A Good Bargain.

FOR SALE,

A lot of ground, situated in Jones-street, Old-Town, No. 35, on which are erected three buildings, one frame house of the best incurruptable wood, and two brick houses, which will be sold separately if an occasion offers. The lot has 84½ feet front and is 100 feet deep, and subject to a ground rent, which will be divided in three parts if said houses are sold separately.

Also, another Lot of Ground close by, 169 feet front and from 50 to 60 feet deep; which would be suitable for any kind of manufactory, being along the shore of the falls, out of the danger of overflow.

Terms may be known on application to Mr. Gripiere Montalibor, on the premises.

N. B. The above property was to have been sold at Auction on Monday the 1st instant, by Mr. T. Yates, but was in consequence of bad weather postponed. It will again be offered at public sale, if not shortly disposed of otherwise.

Fell's Point Hotel,

AND

Exchange Coffee-House,

Corner of Bond and Fell's-street.

To the Merchants and Traders of the city of Baltimore.

GENTLEMEN,

SINCE my removal from my late situation, the Columbian Inn, I have been repeatedly encouraged, by the opinion of many gentlemen extensively engaged in the shipping business, to believe that very great advantages would result to the interest and establishment of my house by adding to my other accommodations a MARINE REGISTER, &c. The situation being immediately contiguous to where most of the shipping take in and discharge their cargoes at all seasons of the year, and where the owners and masters of vessels continually resort to transact business—these motives, together with the repeated assurances of support which my friends have proffered me, has induced me to lay the following proposals before you for your consideration, at the same time pledging myself, that should my plan meet your support, no exertions on my part shall be wanting to render the institution a desirable object to its patrons.

It may be considered needless in this place to point out the numerous advantages to be derived by the mercantile interest from institutions of this nature, as well in Europe as in America—almost every sea-port town in all countries has its exchange or coffee-house. For many years, institutions of this nature have been considered so indispensibly necessary as to have been very ably supported in New-York, Philadelphia, &c. Within the last two years Mr. James Bryden, notwithstanding the many fruitless attempts which have been previously made, has, in a considerable degree, succeeded in establishing a house of this kind in the city; and so sensible are the merchants of the very great advantages which they derive from the undertaking, that although the list of subscribers are by no means so numerous, as at the first establishment, yet do we find that the sum subscribed the last, exceeds the first years subscription. The plan which I now propose will not, it is presumed, nor do I wish that it should, interfere with the before mentioned establishment. The increased population of our city, the distance of the respective situations as well as the more immediate relation which Fell's-Point bears to commercial affairs, will, it is presumed, at least justify me in making an attempt. My necessary avocations will very probably render it impracticable for me to make a general personal application; therefore propose, as soon as my proposals have obtained a general circulation, to open subscription-books for the receipt of signatures in different places of public resort in the city and Fell's-Point—leaving it optional with every person to subscribe such sum as he conceives the undertaking merits.

I again take the opportunity to thank my friends and customers for the support I received, and hope by the exertions I the Columbia to exercise to merit the patronam determ who may favor my house age their custo[illegible] future

After submitting the annexed proposals for your consideration, I take the liberty to subscribe myself,

The public's
Most obedient humble servant,
H. PECK.

PROPOSALS

1. The room of the hotel shall be appropriated for the use of the mercantile interest generally, furnished in the most commodious manner.

2. A clerk shall be employed to collect and record all interesting marine intelligence, a regular list of all entries and clearances from this port, receive and forward ship letters, for which purpose bags will be provided, and carefully sealed and delivered to the captains.

3. The newspapers from all the different ports on the continent shall be immediately procured and regularly filed, and should sufficient encouragement be given, a correspondence will be opened and the most generally interesting European papers be obtained.

If the encouragement given to the above proposals, equals my ardor to render my house an interesting place of resort to my fellow-citizens, I hope to carry my plan into complete effect, by the first day of February next.

H. PECK.

Hotel, Fell's-Point, Jan. 5.

DANCING.

MR. DUPORT respectfully informs the ladies and gentlemen of Baltimore, that after an absence of eleven years, during which he has taught with considerable success in the principal cities of the United States, he has returned to offer his services to the fashionable youth of both sexes in this city. The success he formerly experienced here, in informing a number of accomplished dancers, and the flattering encouragement he then received, have induced him to declare many advantageous offers, for the sake of coming to a place where his pupils have been so distinguished for their superior elegance and grace in dancing.

