A new and practical Work.

A PROPOSAL,

BY WILLIAM Y. BIRCH, & ABRAHAM SMALL,
Of the city of Philadelphia,

For publiſhing in volumes, by ſubſcription, that uſeful and popular work, the

DOMESTIC ENCYCLOPÆDIA;

OR, A
DICTIONARY OF FACTS,
AND USEFUL KNOWLEDGE:

Comprehending a conciſe view of the lateſt diſcoveries, inventions, and improvements, chiefly applicable to rural and domeſtic economy. Together with deſcriptions of the moſt intereſting objects of nature and art; the hiſtory of men and animals, in a ſtate of health or diſeaſe; and practical hints reſpecting the arts and manufactures, both familiar and commercial.

Illuſtrated with numerous engravings and cuts.

BY A. F. M. WILLICH, M. D.
Author of the Lectures on Diet and Regimen, &c.
Firſt American edition,
With additions, applicable to the preſent ſituation of the United States,
BY JAMES MEASE, M. D.
Fellow of the American Philoſophical Society, and correſponding member of the Literary and Philoſophical Society of Manchester.

To the Public.

AS the practical tendency of the work here announced, muſt be evident from the contents of the preceeding ticle its peculiar nature ſcarcely requires further explanation.

When we conſider the natural condition of man, the object of all his purſuits becomes at once manifeſt and defined. To live with ſatisfaction to himſelf and others; to procure as many comforts of life as are conſiſtent with his mental and bodily conſtitution; and to avert impending danger, or, in other words, to preſerve himſelf from the injurious attacks of external agents, are nearly the whole of what relates to the practical part of human life. The preſent work being excluſively devoted to the departments of health and general economy, no ſubject could with propriety be introduced, which had a reference to ethics or morals, to metaphyſics, or the abſtract and profeſſional ſciences.

In order to unite conciſeneſs with general utility, the theoretical or ſpeculative part of every invention, diſcovery, or improvement, forms but a ſmall portion of the Domeſtic Encyclopædia; becauſe the rationale, or elementary principles, are only inſerted in thoſe inſtances where the ſubject cannot be ſufficiently underſtood without them—And as the alphabetical form poſſeſſes many advantages over the ſyſtematic diviſion and ſubdiviſion of articles, it has in the preſent caſe, been preferred, as more eligible for a popular work.

It will be eaſily conceived, that the ſubjects treated of in this collection muſt be numerous and important; inasmuch as the economical ſciences are intimately connected with natural and experimental philoſophy, including the knowledge of uſeful animals, plants, and minerals; chemiſtry, agriculture, gardening, hunting, the cultivation of trees, rearing of cattle, fiſhing, &c. To enable, however, the reader to judge of the method by which ſubjects apparently intricate and abſtruſe, are reduced to the level of ordinary capacities, the following heads will furniſh an outline of the economical dictionary:

1. A conciſe hiſtorical account of the ſubject under conſideration, or the manner in which it is moſt advantageouſly produced, either by nature or art—for inſtance, fuel, candles, hats, ſhoes, wine, yarn, &c.

2. The moſt judicious and economical mode of applying every ſubſtance to uſeful purpoſes.

3. All the newly diſcovered methods of defending the objects of domeſtic and rural economy, from the effects of air, heat, and cold, the changes of climate, ſeaſons, and other contingent cauſes; likewiſe, the moſt effectual way of preſerving particular ſubſtances, ſuch as ſeeds, roots, plants, &c. from the depredations of inſects, reptiles, and other animals.

4. An explanation of the general effects which every article of food and drink, as well as all external and contingent cauſes, produce on the health of the human body; together with the moſt approved rules and directions for its preſervation.

5. As the liſt of human afflictions contains many and obſtinate diſeaſes, ſuch as cancers, conſumption, epilepſy, gout, gally, white ſwellings, &c. which have hitherto been for the moſt part conſidered as incurable, a conciſe and faithful account of the lateſt and moſt plauſible remedies, or methods of treatment, is given.

FROM this account of the Domeſtic Encyclopædia, it muſt be obvious to all, that the nature of the work is peculiarly adapted to the preſent wants of the United States. Perhaps it contains a greater number of uſeful facts than have ever appeared in the compaſs of four moderate volumes. No pains, trouble, or expence appear to have been ſpared to render this economical dictionary as complete as the preſent advancement of agriculture, gardening, of the familiar arts and manufactures, as well as the imperfect ſtate of medical ſcience, would reſpectively admit. It includes almoſt every object more or leſs connected with rural, domeſtic, and animal economy. Hence the reader will find numerous experiments related, many hundreds of which have not hitherto been publiſhed in the Engliſh language.

With regard to the additions, the editor will obſerve, that no exertions ſhall be wanting on his part, to render them as uſeful as poſſible, to the people of this country—As no other diſeaſes but thoſe enumerated in article five, are introduced in the original work, and as it is peculiarly adapted to the ſituation of perſons in the country, remote from medical aid, it has been deemed neceſſary in the preſent edition to detail the moſt approved methods of guarding againſt the attack of diſeaſes, commonly prevalent in the United States, of curing them when actually preſent, and of treating the various accidents to which agricultural people are liable. There ſhall alſo be given, as full an account of all the poiſonous plants growing in the United States, as can be obtained.

Care ſhall be taken to detail all the diſcoveries which have been made in the United States—Theſe will be found to be more numerous than is generally imagined—Many machines for diminiſhing labor, and which are peculiar to this country, ſhall be deſcribed and illuſtrated by plates.

