WILMINGTON, (N. C.) April 21.

Arrived on Monday last, brig Alexis, Robert Allison, master, in 38 days from Newry, in Ireland.

The accounts of the Alexis are encouraging to many of the shippers of flax seed to Ireland, the past winter. The loss of several vessels, chiefly loaded with that article, on the coasts of England and Ireland, had operated to advance the price, and it was expected the market would not open under six and seven pounds per cask.

Large contracts were making for provisions for government. The last advices there from England mention that a considerable fleet was fitting out, and places of rendezvous opened for seamen. The internal state of Ireland was far from that quietness that might be wished.

The Alexis, on Sunday, while off the bar firing for a pilot, Elias Grahams, the 2d mate, a young man of Newry, lost both his hands and had one of his arms broke by the bursting of a gun. To add to his misfortune he was thrown into the sea, but in this shocking situation swam until the boat was sent to his assistance. We understand that he is in a fair way of recovery, not however without having the broken arm imputated.

Captain Allison spoke the following vessels March 28th, schooner Two Friends, Wheeler, from Madeira, bound to Baltimore, out 14 days. April 15th, schooner Cornelius, of New-York, 3 days from Savannah. 16th, schooner Hannah, from St. Kitts, out 21 days.

ALEXANDRIA, May 5.

Amount of FLOUR and MEAL inspected at this port for three monts, ending the 30th April last.

69,022 whole barrels.
2,581 half do.
345 meal.

D. DOUGLASS,
Flour Inspector.

Yesterday exhibited a pleasing spectacle to the enterprizing citizens of Alexandria, the wind which had blown for several days from the north-west, shifted to the southward and eastward and wafted into port upwards of twenty sail of vessels, most of them from Europe and the West-Indies.

Captain Coleman of the schooner Sparrow, arrived here yesterday from Jamaica, informs us that while there two vessels arrived from Aux-Cayes, the captains of which told him that immediately on the arrival of a vessel at Aux-Cayes the captain and two-thirds of the crew were obliged to go and fight the negroes and the vessels embargoed. The French admiral had made application to the governor of Jamaica for permission to refit his ships there, but the governor had refused. Captain Coleman saw three French men of war at anchor in the bay, and one standing up the bay, very much damaged.

Captain Croudhill of this port sailed three days before captain Coleman, from Jamaica, and captain Wattles of the schr. Paragon, was nearly ready to sail.

FEDERAL GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, May 6.

ALL A-BACK!

The speculations in flour, &c. going on since yesterday morning, appear to have given way for a moment to speculations upon the contradictory accounts from Europe. The following articles from the Boston Gazette, of the 2d instant, are the latest which come in a printed or any other creditable form, although there are letters in town from Philadelphia, stating, that by an express arrived there on Wednesday morning, from New-York—the news of a declaration of war was unquestionable. One letter says, the declaration was made on the 25th, and that the intelligence had been received at New-York, by the Active, on the evening of the 3d instant. The New-York papers of the subsequent morning do not even mention her arrival—besides, the mail of that city did not close till twelve o'clock, noon. Again, if the proclamation was published on the 25th at London, why was it not received at Liverpool, on the 27th, when it could have reached that city in about a day and a half? We state these facts and hints and leave the rest to our readers, who are as capable of drawing an accurate conclusion as we are. A little time will very probably settle all doubts on this momentous affair. The European arrivals yesterday at this port, bring nothing new on this subject.

From the Boston Gazette of May 2.

RUMOR.

With her hundred tongues, has been very loquacious, for a few days past on the subject of a war in Europe.

On Saturday, she announced in the Centinel, that war had been declared. This important news was brought by the arrival of the ship Volunteer, captain Bosworth, at Portsmouh from Liverpool, who reported, that "on the 23d March, in the river, he was boarded by a lieutenant of a man of war, who informed him that the declaration of war against France had that day been received in Liverpool from the admiralty."

This intelligence, from the previous accounts of hostile preparations, created a belief, and had a considerable influence on our markets, while it lasted; but on Saturday noon the Diana, captain Wilson arrived at this port from Liverpool, which place he left four or five days after the Volunteer, and brings a contradiction of the intelligence of captain Bosworth, that was had been actually declared.

The verbal information of captain Wilson, and letters received by him to the 27th March, state, that public opinion seems to be divided, as to the event of measures adopted by the British administration; and while some are induced to believe that war is actually determined on, others are of opinion, that the arrangements will ultimately result in effecting a punctilious compliance with the articles of the treaty between the two nations, which have hitherto been delayed and left open for alteration. All intelligence, however, that has been received here from France and England indicates symptoms of actual hostility.

Captain Hilton, of the ship President, arrived here yesterday from Miverpool, sailed in company with captain Wilson, and corroborates the intelligence communicated by him.

The London papers, by these arrivals, are to the 20th March.

From the Key to the Cabinet—the Aurora.

Extract from Washington city, to the editor, dated May 2, 1803.

"An express has reached this place, and is said to have brought dispatches from our ambassador at London, containing advices of the actual renewal of war in Europe." [Aurora.]

[The key has not got into the right lock this time! The ground of the above communication, is a letter from Mr. King to the executive, expressing an opinion that war would take place between England and France, but not that it was declared, as has also been reported here.]

An express messenger arrived in this city from New-York yesterday morning, who left New-York the preceding night, at 9 o'clock. The celerity of his journey was retarded by a suspicion excited as he passed through Jersey, that he was evading pursuit, and he was detained until the production of his letters for this city, and the nature of his mission caused him to be permitted to pursue his journey, which, nevertheless, he performed in 11 hours. The advices which he brought, are, that war had actually recommenced in Europe and had been formally declared by Great-Britain on the 25th March. [Aurora.]

May 5.

Arrived, English ship Firm, Mason, 50 days from Lisbon—Salt—Charles Christie. In lat. 35, 28, long. 35, 29. on the 31st of March, fell in with a ship, deserted by all the crew except one man (an Irishman) who says he was forced on board at Martinique, and understood the ship was bound to Bordeaux—That a few days before the Firm fell in with her, she was run foul of by a Spanish or French frigate, which carried away her bowsprit and injured her considerably---the crew thinking she must inevitably go down, made a signal of distress and were taken up by the frigate, with the exception of this man, who was ordered (at the risk of his life) not to leave the ship, and threatened to be run through if he attempted to get in the boat. In this situation he remained four days, when the Firm hove in sight, and humanely gave him every assistance in their power, overhauled the ship and made some necessary repairs, and found that she might probably be brought in. Accordingly, Mr. Charles Christie, (supercargo of the Firm) and 6 men went on board, and brought her safe into port, in company with the Firm. She is a fine ship, 250 to 300 tons; laden with coffee, cocoa and sugar---not materially damaged. The man not understanding French, did not learn the names of the captain and vessel.
