To the Editor of the Centinel.

SALEM, December 18.

In March laſt, I ſailed in the ſhip John and James, captain Smith, from New-York for Calcutta. On the 15th May, when doubling the Cape of Good Hope, we encountered a violent gale of wind; loſt our foremaſt, main and mizen top-maſts, bow ſprit, and had two ſeamen and a boy, William Hampton, Samuel Day and Peter Tyron, waſhed overboard and loſt. The ſtorm increaſed until the next morning, when finding the ſhip ſinking, we all took to the boats, without proviſions or water. The yawl ſeparated from us ſoon after, and was probably loſt; the long boat being ſtrong, weathered the gale pretty well. We remained in open boat, without food or drink, five days, in which time five out of the eight on board died with hunger: On the ſixth day we ſaw land, and on the 23d of May, landed at Table bay, on the Cape. The ſurvivors are captain Smith, John Forreſter, and your's, &c.

The Olive, Jordan, of Portland, in 52; and the Harriot, Stevenſon, in 80 days, have arrived at Surinam.

The laſt accounts from Surinam mention, that a number of American veſſels were engaged to tranſport the Engliſh troops, &c. from thence for the Engliſh iſlands.

December 30.

Letters were received in town laſt evening from Portſmouth, which ſtate, that from many circumſtances attending the late dreadful fire at that place, it is believed to have been kindled by ſome wretch or wretches, for the purpoſe of plunder.—Theſe letters add, that the number of buildings deſtroyed, is computed at upwards of 120; and that the property lodged in the buildings where the fire commenced, and thoſe immediately adjoining, is principally loſt; though it is expected that the money in the vaults of the bank is ſafe.

ST. DOMINGO.

A letter from Cape-Francois, November 29, ſays, Rochambeau has ordered that nothing ſhall be landed there at preſent. His motives have not been conjectured. Near 2000 blacks were taken priſoners about 3 weeks ſince, and thrown into the ſea with their hands and legs tied.

Seven ſhips of the line were ſeen near Turk's-Iſland about the firſt of December, which were ſuppoſed to be French, with troops, bound to Cape-Francois.

The laſt of November 15 or 1800 troops arrived at Cape-Francois from Marſeilles.

The pious John Bacon.

The following anecdote is juſt received in a letter from a reſpectable friend to the editor, dated Stockbridge, December 30, 1802. "One of this demagogue's toad-eaters, who is a very honeſt, good man, but through the influence of his Prototype, a little given to democracy, began to feel ſome qualms upon the ſubject of the preſident's invitation to Tom Paine. Not willing to credit the reports circulated through the federal papers, he applied to the honeſt old Friar as a genuine ſource of true information. The Friar told him, "that Paine was a man of talents—one who had done as muh good in our revolutuionary cauſe as any other man in the country—that he had returned to this country in a good time, and was now capable of doing a great deal of good in the cauſe of republicaniſm!" The enqtirer was a brother to the Friar in the Church of Chriſt in this place, and probably left him under a full conviction that both the preſident and his friend Tom had been groſsly abuſed in all the federal papers on the continent. But meeting with a federaliſt to whom he related this ſtory, the gentleman told him that he would convince him that he had been groſsly impoſed upon by furniſhing him with a copy of the "Age of Reaſon." The book was accordingly furniſhed and read—and the man is not only convinced that Tom Paine can do no good here, but alſo that the Friar and his cauſe are not ſo good as he had been heretofore perſuaded to believe."

FEDERAL GAZETTE.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 8.

A perſon lately died in England, who left a large eſtate to a female relative, on condition that ſhe married a man by the name of Pearce. Being unacquainted with any of that name, ſhe gave notice in the public papers, that if ſuch a perſon would apply to her, he might hear of ſomething to his advantage. At length a man of that name appeared, to whom ſhe offered one hundred and fifty pounds per annum, provided he would marry her, ſettle the reſt of her fortune upon her, and reſide elſewhere—which propoſal the applicant readily accepted, having juſt been releaſed from goal by an inſolvent act.

An article from a paper printed at Staunton, (Vir.) ſays—"The number of cattle driven through this town the laſt ſeaſon, for the conſumption of the lower country, amount to upwards of nine thouſand one hundred!"

Captain Holtz, of the ſhip Friendſhip, arrived here laſt evening from Hamburg, informs us that on the 21ſt November, in the Engliſh channel, he ſpoke a Swediſh 44 gun frigate from Barcelona, bound to Sweden, from whom he learnt that an American frigate had lately fallen in with and captured a Tripolitan frigate in the Mediterranean. The Swediſh captain received this intelligence from the captain of the American frigate.

[Mer. Adv.]

[The New-York Gazette ſays, "that an American frigate had captured a Tripolitan brig, and towed her into Gibraltar."]