Mr. Duport hopes that his old pupils have not so much forgotten his past exertions or their improvement, as to view his return with indifference; of this he will be enabled to judge by the encouragement he shall receive during this season, which he wishes may be such as will induce him to form a permanent establishment in this city.

Ladies and gentlemen who wish it, have now an opportunity of perfecting themselves by private lessons, in different characters of dances, as allemands, waltz, de la cour minuet, and gavotts with the Devonshire minuet, English plain minuet, or any fancy dance, and a great variety of steps given upon principle, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

A peculiar advantage enjoyed by the pupils of Mr. Duport, is, that after six months instruction from him, they never require the assistance of any other master, but become themselves competent judges of the performance of others.

Those who may honor Mr. Duport with their commands, or require further particulars, will please to apply at Mr. Bryden's hotel, Light-street; where the school will be held and commenced on Monday, 17th instant.

The hours for young pupils will be from half past 2 to half past 5, and for grown persons from 7 to 9 A. M.

A new and practical Work.

A PROPOSAL,

BY WILLIAM Y. BIRCH, & ABRAHAM SMALL,
Of the city of Philadelphia,

For publishing in volumes, by subscription, that useful and popular work, the

DOMESTIC ENCYCLOPÆDIA;

OR, A

DICTIONARY OF FACTS,

AND

USEFUL KNOWLEDGE:

Comprehending a concise view of the latest discoveries, inventions, and improvements, chiefly applicable to rural and domestic economy. Together with descriptions of the most interesting objects of nature and art; the history of men and animals, in a state of health or disease; and practical hints respecting the arts and manufactures, both familiar and commercial.

Illustrated with numerous engravings and cuts.

BY A. F. M. WILLICH, M.D.
Author of the Lectures on Diet and Regimen, &c.
First American edition,
With additions, applicable to the present situation of the United States,
BY JAMES MEASE, M. D.
Fellow of the American Philosophical Society, and corresponding member of the Literary and Philosophical Society of Manchester.

To the Public.

As the practical tendency of the work here announced, must be evident from the contents of the preceeding title its peculiar nature scarcely requires further explanation.

When we consider the natural condition of man, the object of all his pursuits becomes at once manifest and defined. To live with satisfaction to himself and others; to procure as many comforts of life as are consistent with his mental and bodily constitution; and to avert impending danger, or, in other words, to preserve himself from the injurious attacks of external agents, are nearly the whole of what relates to the practical part of human life. The present work being exclusively devoted to the departments of health and general economy, no subject could with propriety be introduced, which had a reference to ethics or morals, to metaphysics, or the abstract and professional sciences.

In order to unite conciseness with general utility, the theoretical or speculative part of every invention, discovery, or improvement, forms but a small portion of the Domestic Encyclopædia; because the rationale, or elementary principles, are only inserted in those instances where the subject cannot be sufficiently understood without them—as the alphabetical form possesses many advantages over the systematic division and subdivision of articles, it has in the present case, been preferred, as more eligible for a popular work.

It will be easily conceived, that the subjects treated of in this collection must be numerous and important; inasmuch as the economical sciences are intimately connected with natural and experimental philology, including the knowledge of useful animals, plants, and minerals; chemistry, agriculture, gardening, hunting, the cultivation of trees, rearing of cattle, fishing, &c. To enable, however, the reader to judge of the method by which subjects apparently intricate and abstruse, are reduced to the level of ordinary capacities, the following heads will furnish an outline of the economical dictionary:

1. A concise historical account of the subject under consideration, or the manner in which it is most advantageously produced, either by nature or art—for instance, fuel, candles, hats, shoes, wine, yarn, &c.

2. The most judicious and economical mode of applying every substance to useful purposes.

3. All the newly discovered methods of defending the objects of domestic and rural economy, from the effects of air, heat, and cold, the changes of climate, seasons, and other contingent causes; likewise, the most effectual way of preserving particular substances, such as roots, fruits, plants, &c. from the depredations of insects, reptiles, and other animals.

4. An explanation of the general effects which every article of food and drink, as well as all external and contingent causes, produce on the health of the human body; together with the most approved rules and directions for its preservation.

