VOLUME 4—NO. 7 | The Centreville Record, 1874-1932 Queen Anne's Record, Feb. 23, 1933 | CENTREVILLE, MARYLAND, THU RSDAY MORNING, APRIL 16, 1936 | Entered as Second Class Matter at the Postoffice, Centreville, Md. | 5 CENTS

THE WORLD WE LIVE IN

Bandwagon Hitch-Hiker

New York—William Allen White, Kansas editor and political sachem, considers William Randolph Hearst a millstone on a candidate's neck. He has advised Governor Alf M. Landon, whom he is supporting for the Republican nomination for President, to disclaim Hearst as a hitch-hiker on the Landon bandwagon.

Western Easter Is Hot

Idaho City—An unusually balmy Easter heat wave sent the thermometer to an all-time April 12 record of 99 degrees but melted snow so fast in this section that floods washed out the road to Boise. A snowslide tumbled down a mountain on the other side of town and blocked the road to Centerville, the only other outlet.

Spoke Too Soon

Johnstown, Pa.—Leo F. Kane traveled around town telling folk that he was the proud papa of twins. He had to do the job over. While he was out a third child arrived to make the twins triplets.

All Oiled Up

Phoenix, Ariz.—Ed. McGinley, 108, has his own scheme for longevity. His hobby he says, is visiting a saloon and he walks down once a week "to get the old wagon oiled."

Beats Anthony Adverse

Tokyo—The official biography of Japan's great Emperor Meiji has been issued—in 260 volumes, establishing a world record for length. The author, Count Kaneko, took 18 years in compiling it. Now a popular, abridged edition is to be turned out so that readers may get the story in two volumes containing 1,000 pages.

Lots of Business

Chicago—Albert Zieman made a mistake when he closed his tavern without locking the door. Customers came, went in, were thirsty and could not locate a bartender. So they adopted self service. Lamposts had human drapes next morning and Zeman ordered a stock refill.

Roosevelt Luck

Washington—The proverbial Roosevelt luck beamed down on the Washington Senators when they defeated the favored New York Yankees 1-to-0 after President Franklin D. Roosevelt had tossed out the first ball of the season. Other presidents usually jonahed the home team.

Keeping Politics Out

Mount Vernon, N. Y.—This classified ad "Confidential secretary and clerk, state age, experience, education, salary expected. Write Box—," was Commissioner W. H. Hussey's new wrinkle for getting a better secretary than the politicians and political job hunters offered. From the 46 replies Mr. Hussey picked four for interviews. He selected Ed Eberhardt, a stranger to him and to the party heads.

Pop Takes A Walk

Council Bluffs,Iowa—The Petty family split wide open politically when Charles Petty filed for the Democratic nomination for Congress. His son Emory Petty, county chairman is supporting the present incumbent. The Petty's live together. When politics crops up the father eats out. If it is a serious difference he sleeps out as well. Dad has not been home since he tossed his hat in the ring.

Peace Robins Home

Fort Erie,Ontario—The Peace Bridge robins are back again on schedule. Last year the birds tried so hard to nest on a narrow ledge of the Immigration office that a shelf was built for them. They raised two families. A larger shelf was ready for them this spring.

Maundy Money

London—King Edward appearing at his first formal public ceremony since the death of his father distributed Maundy Thursday alms to 71 old men and 71 old women, the number that would correspond to the age of King George V., had he lived for the almsgiving. Besides purses each person received 71 brand new pennies which were sold for 50c apiece to souvenir gatherers.

No Parade Without Hero

New York—Greenwich Villagers were all set to parade around Washington Square to celebrate the 80th birthday of Mrs. Blanchard, famous rooming house operator and friend of struggling authors. But the lady said No and threatened to be in bed sick if celebrators arrived.

Sweeper Gets Everything

St. Joseph, Mo.—The town's huge vaccum sweeper which picks up all loose objects collected 11-year-old Alfred Zuhl and his bicycle when the boy fell in front of the machine. Workmen had to take the machine apart to get the boy out. He was unhurt but his bike was wrecked.