Perhaps no inſtance has the corruption of evil communication been more apparent, than will be found in the following article, coped from a London paper of laſt year. As it is from a paper of democratic caſt, it may be read with ſome benefit by ſuch democrats who ſeek knowledge, and wiſh to avoid error.

[Norfolk paper.]

THE EXTRACT.

"At the Chelmsford aſſizes laſt week, 118 priſoners were tried, 28 of whom received ſentence of death.

"When Robert Jewell, for burglary, received ſentence, he addreſſed the court, and begged to be heard for a few minutes. He ſaid he was a farmer's ſon, in Norfolk, and was decently educated. Until the age of 35, he led a virtuous and ſober life, fearing God and honoring the king, when he had the misfortune of becoming acquainted with perſons who were admirers of Paine's writings, which were put into his hands. He often read and conſidered them, and the plauſibility of the aſſertions and arguments ſo far overpowered his reaſon, that he became a convert to Paine's doctrines, and conſidered the ſcriptures as cunning fables, invented to impoſe upon and deceive the generality of mankind for the benefit of a few. Having married and become the father of a family, and the hardneſs of the times obliging him to work early and late, he took that courſe of life which had bro't him to the gallows. He was under great obligations to the chaplain attending the priſon, for opening his eyes and convincing him of the dangerous opintons he had imbibed, and teaching him the true doctrine of chriſtianity, he thanked God he was ſtopped ſhort in his wicked courſe, before he had committed the crime of murder, and hoped through the merits of his Savior, to be ſaved. But he did not deſpiſe life, and if mercy could be extended thro' the recommendation of his lordſhip, he would continue to pray to Heaven for his gracious ſovereign, and endeavor again to be a uſeful and loyal ſubject: but if not, he would meet his fate with Chriſtian reſignation, humbly truſting in the mercy of God; and begging moſt earneſtly that his children might be taken care of.

"Mr. Baron Hotham ſpoke to the priſoner in a humane and affecting manner, and concluded with telling him that mercy here could not be extended to him, conſiſtent with the due adminiſtration of the law: and that he muſt prepare himſelf to meet that awful moment when he muſt appear before another tribunal, where ſincere repentance and contrition might induce him to hope to meet with that mercy which could not be extended to him in this world.

January 8, eo3t

To thoſe members of the Proteſtant Epiſcopal Church, who have not yet ſubſcribed, or are not annual contributors to the inſtitution under the care of the Benevolent Society.

THE Truſtees of the Benevolent Society take the liberty of calling your attention to the ſtate of the inſtitution for the maintenance and education of poor female children, which is under the patronage of the Proteſtant epiſcopal church. Encouraged by the liberal contributions of a reſpectable number of the members of that church, they erected a commodious building for the reception of thoſe children who might be deemed objects of the charity. In doing this, they were unavoidably led to exceed their funds, and to contract a conſiderable debt. To pay the intereſt of this, and to provide for its gradual extinction, they are obliged to break in upon the funds intended for its annual ſupport. If poſſeſſed of other means, they would be able to increaſe the number of thoſe who are now benefited by this excellent inſtitution; an inſtitution which, they flatter themſelves, has the approbation of every humane and reflecting perſon—With theſe means they may be eaſily ſupplied. Partly from the want of the neceſſary application, partly from miſapprehenſion, many of the members of the Proteſtant epiſcopal church have not yet contributed any thing to this charity; and not a few of its founders have not yet thought it proper to ſubſcribe to its annual ſupport. The truſtees knowing the benevolence and generoſity of thoſe whom they addreſs, cannot believe that they want the inclination to devote to this benevolent purpoſe ſuch an annual ſum as their abilities will warrant—and they now entreat them to extend to it the hand of pecuniary aid. They are aware that many perſons are unwilling to bind themſelves to the payment of any annual ſum; they have, therefore, ſo framed the annexed head for a ſubſcription, that none who may ſubſcribe it will be bound by it longer than is agreeable to their own pleaſure and convenience. A very moderate ſum contributed by each of thoſe whom God has bleſſed with the ability, would, in a ſhort time, extricate this valuable inſtitution from its pecuniary embarraſſments, and enable its directors to render it more extenſively uſeful. To this ſuſcription they reſpectfully but earneſtly invite you—ſo ſhall you ſnatch many helpleſs females from deſtruction; but above all, ſo ſhall you recommend yourſelves to your Father who is in heaven, and to that Gracious Being who hath ſaid "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not."

By order of the truſtees,

JOSEPH G. J. BEND, Preſident.

Atteſt,

HENRY NICOLS, Sec'y.

WE, the ſubſcribers, deſirous of promoting the inſtitution for the maintenance and education of poor female children, under the direction of the Benevolent Society of the city and county of Baltimore, promiſe to pay, during our pleaſure, to the truſtees thereof, on the day of the annual ſum reſpectively ſubſcribed to our names.