5. As the list of human afflictions contains many and obstinate diseases, such as cancers, consumption, epilepsy, gout, palsy, white swellings, &c. which have hitherto been for the most part considered as incurable, a concise and faithful account of the latest and most plausible remedies, or methods of treatment, is given.

FROM this account of the Domestic Encyclopædia, it must be obvious to all, that the nature of the work is peculiarly adapted to the present wants of the United States. Perhaps it contains a greater number of useful facts than have ever appeared in the compass of four moderate volumes. No pains, trouble, or expence appear to have been spared to render this economical dictionary as complete as the present advancement of agriculture, gardening, of the familiar arts and manufactures, as well as the imperfect state of medical science, would respectively admit. It includes almost every object more or less connected with rural, domestic, and animal economy. Hence the reader will find numerous experiments related, many hundreds of which have not hitherto been published in the English language.

With regard to the additions, the editor will observe, that no exertions shall be wanting on his part, to render them as useful as possible, to the people of this country—As no other diseases but those enumerated in article five, are introduced in the original work, and as it is peculiarly adapted to the situation of persons in the country, remote from medical aid, it has been deemed necessary in the present edition to detail the most approved methods of guarding against the attack of diseases, commonly prevalent in the United States, of curing them when actually present, and of treating the various accidents to which agricultural people are liable. There shall also be given, as full an account of all the poisonous plants growing in the United States, as can be obtained.

Care shall be taken to detail all the discoveries which have been made in the United States—These will be found to be more numerous than is generally imagined—Many machines for diminishing labor, and which are peculiar to this country, shall be described and illustrated by plates.

The VETERINARY SCIENCE comprehending the application of the principles of medicine, to the preservation of the health of domestic animals, and the cure of their diseases, shall also claim a due degree of attention—That destructive and native disease, the yellow water of horses, shall be described, and a successful method of cure pointed out.

Lastly, the object of the work being to supply families with a compact guide, in all economical affairs, every useful fact in rural and domestic economy, omitted by Dr. Willich, and which may be known to the editor, shall be inserted; and in order to take advantage of progressing improvements, arrangements have been made to have all the periodical works on the above subjects, forwarded as soon as published in England or France.

The editor will thankfully receive any communications which may tend to improve the work, and he begs leave respectfully to solicit them.

The publishers have but little to add for themselves; knowing, that professions generally are, and, perhaps, ought to be, in a great measure, unavailing, they refer the public to the books they have already published. They have given to the world two editions of Dr. Russell's Modern Europe, within the last three years; the manner, therefore, in which they execute their undertakings, can be ascertained. In the present work, if they do not advance much, they pledge themselves not to degenerate. It shall be printed in the first style of uniformity and taste. The paper shall be superfine; and the engravings at least equal to those in the London copy.

CONDITIONS.

I. It shall be printed in five large handsome octavo volumes. One volume shall be delivered every three months. Price to subscribers, two dollars and fifty cents per volume, in boards, payable on delivery.

II. The first volume shall appear on the first of April, 1803, and a volume regularly every three months afterwards.

III. It may be had in one delivery when finished, at twelve dollars and fifty cents per set, or fifteen dollars well bound, payable on the delivery of the books. It will, however, be only obtained at these prices, by those who give the publishers their names during the process of the work, to take it when finished.

IV. At any considerable distance from Philadelphia, it can only be delivered in the last mentioned manner—the forwarding of single volumes to many places being impracticable.

N. B. The public will please to notice, that the amount in price of this improved and extended work, is not higher than the London work in four volumes.

 Among the numerous original articles which will appear in the first volume of this work, and the substance of which is not contained in any other Encyclopædia, we shall enmerate only the following: Abdomen, abortion, abscesses, abstinence, adulterations, agriculture (in general), agues, air, ale and beer, animation (suspended), anodynes, antidotes, apoplexy, apples and apple-trees, apricots, asparagus, baking, barley, barometers, bedsteads, beef, bees and bee-hives, beet-root, blacking (Frankford), bleaching, bleedings, books (popular), bread, breath (offensive), brewing, bricks (indestructible), buildings, burials, burns, butter, &c. &c.

☞ Subscriptions will be taken in at any of the bookstores in Baltimore.

Lands for Sale.

The Executors of the late general George Washington, offer for sale, the following TRACTS of LAND, viz.

