plundering the veſſel—on the captain's going on board with the papers, he was confined below by a guard fixed at the companion—the boat returned with 8 armed ruffians, who immediately began plundering; they broke open a hogſhead of ſugar, and took about 400lb. all the cabin ſtores, ſeveral pieces of linen, & 20 dollars from the captain. It would be too arduous to enter into a minute deſcription of this ſanguinary banditti; ſuffice it to ſay, that after pilfering what came in their way, they returned on board the privateer, releaſed the captain and ſuffered us to proceed. Auguſt 29, was brought to by a French privateer of 2 guns and 20 men—they ordered the boat out immediately, but on the captain informing them it was impoſſible to keep the boat above water; that we had been juſt robbed by a French privateer, they ſuffered us to proceed. Auguſt 30, was brought to by a French privateer of 4 guns and 40 men—they out boat and came on board; treated us with very abuſive language, and on their leaving the veſſel, had the niggardneſs to plunder the cook of his ladle—after detaining us one hour, permitted us to proceed." FEDERAL GAZETTE.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 21.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Philadelphia, to his friend in this city, dated September 19.

"Although the board of health (a majority of whom do not believe in importation) have expreſſed their opinion publicly, that the prevailing malignant fever has a domeſtic origin—yet by far the greateſt portion of the inhabitants do not entertain the leaſt doubt of its being introduced from New-York. You will obſerve by the report of the board, that 29 phyſicians had announced three caſes in the 24 hours ending on Saturday; and I obſerve by this evening's paper that 32 phyſicians reported 12 caſes for the laſt 48 hours. The interments from the 1ſt to the 16th, incluſive, are 130—86 adults and 44 children. This number includes the city and liberties, one burying ground belonging to a ſmall congregation, excepted. Whether the caſes reported are really the yellow fever or not, I will not pretend to ſay; but I believe every indiſpoſition is ſet down to this account, and that it by no means follows, becauſe it is ſo declared in the outſet, that it will prove to be the fact. My opinion from the beginning has been, that the panic was unproportioned to the danger, and that people gave too much way to their feelings. From the moſt correct information I can get, the diſorder does not increaſe, and we have hopes that it will not, as the weather is not favorable to its propagation—but I do not calculate on a perfect re-eſtabliſhment of confidence until the appearance of froſt. A particular part of the town is evacuated, and many removals have taken place, but theſe circumſtances are by no means general. My family remain in town, and I ſhould not feel the leaſt apprehenſion of their continuing to do ſo, unleſs there was more cauſe of alarm than there is at preſent. It is a great misfortune that the ſtate of the public mind is ſuch, that an unfounded alarm is as diſaſtrous as a real one; and as it ſeldom happens that a ſeaſon paſſes over without ſome ſuſpicious bilious caſes, it will be almoſt a miracle to eſcape the pains and penalties of the yellow fever. I ſhall have the pleaſure to write you in three or four days, and I hope I ſhall have an agreeable communication. Although ſome parts of the town are evacuated, as I have obſerved, yet in others there is conſiderable buſineſs doing; and our ſituation is very different from what it wou'd be, if the fever really raged. Your board of health could not be cenſured for the meaſure of precaution, and I hope it will have the deſired effect."

We underſtand that an enquiry has been inſtituted by profeſſional gentlemen at Alexandria, to aſcertain the origin of the malignant fever raging in that place; and that it has terminated in a confirmed opinion, that it was derived from one or more veſſels from New-York.

Married laſt evening, by the reverend Mr. Inglis, Mr. Alexander Reinagle, manager of the Philadelphia and Baltimore theatres, to Miſs Ann Duport, daughter of Mr. Peter Duport.

From the Wilmington Mirror.

MUSQUETOES.—An ingenious citizen of this borough has furniſhed the editor of the Mirror with the following ſimple remedy for the torment and inconvenience occaſioned by thoſe little diſturbers of our repoſe, the muſquetoes:

Take a common table ſpoonful of ſpirits of turpentine and throw it into your water hogſheads, and in every other place where there is ſtagnated water, (about the ſame proportion for a large ſurface); repeat it every 5 or 6 days, and it will effectually prevent their propagation.

