THE old cry of fraud is again started by Republican supervisors of registration through the South against Democratic Registers of voters.

REPRESENTATIVE MCKINLEY, the father of the tariff bill recently passed by the House to the lively music of the party whip, is fearful lest he will not be able to recognize his beautiful william when it comes out of the Senate.

A GENTLEMAN called upon Collector Marine the other day and was greeted with "well, sir, what office do you want?" The gentleman replied "none, sir, I am not an office-seeker; good day." Strange, these fellows when they get an office imagine everybody else wants one.

SAYS an esteemed cotemporary: The statisticians find that the government of the United States is getting out of debt at the rate of $100,000,000 a year, and that the farmers are getting in debt at about the same rate. When the farmer retires to his bed at night too tired to sleep he can turn the matter over in his mind or ask his wife about it. Sometimes unlooked-for truths are suddenly unveiled to inquirers who put this and that together, comparing causes and effects.

A STORY is in circulation, says the World, to the effect that C. E. Silcott, the defaulting cashier of the late House of Representatives, spent the past winter in Baltimore at the home of his son. It is further claimed that he recently sailed for South America, accompanied by his wife and daughter-in-law.

Defaulting treasurers now-a-days are a bold lot. They used to skip to Canada, but it seems of late it is unnecessary for them to leave the shade of their own vine and figtree.

AN army of census enumerators began the work of taking the census of the United States yesterday morning. It is supposed that every house, factory, workshop and place wherever a human being can be found will be visited by the enumerator for the purpose of questioning the person and compiling statistics that are useful for the nation's history, to show its development, its progress and population, its wealth and indebtedness, all of which is proper and legitimate. Answer the questions that come within the legitimate scope of government enquiry as promptly and concisely as it is in your power to do. The right to ask the greater part of the questions is conceded, and but few persons will object to answering them and imparting to the government the desired information as a matter of favor and not of obligation. When the enumerator asks whether you are "suffering from acute or chronic disease, with name of disease and length of time affected," the question is impertinent, delicate and presumptious, and should be answered by silent contempt but not by insult, as the government requires the enumerator to ask the question and elicit the answer if possible.

As was anticipated, the ceremonies attending the unveiling of the Lee statue last Thursday at Richmond has brought forth an avalanche of abuse and elicited a volume of vituperation from the Northern press and Republican orators to stir up the old time animosities against the South in the minds of the Northern brethren.

The Southern people had a right to celebrate the unveiling of the monument raised in honor of their dead hero in any manner that suited their ideas. To wave the Confederate flag and decorate their home with rebel colors, so long as the Stars and Stripes was left waving in the gentle breeze. The ceremony was in their land, their home, and it was Southern people who built the monument and dedicated it to the nation. The flaunting to the breeze of a few Confederate flags in the quondam Confederate capital was no hint of disloyalty to the union. The South loyally accepts the verdict of the war and should not be criticised by the North for bringing out the old flags in honoring the memory of their dead chieftains. They are no longer emblems of disloyalty but souvenirs, and such occasions as the one of Thursday at Richmond would be incomplete without these old relics to remind the people of the hardships of war and the sufferings of those in whose memory the day is being celebrated.

HOT TO THEIR LINING.

Dayton Times.

The Republican editors continue to yell at Butterworth. His name leaves a sort of oleomargarine taste in their mouths.

BY THE WAY.

Black ice cream is a new fad. It is colored by the addition of charcoal and the addition of Turkish prunes.

Both of the sons of August Belmont were talked about during the New York coaching parade, the other day, and applause was aroused at times by Perry Belmont's appearance. The management of four thoroughbred horses seemed a mere detail to him, but undoubtedly nine-tenths of the applause which signalized his appearance was intended for Mrs. Cleveland, who sat on the box seat of his coach. Both of the Belmonts exhibited great skill and perfect form in driving.

Edward Smalley, the famous life saver, who died in New York on the 24th ult., had rescued at least one hundred persons from death by drowning, but was not the possessor of a single medal and leaves a destitute family.

A. T. Abernethy, professor of modern languages in Rutherford College, North Carolina, is only eighteen years old. He is probably the youngest teacher in the country to bear the title of professor.

It is said that the bank deposits in Kansas are $3,500,000 more than they were a year ago.