First Hand Reports

Gainesville, Ga.—Preisdent Roosevelt detoured on his return to Washington from his fishing trip to hear accounts from eye-witnesses of the devastation left by the recent tornado.

Egg Hunt No. 48

Oak Tree, N. J.—Mrs. Marconnier Schwenk, 75, put on her 48th Easter egg hunt as forty boys and girls scampered through her orchard in search of the "rabbit" eggs. Mrs. Scwenck started her hunts in 1888 when four children got a dozen colored eggs among them.

"Ghost Train" Speeds Toward Little Theatre

Mystery Comedy Billed For April 23, 24. Customers May Need Rabbit's Foot

Queen Anne's county theater fans who like to have the jitters run up their spines one minute and laughs gurgle forth the next will have their innings at the Little Theatre April 23 and 24 when the Queen Anne's Players round out their first season with a mystery comedy, "The Ghost Train."

The cast is headed by J. Hall Barton playing the role of Teddy Deakin opposite Eleanor Dudley as Miss Bourne. Supporting members are Richard Pitkin as Richard Winthrop; Frank Willis as Charles Murdock; Ray Tabler, Mr. Price; Dudley Benton as Dr. Sterling; Harry O. Booker, Saul Hodgkins.

William Riggs as Jackson; Lucille Lutz, Julia Price; Eleanor Dudley, Miss Bourne; Sara C. Roe as Elsie Winthrop; and Dolly Price, Peggy Murdock.

The play is loaded with funny situations and creepy enough to make a minstrel man reach for his rabbit's foot.

It centers around a dozen railroad passengers who are stranded in a station in Seth Parker's country up in Maine just about the time word comes of an approaching Ghost Train. The message is bad news to Maine folks. They keep their cemeteries on a hill to make running away from spooks easier.

But the group can not get away from the station and when they go into a panic the audience goes into stitches.

A mystery plot runs through the play, just enough for the amateur detectives among the Little Theatre customers to gear up their minds to solve it before the actors in the show find the answer.

"The Ghost Train" will give the men among the players a chance to act. There are about ten male parts to four for the girls. Although the cast is not yet complete first rehearsals were held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Edna Harris, director of the Little Theatre who will coach and supervise the play.

Committees for stage settings, properties, tickets and the other requirements for a performance are being selected and the full forces of the Players will be used to end their first season in a gale of chills and laughter.

Garden Speaker Gives Rules For Flower Display

Mrs. Stout Arranges Bouquets During Talk. Show Dates May 28, 29

An informal talk on flower arrangement by Mrs. Frederick C. Stout of Philadelphia featured the April meeting of the Garden Club at "Readbourne" the home of Mrs. Luther L. Gadd on Monday afternoon.

Floral display is a hobby with Mrs. Stout. She has been a consistent first place winner at shows in Philadelphia and New York.

During the business session the club set May 28 and 29 as the dates for the annual Queen Anne's flower show. Several classes will be open to enthusiasts of this county and members of garden clubs in adjoining counties.

Mrs. Stout illustrated her remarks with a demonstration of flower arrangement and also rearranged several clusters brought in by club members.

Her methods follow closely upon the Japanese ideas with variations to suit American homes. She stressed the importance of having the bottom or base representing the earth. Balance should be maintained with all lines sweeping and restful to the eye.

The color, shape and texture of the container should be suitable to the bouquet. The tallest spray or flower should be over the base and should be one and one half times as tall as the container.

Care should be taken that the container does not strike the eye first. Attention should be centered on the flowers with the darkest shades at the bottom and no lines crossing.

Following the talk and the business session tea was served by Mrs. Gadd, assisted by Mrs. A. Temple Blackwood.

QUEENSTOWN TERPS ORGANIZE

Bishop at Queenstown last Wednesday night when a group of fifteen sponsors of the Terps gathered to lay plans for the coming seasons. Bennett H. Lane was chosen treasurer and Frank Delahay secretary.