A tract in Loudoun county, on Difficult run, containing 300 acres. The soil well adapted for farming, and a considerable proportion of it might easily be improved into meadow. There is a valuable mill seat on the premises. It lies on the great road from the City of Washington, Alexandria and George-Town to Leesburgh and Winchester, nineteen miles from Alexandria, less from the City and George-Town, and not more than three from the Great Falls of Potomak.

One tract containing 2481 acres, lying in the counties of Loudoun and Fauquier, called Ashby's bent. The soil is that which is said to be most favorable to plaster of Paris, well watered by several never failing streams issuing from the mountain. Part of this land is cleared and tenanted for lives.

One tract lying part in each of the above counties, containing 885 acres. Chatten's run passes through this tract and gives several valuable mill seats. The soil is similar to the above tract, and equally favorable to plaster of Paris.

A tract on the south fork of Bullskin, containing 1600 acres; one also, head of Evans' mill, containing 453 acres; and one on Wormley's line, containing 183 acres. These several tracts are in Jefferson (late Berkeley) county—the soil very similar in quality, and particularly adapted to the culture of tobacco, hemp, wheat and Indian corn situated twelve miles from Harper's ferry.

One tract containing 571 acres, in Frederick county. This land is in the vicinity of the last mentioned tracts, and equally valuable.

One tract in Hampshire county, containing 240 acres. This tract, though small, is extremely valuable—it lies on Potomak river, about 12 miles above the town of Bath (or Warm Springs,) and is in the shape of a horse-shoe, the river running almost round it; two hundred acres of it are rich low grounds, with a great abundance of the largest walnut and other trees, which, with the produce of the soil, might (by means of the improved navigation of the Potomak) be brought to a shipping port with more ease and at a smaller expence, than that which is transported only 30 miles by land.

One third part of 1119 acres in Nansemond county, near Suffolk, lying on the road from Suffolk to Norfolk, and on Nansemond river. This land is considered extremely valuable by those who are acquainted with it.

One tract in Charles county, Maryland, containing 600 acres—it is very level, and lies near the river Potomak.

One tract in Montgomery county, Maryland, containing 519 acres. This land lies about 30 miles above the City of Washington, not far from Kotoctan and is good farming land.

One tract in Pennsylvania, containing 234 acres. This land affords an exceeding good stand on Braddock's road from Fort Cumberland to Pittsburg, and a large quantity of natural meadow, fit for the scythe. It is distinguished by the appellation of the Great Meadows, where the first action with the French, in the year 1754 was fought.

One other tract on the Mohawk river, state of New-York, containing 1000 acres.

In North-Western Territory.

Three tracts lying on Little Miami, containing, 3051 acres.

In Kentucky.

On Rough creek, one tract containing 3000 acres; ditto, adjoining, 2000 acres.

Indisputable titles can be given for the above lands.

Lots in the City of Washington.

Two improved lots near the capitol, square 634. The improvements are, on each, an elegant three-story brick house.

Four other unimproved lots on the Eastern Branch, Nos. 5, 12, 13 and 14, in square 667. These lots are advantageously situated on the water.

Alexandria.

A few valuable lots in Alexandria, corner of Pitt and Prince-streets; three or four of which are let on ground rent at 3 dollars per foot.

Winchester.

One lot in town, of half an acre, adjoining Dr. Makay's, enclosed with a good post and rail fence and another lot in the commons of about six acres.

Bath, or Warm Springs.

Two well situated lots, on one of them is a small building large enough to accommodate one family.

The terms of sale will be made known by application to either of the subscribers.

For Sale,

SELBY MILLS, with 330 Acres of LAND, 8 miles from this city, near Elk-Ridge Landing, and about half a mile from the road leading to the city of Washington. The mills are in good repair, capable of manufacturing 50,000 bushels of wheat yearly, to the best advantage, having water carriage to the spot, which renders this situation one of the best in this state, as the business can be carried on at an inconsiderable expence. The mill house is 40 by 50 feet, four stories, the lower parts stone and the two upper stories of brick; the other improvements are a good two-story brick dwelling house and kitchen, stone barn and stables, cooper's shop, a small house for a miller or farmer, and a two-story brick dwelling house, suitable for a master cooper. The land is of an agreeable soil, capable of improvement, being well adapted to plaster of Paris; about 100 acres of which are cleared, the remainder is well covered with thriving young timber. This valuable property may be purchased on accommodating terms, on application to
