, 20 cents per man for employes, but no allowance will be made on all over five.

Horace Adams, a stock dealer of Georgetown, Del., died suddenly on a train just west of Downingtown, Pa., a night or two ago. He had been to Texas and purchased a car load of mules, and was on his way home when stricken, dying instantly. An inquest was held today, the jury rendering a verdict of death from heart trouble. He was a married man, 35 years of age. His father is Joseph T. Adams, prothonotary of Sussex county. The body was forwarded to his relatives for burial.

About 500 persons, representing every section of Caroline county, met at Denton on Tuesday afternoon to discuss the practicability of aiding the proposed Greensborough and Federalsburg R. R. J. M. McCarter, of Preston, was made chairman, and J. Boon Dukes, of Denton, secretary. Col. P. W. Downes submitted the offer of the Pennsylvania railroad as follows: The company agrees to furnish and build the road if the county will give the right of way and $60,000 to be secured by first mortgage on that portion of the road which may be in the county. Col. R. J. Bradley, E. W. Williamson, J. W. Kerr and others addressed the meeting. The probability is that the terms will be accepted. There will probably be a special election to determine the matter.

Next we want to call special attention to our

Ladies', Misses' and Children's Coat Department.

We can show the largest line of these goods, more Patterns and Handsomer Styles than can be found with any competitor in town. We are receiving New Goods in this Department every day, so what you see here today is not here tomorrow, and what we have tomorrow in many cases is not here today.

We are showing the best assorted and largest stock of

Ready-Made Clothing, FOR Men, Boys and Children,

This fall than ever before, because we have a better Show Room to display them. We have some very cheap goods in this department and it will well pay every purchaser to give us a look.

In Carpets, Oil Cloths, Window Shades, Lace Curtains, Towels, Table Damask Napkins and Stamped Linen—from the amount of trade we are doing in these goods—we must be headquarters.

Now one more addition to our stock which we are doing a lively trade in, is our Boot and Shoe Department. Have sold more goods in this department in 60 days than we expected to sell in 6 months, and the secret is we are willing to sell goods on a small profit.

We kindly ask you to call and see the Largest and Handsomest Store Room, with the Largest Stock of Dry Goods, Notions, Carpets, Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Groceries, &c., on the Eastern Shore.

MARVELOUS COUGH SYRUP.

The greatest Cough Syrup on Earth. Every bottle gives satisfaction. A sure cure for the most obstinate coughs, without giving the patient Laudanum, Morphia, or Alcohol habits. It does not bind the bowels, thus necessitating Cathartics, but by its peculiar nerve tonic properties, stimulates them to regular action, thereby counteracting any tendency to constipation. It has never been known to fail, even in cases of colds of seven or eight years' standing. This syrup is well named "Marvelous" for certainly it is marvelous the success it has had with in so short a time. For sale by