Those interested in coincidences may find food for reflection in the fact that on one page of a Chicago Sunday paper was an announcement that Wirt Dexter and his wife would sail for Europe, on another page he was announced as one of the pall-bearers at the funeral of Judge Drummond, and on still another page his own death was announced.

A cousin of ex-Gov. Foraker is selling fruit trees at Brooklyn, Mich., and also poses as a nephew of Sitting Bull as an advertisement for a medicine company.

A family in Dover, N. J., who have long been missing valuables, were amazed a day or two ago to find them in the secret nest of a pet goose. Among the articles which the bird had appropriated were two gold thimbles, a tortoise shell comb, scarf pins, spools of silk, silver lace and a watch.

There is a carefully hushed up, but none the less serious, rumor that all is not as well with James Russell Lowell as it should be. He is whispered to be a great deal sicker now than he passes for, by open report, and some of his closest friends are commencing to admit that they are seriously alarmed about him.

Lady Anne Blunt, Lord Byron's granddaughter, her husband and their daughter, are living on the borders of the desert in Egypt, about six miles from Cairo. They have adopted the Arab dress, with the primitive customs of that race, and live a life of simplicity.

Sir Arthur Sullivan, the composer, is hard at work upon the score of a grand opera, which is to be produced in London next November.

The statement in an Eastern magazine that "butterflies have gone to the remarkable height of 800 feet in the Alps" has elicited from Mr. Maxwell, of California, a letter to the Scientific American, in which he pronounces the trip not at all remarkable. He writes that last summer he encountered numerous butterflies on a peak of the Sierra Nevadas 13,000 feet.

Cardinal Manning's friends are to present him with a testimonial at the celebration of the silver jubilee of his episcopal consecration this month.

A Canadian girl, Miss Ward, step-daughter of Alexander Cameron, a wealthy lawyer of Toronto, is engaged to be wedded soon to Prince de Benyon Caraman, of France. Miss Ward is but 17 years old, and will bring her princely husband an income of nearly $150,000 a year.

The library of Cornell University possesses an oriental manuscript written palm leaves, consisting of 193 strips of leaves, each seven by one and a quarter inches, fastened together by a cord passing through a hole in the center of each leaf.

The sacrifice of widows on the funeral pyre still goes on in Bali, an island near Java. They are burned along with the remains of their husbands. The latter's slaves also share the same fate if he be high rank. A short time ago three wives of a chief were cremated.

Rev. J. W. Sproull, of Pittsburg, who is now in Egypt, writes of the great Moslem University at Cairo, founded in 957, which, with its 10,000 pupils and 370 professors, is said to be the largest in the world. The pupils have no benches or chairs, but study, eat and sleep on a blanket or straw mat. The Koran is the only book used for grammar, law, philosophy and theology.

The little town of Pankow, near Germany, is preparing for an event which promises to make her name famous. From July 8th to 10th, 10,000 German marksmen will assemble there to celebrate the tenth national German shooting festival by competing for $100,000 worth of prizes.

The Swedish Oyster Culture Society is trying to acclimatize American oysters from Connecticut on the coast of the Province of Bahus. The young oysters seem to thrive well.

The banquet to be given in honor of Henry M. Stanley by American residents of London took place in the Portman Rooms last Friday. John C. New, the United States Consul, presided.

One of the Hatfields was left over at the last round-up in Kentucky, but one of the McCoy gang took up the trail and secured him. Thoroughness is about the only commendable feature of these family feuds.

Not less than fifteen parishes, or one-fourth of the State of Louisiana, is affected by the late flood, and the damage is almost incalculable. In 1882 it is estimated that the loss was $15,000,000. It will probably exceed half that amount this year.

The young women of the Detroit, Mich., School of Art have revolted because the conductor of that institution decreed that no pupil shall be allowed to chew gum.

The annual income of John D. Rockefeller, the founder and head of the Standard Oil Company, is said to be about $6,000,000, which is equivalent to an accumulation of nearly $750 an hour. He gives away large sums to charitable and religious objects, but even with the demands made upon his generosity he is not likely to be beggared for some time to come.

Charcoal, a Zulu King, is to be the hero of Haggard's next novel. There is always an African in Haggard's literary woodpile.

Two colored people in St. Louis are worth respectively $75,000 and $100,000.

General News.

A Will sold for $20.