The VETERINARY SCIENCE comprehending the application of the principles of medicine, to the preſervation of the health of domeſtic animals, and the cure of their diſeaſes, ſhall alſo claim a due degree of attention—That deſtructive and native diſeaſe, the yellow water of horſes, ſhall be deſcribed, and a ſucceſsful method of cure pointed out.

Laſtly, the object of the work being to ſupply families with a compact guide, in all economical affairs, every uſeful fact in rural and domeſtic economy, omitted by Dr. Willich, and which may be known to the editor, ſhall be inſerted; and in order to take advantage of progreſſing improvements, arrangements have been made to have all the periodical works on the above ſubjects, forwarded as ſoon as publiſhed in England or France.

The editor will thankfully receive any communications which may tend to improve the work, and he begs leave reſpectfully to ſolicit them.

The publiſhers have but little to add for themſelves; knowing, that profeſſions generally are, and, perhaps, ought to be, in a great meaſure, unavailing, they refer the public to the books they have already publiſhed. They have given to the world two editions of Dr. Ruſſell's Modern Europe, within the laſt three years; the manner, therefore, in which they execute their undertakings, can be aſcertained. In the preſent work, if they do not advance much, they pledge themſelves not to degenerate. It ſhall be printed in the firſt ſtyle of uniformity and taſte. The paper ſhall be ſuperfine; and the engravings at leaſt equal to thoſe in the London copy.

CONDITIONS.

I. It ſhall be printed in five large handſome octavo volumes. One volume ſhall be delivered every three months. Price to ſubſcribers, two dollars and fifty cents per volume, in boards, payable on delivery.

II. The firſt volume ſhall appear on the firſt of April, 1803, and a volume regularly every three months afterwards.

III. It may be had in one delivery when finiſhed, at twelve dollars and fifty cents per ſet, or fifteen dollars well bound, payable on the delivery of the books. It will, however, be only obtained at theſe prices, by thoſe who give the publiſhers their names during the proceſs of the work, to take it when finiſhed.

IV. At any conſiderable diſtance from Philadelphia, it can only be delivered in the laſt mentioned manner—the forwarding of ſingle volumes to many places being impracticable.

N. B. The public will pleaſe to notice, that the amount in price of this improved and extended work, is not higher than the London work in four volumes.

☞ Among the numerous original articles which will appear in the firſt volume of this work, and the ſubſtance of which is not contained in any other Encyclopædia, we ſhall enmerate only the following: Abdomen, abortion, abſceſſes, abſtinence, adulterations, agriculture (in general), agues, air, ale and beer, animation (ſuſpended), anodynes, antidotes, apoplexy, apples and apple-trees, apricots, aſparagus, baking, barley, barometers, bedſteads, beef, bees and bee-hives, beet-root, blacking (Frankford), bleaching, bleedings, books (popular), bread, breath (offenſive), brewing, bricks (indeſtructible), buildings, burials, burns, butter, &c. &c.

☞ Subſcriptions will be taken in at any of the bookſtores in Baltimore.

Lands for Sale.

The Executors of the late general George Waſhington, offer for ſale, the following TRACTS of LAND, viz.

A tract in Loudoun county, on Difficult run, containing 300 acres. The ſoil well adapted for farming, and a conſiderable proportion of it might eaſily be improved into meadow. There is a valuable mill ſeat on the premiſes. It lies on the great road from the City of Waſhington, Alexandria and George-Town to Leeſburgh and Winchester, nineteen miles from Alexandria, leſs from the City and George-Town, and not more than three from the Great Falls of Potomak.

One tract containing 2481 acres, lying in the counties of Loudoun and Fauquier, called Aſhby's bent. The ſoil is that which is ſaid to be moſt favorable to plaſter of Paris, well watered by ſeveral never failing ſtreams iſſuing from the mountain. Part of this land is cleared and tenanted for lives.

One tract lying part in each of the above counties, containing 885 acres. Chatten's run paſſes through this tract and gives ſeveral valuable mill ſeats. The ſoil is ſimilar to the above tract, and equally favorable to plaſter of Paris.

A tract on the ſouth fork of Buliſkin, containing 1600 acres; one alſo, head of Evans' mill, containing 453 acres; and one on Wormley's line, containing 183 acres. One tract containing 571 acres, in Frederick county. This land is in the vicinity of the laſt mentioned tracts, and equally valuable.

One tract in Hampſhire county, containing 240 acres. This tract, though ſmall, is extremely valuable—It lies on Potomak river, about 12 miles above the town of Bath (or Warm Springs,) and is in the ſhape of a horſe-ſhoe; the river running almoſt round it; two hundred acres of it are rich low grounds, with a great abundance of the largeſt walnut and other trees, which, with the produce of the ſoil, might (by means of the improved navigation of the Potomak) be brought to a ſhipping port with more eaſe and at a ſmaller expence, than that which is tranſported only 30 miles by land.

One third part of 1119 acres in Nanſemond county, near Suffolk, lying on the road from Suffolk to Norfolk, and on Nanſemond river. This land is conſidered extremely valuable by thoſe who are acquainted with it.

One tract in Charles county, Maryland, containing 600 acres—it is very level, and lies near the river Potomak.

One tract in Montgomery county, Maryland, containing 519 acres. This land lies about 30 miles above the City of Waſhington, not far from Kotoctan and is good farming land.

One tract in Pennſylvania, containing 234 acres. This land affords an exceeding good ſtand on Braddock's road from Fort Cumberland to Pittſburg, and a large quantity of natural meadow, fit for the ſcythe. It is diſtinguiſhed by the appellation of the Great Meadows, where the firſt action with the French, in the year 1754 was fought.

One other tract on the Mohawk river, ſtate of New-York, containing 1000 acres.

In North-Weſtern Territory.

Three tracts lying on Little Miami, containing, 3051 acres.