In last week's Record it was incorrectly stated that Hanson Horsey, former big league ball player and more recently umpire at most of the Shore Orioles' home games, had accepted a position as manager of a milk plant in Caroline County. It was not Mr. Horsey who took the post, but his son Hanson, Jr. The error is very much regreted. Mr. Horsey continues in business at Millington.

Lloyd In Race For Congress; Forces Republican Primary

Wicomico State Senator Files At Eleventh Hour; Messenger Still In Race. Election Supervisors Meet, Name Judges And Clerks

The last minute filing of State Senator O. Straughn Lloyd, of Wicomico County, for Congress on the Republican ticket in the First Congressional District comprised of the nine Eastern Shore counties made certain that both Democratic and Republican Primary Elections will be held in Queen Anne's Monday, May 4.

Persistent reprots that H. Burdette Messenger, of Caroline County, would withdraw as a candidate for Congress at the eleventh hour, particularly if Senator Lloyd entered the race, were not confirmed by developments. Messenger did not quit. It is still possible for him to do so, though, until fifteen days before the date of the primary.

A Republican primary, therefore, must be held in Quen Anne's although the names of Lloyd and Messenger will be the only ones on the ticket.

A Democratic primary was necessitated by the entry two weeks ago of Col. Henry Breckenridge in the Presidential race. His name and that of President Roosevelt will be the only ones to appear on the Democratic ballot. The name of Congressman Goldsborough will not go on the ballot because he is unopposed for renomination.

If Senator Borah files in Maryland for the Presidency, as continuous press reports indicate, it would force Governor Nice to do likewise to protest his delegates to the Republican National Convention in Cleveland. Deadline in filing for the Presidency is Saturday midnight.

Reports were rife over the week-end that former Senator Dudley G. Roe's faction in Queen Anne's would place a slate of delegates to the State Convention in the field to oppose the list selected by the Organization leaders, thus precipitating a local primary fight, but the deadline for filing came and went with no candidates.

Republican leaders have named James C. Jones, Stevensville; Howard B. Pyle, near Chestertown; and Gilbert L. Griffin, Centreville Negro, as delegate to the State Convention.

The Board of Election Supervisors met Tuesday to prepare a list of Election Judges and Clerks and go over other details of the forthcoming primary. Formal notices appear on page 9 of this week's Record.

The following list of Election Judges and Clerks for the various districts was named:

FIRST DISTRICT

S. Olin Smith, George H. Higman, Grover C. Milbourne, Barclay Merrick, L. Homer Benton, Lee F. Smith, R. Oscar Roe, Charles E. Coursey, Charles

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Countians In Baltimore To Hear Roosevelt

President's ..Address ..To Young People Held Lacking In Fireworks

Queen Anne's County was well represented in Baltimore Monday night when President Roosevelt, speaking under the banner of the Young Democratic League of Maryland, held out the policies of his Adiminstration as the key that will open the door of employment and opportunity to the young people of the nation.

The crowd at the Fifth Regiment armory was variously estimated at from fifteen to twenty-five thousand.

Hailed in advance as the opening address of the President's campaign for re-election commentators expresed mild disappointment that he did not launch into anything of a fire-eating nature.

No one considered the speech as the opening broadside of the campaign which it had been cracked up to be. Mr. Roosevelt indulged in no political fireworks, but calmly and with studious restraint discussed economic problems and recovery.

The President made no direct reference to the Republicans in his address but succeed in drawing a sharp line between his own policies and those of conservatives who limit their program merely to a balanced budget and restoration of the gold standard.

Democratic leaders, however, were not disturbed by the mildnes of his address, pointing out that the emotional stage of America's quadrennial political race had not been reached.

Among those from his county who went to Baltimore were Senator William R. Wilson, Earle R. Bishop, Norman Mason, John Nickerson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. George, Harrington Knotts, J. Wilbur Stafford, Mr. and Mrs. G. Edward Gillespie, Theodore J. Walbert, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley G. Roe, Frank Biddle, and W. Rodgers Wilson, Jr.