C. S. Harvey, of Hickory county, Mo., an intelligent looking white man, thirty-five years of age, has been visiting St. Louis with his wife, who is an Alaska Indian.

While at the Indian diggings he concluded to ascend the Yukon river, and got a woman to pole his boat, as a woman would be faithful, while any man he could get would perhaps desert or murder him.

Her native husband offered either her or his mother-law for $20 a month, and Harvey took the wife along. Her aid was valuable.

While returning home she said to Harvey with tears: "I wish you would buy me from my husband, and I will work the gold out of your claim after regular hours of work. I don't want to go back to him."

Her husband decided that $20 and a pair of boots that Harvey had would be proper compensation, and Harvey accepted the bargain at once. The Indian went on a spree, and a few days later was drowned in the Yukon. Harvey and the woman were married by a minister as soon as they reached this country.

"She has made me a faithful wife, and I love her devotedly," he said. Her appearance attracts attention on the streets.

Not Afraid of the Sheriff.

Sheriff Smith E. Johnson, of Atlanic county, N. J., was telegraphed for Thursday afternoon to go to Richland with a sufficient force to quell a riot among the laborers on the new Seashore Line from Winslow Junction to Cape May City, who had armed themselves with clubs, picks and stones, and, by by placing obstructions on the track and blocking the engine of the work train, had compelled the Company to stop work.

The block is at Folsom, about six miles from Richland. Sheriff Johnson, together with the supervisor and other officials of the road, went to the scene that night, but the laborers would not let them get off the train. The supervisor, Charles D. Vandervener, alighted from the train, but was driven back by the angry men, and the party was compelled to return to Richland for reinforcements.

The cause of the disturbance is that Charles J. McMullin, who took the contract to grade the road from Winslow to Richland, bid at such a low figure that when, a few weeks ago, he came to settle with the men, he was several hundred dollars short. He made an assignment to the Railroad Company, and the men have worked on promises of payment. Wednesday was pay-day, but no money was received by the laborers, who thereupon quit work and refused to allow the Company to do anything further until they are paid.

Another Liquor Victory.

AUGUSTA, ME., May 29.—The Superior Court today announced a unanimous decision in the noted Burns liquor case reversing the decision of the lower Court, which convicted Burns under its statutes. Burns several years ago opened in Augusta an "original-package" business, selling only liquors, however, that were imported from the provinces or other countries, claiming that the State had no right, under the United States Constitution, to interfere with his business. The case has been carried up step by step until it is now decided in Burns's favor. The Court says in part:

The Iowa case, just decided by the Supreme Court of the United States, clearly settles the question. We are bound by that decision to reverse the ruling below and to sustain the law as contended for by the respondent. The minority opinion in the Iowa case is elaborated and commends itself to many as containing the better conclusion. Our obedience is due to the judgment which prevails.

Notre Dame's Great Dome.

NOTRE DAME, IND., May 29.—The great dome of the University of Notre Dame, the elaborate decoration of which has just been completed, was formally opened this evening with impressive ceremonies in the presence of a distinguished assemblage. A feature of the occasion was the unveiling of the magnificent group, "The Sciences," by Luigi Gregori, an allegorical presentment of theology, philosophy, poetry, history, music and science, the latter shown as being essentially Christian in character. The wonderfully majestic effect in grouping and coloring is pronounced by many to be even superior to the work of Barmadi in the Capitol at Washington.

Murder by Wholesale.

SEDALIA, MO., May 29.—This section has developed in Thomas Williamson a character that promises to rival John Bender, of Kansas butchery fame. He killed an old farmer and his son a few days ago, and today the decomposed body of his wife, who had mysteriously disappeared some months ago, was found buried near Williamson's cabin. It is thought that the assassin has also murdered a young wood chopper who recently disappeared. Williamson is in jail and tells varying stories.

Revenge Cost $75,000.

The Laclede Flour mills, near St. Louis, Mo., were consumed Thursday morning. The loss is $75,000 and is total, as the insurance policy lapsed a few days ago. Henry Hoffman, a discharged employee, was arrested and confessed that he set fire to the mill out of revenge.

MEN AND WOMEN OF NOTE.

King George of Greece is getting tired of being a ruler. It is said he is thinking of abdicating.

It is rumored that a movement has been inaugurated to have Robert Louis Stevenson made the British Consul at Samoa.

