Esso To Award 4 Scholarships

Marketers To Conduct Picture Title Contest

Four university tuition scholarships and 124 cash prizes will be awarded to automobile owners in a unique contest sponsored by the Esso Marketers, officials of that organization have announced. The prizes will go to the winner of the Esso Picture Title Contest, which started July 6th and ends at midnight on September 30th. The contestants will supply titles to four pictures which will appear during this period in the newspaper advertising of the Esso Marketers of which the Standard Oil Compay of New Jersey is a member. The winners will be selected on the basis of their titles and a short statement of 100 words or less on "I know Essolene gives greater mileage because. . . ."

"This unusual contest will be open to all motorists in the 18 states and the District of Columbia, in which the Esso Marketers operate," Esso Marketers officials explained. "Application blanks may be obtained at any Esso dealer. The principal prizes are the four tuition scholarships, worth $2,000 each. These will cover tuition at a leading college or university and will be available for sons or daughters. If the winners have no children, or if they so prefer, they can have the full value of the scholarships in cash. In addition to the scholarships prizes of $1,000 each; ten of $100 each; twenty of $50 each; forty of $25 each; and fifty of $10 each. The pictures for which titles are to be written will be drawn by the artist Twelvetrees and will be displayed singly as service station posters every three weeks for 12 weeks, in addition to appearing in newspaper advertisements. All four titles will be submitted at once and each contestant must come into the tion to get each new picture."

Plan Cartoons For Oyster Ad

Theme To Stress Health Value Of Product

The Oyster Institute of North America, Washington, D. C., has adapted comedy and cartoon to its advertising copy for the second year of a national campaign to boost oyster consumption.

Copy theme will be the unique health values of the bi-valve, but the Institute plans to avoid quasi-scientific prescriptions.

Don Herold drawings, but not strips, will illustrate the copy, and a laconic advertising message will balloon from the mouths of the Herold characters, who all, incidentally, like their oysters. An explanation will run below the drawings, and the text, accenting shimsy, will carry out the characters' terse thoughts.

The extremely high mineral content of oysters, especially the vital iron, iodine and calcium, supports the copy idea of "mineral balance," but existing and indisputable scientific testimony is left in the bio-chemist archives.

Signal characteristic of all copy will be a line, "the real pearl in an oyster is health." Constant repetition gives the expression almost the weight of a slogan, but the Institute so far has not adopted any official designation except its seal of an erect trident. The trident, of course, will appear in all copy and it is stamped on the shipping containers used by members.

Starting earlier than last year, the program will begin in the early part of August and it is expected to carry insertions throughout the winter.

In addition to consumer copy, the Institute will use space in hotel, restaurant, grocery, chain store and fishing trade papers. The trade paper copy will treat the subject in a similar vein.

The copy differs from that of last year in that the maiden effort was limited to a factual presentation of oysters and oyster recipes. Sales reports showed a climb estimated at 30 per cent during the period and some dealers announced increase of 100 per cent and more.