Roberts, Sudlersville; Mrs. Calvert Jones, Chester; Mrs. Horace Morgan, Queen Anne; and the following of Centreville; Dr. James W. Crowl, Dr. Norman P. Chanaud, William E. Grose, and Kenneth W. While the florist was making change, the men drew pistols and commanded that Meyers turn over the cash. Then the trio stepped into their car and drove away. Delaware State Police were notified of the robbery.

Farm Leaders Confer On Soil Saving Program

Local Meetings To Acquaint Farmers With Details Start Monday

Temporary county and community committeemen who will administer the soil conservation program in Queen Anne's county met with County Agent Kenneth W. Baker and Paul B. Nystrom of the Extension Service at the Courthouse Wednesday afternoon to acquaint themselves with the details of the program.

The temporary county committeemen are J. Edgar Bryan, Ernest B. Brown and Fred B. Sylvester.

The community committeemen for each district are 1st and 7th, James C. Stevens, director, John W. Smith, Barrett W. Savington; 2d, Ernest B. Brown, director, Casper T. Seney; 3d, John Cannon, director, Royden F. Powell, F. Bennett Carter; 4th Walter Denny, director, Claude Lowery; 5th, J. E. Bryan, director, Gordon L. Shawn; 6th, Fred B. Sylvester, director, Earle R. Bishop.

Meetings to explain the program will be held in each district beginning on Monday. The district comimtteemen and Mr. Baker will be on hand. Every farmer is urged to attend the meeting in his community.

The schedule with all meetings to start at 7:30 p. m. is: Church Hill at the Community Building, Monday; Sudlersville at Cox Hall, Tuesday; Ruthsburg, Community Hall, Wednesday; Centreville, Courthouse, Thursday; Queenstown Community Hall, Friday; Stevensville, High School, Monday, April 27.

According to Mr. Baker a farm's base acreage for any crop or crops is the normal acreage. The starting point in determining the soil-depleting base will be the acreage on the farm in soil-depleting crops in 1935.

Allowance will be made for acreage planted in soil-conserving or soil-building crops in 1935 because of adjustment programs, or other unusual conditions, and in instances where a farm's soil-depleting or soil-conserving and soil-buiilding acreage is materially out of line with that for similar farms in the same locality.

A ratio of soil-depleting acreage to all farm land in each county, showing the proportion of farm land formerly devoted to soil-depleting crops, will be established as a guide in establishing soil-depleting bases for individual farms.

Sudlersville Reports Debts Down To $1,115

Tax Collections Well In Hand. Foundation Elects Officers, Plants Trees

The Annual report of the Town Commissioners of Sudlersville iessued on Monday features a modest indebtedness for the town on a tax rate of 35 per $100, one of the lowest on the Eastern Shore.

The report shows the actual net debt of the town including both bonded indebtedness and short term notes after deducting cash on hand to be $1,115.19.

Of this amount $1,000 is the remaining balance on bonds issued for the erection of Cox Memorial Hall, the municipal building. These bonds are owned by the Sudlersville Foundation, Inc., a non-profit civic improvement fund. The fund is permanent and all the income must be used for civic improvement and beautification. Money spent on town bonds thus reacts in the form of civic betterment.

Another feature of the report shows that all taxes have been collected in full except $12.60 which the present board expects to collect before the end of their term.

The Sudlersville Foundation elected directors at their annual meeting last week. Those named were Mrs. Bessie P. Johnson, Miss Gertrude Goodhand, Mrs. Blanche R. Phillips, Mrs. Belle W. Stevens and Joseph M. George.

Their most recent project now in progress is the planting of over a hundred Oriental Plane shade trees on the town streets and approaches.

The county itself was established in 1706 with the county seat first erected at Queenstown.

This is the first time that homes of Queen Anne's County have been opened