The German Empress Frederick loves little children. She never fails to notice every one she sees, and will often stop in her walks and speak to them.

The De Reszke brothers, Jean the tenor, and Edouard the basso, demand high prices. The former wants 10,000 francs per night and the latter 5,000 to sing in America.

Although eighty-five years of age, Isaac McLellan, who was at college with Longfellow and Hawthorne, and who wrote the "Poems of the Rod and Gun," never misses an opportunity to fish.

William Lee, the sole surviving British officer in India who was present at the capture of Delhi and the carrying of the Cashmere gate, is now living in a destitute condition at Bhinz Tal, in the Himalayas.

Mrs. Julia J. Irvine, formerly a well-known teacher in New York city, has been chosen junior Greek professor at Wellesley College. Mrs. Irvine was graduated from Cornell University in 1875, and stood first in her class in Greek and second in Latin.

(39) Vineyards: Number of acres in vines bearing and in young vines not bearing; products of grapes and raisins, and value in 1889.

Besides these questions on the regular Agricultural Schedule No. 2, Superintendent Robert P. Porter has ordered several special investigations in the interests of agriculture, among which are Viticulture, Nurseries, Florists, Seed and Truck Farms, Semi-tropic Fruits, Oranges, etc., Live Stock on the great ranges, and in cities and villages; also the names and number of all the various farmers' organizations, such as Agricultural and Horticultural Societies, Poultry and Bee Associations, Farmers' Clubs, Granges, Alliances, Wheels, Unions, etc.

In no part of the census work have the lines been extended more than in the direction of agriculture, and if farmers will now cheerfully co-operate with the enumerators and other officials in promptly furnishing the correct figures more comprehensive returns regarding our greatest industry will be obtained than ever before.

POLITICS IN THE NEWSPAPERS.

THEY ARE SENSITIVE.

Boston Herald.

Brother Clarkson's speech doesn't elicit the most enthusiastic encomiums from the Republican press. This is quite natural. The Republican organs don't like to be told that they are petering out. It makes them resentful.

ROUGH ON BLAINE.

Chicago Herald.

Mr. Blaine, it is said, has at last given up the hope of ever becoming President. The fact that he could not get elected, and that Harrison could, ought to be enough to disgust any man.

A SOP TO THE COLORED BROTHER.

Nashville American.

Two Democratic Congressmen are to be ousted by Boss Reed, and their seats are to be filled by two negroes. The party which has thus far refused to recognize the brother-in-black in the distribution of Federal patronage lays upon his smarting epidermis the balm of admission into the House.

SENATOR BLAIR AS AN HUMORIST.

New York Star.

Senator Blair is in a fair way to achieve reputation as the great American humorist. His suggestion that, before we build any more battle ships, the President should request Great Britain to withdraw all her naval forces from American waters and dismantle her naval stations in and near North and South America, cannot be taken even as seriously as the same Senator's grotesque Educational bill. Once on a time, but it was long ago, New Hampshire sent statesmen to Congress.

WHICH WILL HE DO?

Cleveland Plain Dealer.

As Foraker is to be Chairman of the Republican State Convention, which is to meet in this city in July, he will sound the keynote of the campaign. Will he sing hosannas to McKinley's bill or to Bill McKinley? Or will he, like the dashing Butterworth, tell the honest truth about the weakness and shortcomings of the little Major's oppressive law?

A PRESIDENT OF HIS ACCIDENT.

Atlanta Democrat.

President Harrison is getting a great deal of consideration from those who have opposed him politically. He is a handsome man, and represents one of the best families. Taking out any man to be a stock dealer in Washington would not bar him from social circles. But General Harrison does not care about what he thinks or does. They discuss Congress, Gorman, Quay, Wanamaker, McKinley, the tariff and lots of things. But if General Harrison were a private citizen of Indianapolis it could not excite less interest.

SEE the beautiful Castile soap we have on hand just from the importers, made of Pure Olive Oil. Received prizes at Philadelphia in 1876; also at Madrid, Paris, Valladolid, Seneca. Being made of the purest and finest olive oil, is especially adapted for ladies' and infants' use, and it will be found to soften and beautify the skin and prevent chapping of the hands. It is also invaluable in washing fine laces, as it makes them white and soft as new. For sale at HENRY & BRO.'S Drug Store.