He remarks that it would be uſeleſs to urge the utility and even neceſſity of giving this experiment a fair trial, to thoſe who for one or two ſeaſons paſt, particularly the laſt, have felt all the painful embarraſſments of thoſe troubleſome inmates.

He ſtates the opinion that they are moſtly bred in marſhes to be erroneous, and ſays that the number bred there are ſmall in proportion to thoſe raiſed in water hogſheads, &c. He informs us that he has ſeen from 8 to 10,000 in a ſingle hogſhead. They take wing in about 48 hours after the egg is depoſited, and give place to as many more. The period of their breeding is about 10 weeks. Allowing that there are 700 receptacles in this town in which muſquetoes breed, and this is a very moderate allowance, it reſults that 70,000,000 would be produced in one ſeaſon, which is about 14,000 to each inhabitant!

From a London paper.

Letters from Cadiz, dated June 28th, received by a mercantile houſe of reſpectability in the city, intimate a great riſe in the Spaniſh funds. It is owing to the ſafe arrival of the regiſter ſhips with their rich cargoes of gold and ſilver from Mexico and Peru. One important fact is worthy of notice: At the concluſion of the late war, about 80,000,000 dollars, or nineteen millions ſterling, remained in Mexico and Peru, it having been thought too great a hazard to endanger this immenſe ſum before the full and perfect re-eſtabliſhment of peace. If it be true, that this extraordinary quantity of gold and ſilver has lately been received in Spain, the riſe both of the French and Spaniſh funds may very eaſy be accounted for, it being equal to the produce of five years of the mines.

Admiral De Winter having diſpatched the ſquadron which he commanded in the Mediterranean to the Eaſt-Indies, is now on his return by land to the Hague.

It appears certain that Bonaparte will make a ſecond inſpection of the maritime coaſts and ports, in order to diſpoſe every thing for the great enterprize againſt England. The Batavian government has given new orders for the recruiting of their naval and military forces; their recruiting parties have gone into Germany, and hope to profit by the diſſolution of the Hanoverian army to obtain numerous recruits. The ſame government has put into commiſſion a ſhip of the line and ſeveral gun-boats, and in nearly all the ports of Holland great exertions are uſed in arming and equipping a great number of other veſſels, which will ſhortly be placed at the diſpoſal of the French government.

DISTINCTION.

The rage for diſtinction, and notoriety is very miſchievous in ſociety. It makes men diſcontented with their proper ſphere of life, which by nature and education, they are fitted to move with propriety, and puts them upon aſpiring after ſtations far above themſelves, the duties of which their abilities are not at all equal to fulfil. Hence the community loſe a good member in one inſtance, and have a bad one forced upon them in another.

When a huſbandman clamed kinſhip with Robert Groſthead, biſhop of Lincoln, and thereupon requeſted from him an office; 'Couſin,' ſaid the biſhop, 'if your cart be broken, I'll mend it; if your plough be old, I'll give you a new one, and even ſeed to ſow your land; but an huſbandman I found you, and huſbandman I'll leave you.'

The biſhop thought it kinder to ſerve him in his way, than to take him out of his way: and perhaps Stephen Duck, the threſher, had been better provided for, if, inſtead of being firſt penſioned and afterwards ordained, he had been endowed with ten acres of land, and ſuffered to threſh on. By turning the laborious threſher into an inactive parſon, they brought lunacy firſt, and then ſuicide, upon a man who might otherwiſe have enjoyed himſelf with two cows and a pig, and ended his days in ſerenity and eaſe.

September 20.

Arrived, the brig Nancy, captain Nelſon, of Charleſton, 24 days from St. Jago—ſugar, hides, and 31 paſſengers—the captain. Left there, brig Oxford, capt. Frazier, of Baltimore; ſchooner Hiram, Weſton, of New-York; Maria, Coffin, ditto; Betſy, Hathan, of Salem; Two Friends, of New-York: none of them except the Oxford, was permitted to land their cargoes, and ſeveral veſſels had left it for St. Domingo, in conſequence.

Captain Ballance, of the ſchooner Lively, from North-Carolina, reports, he ſaw two ſhips below Smith's Point, ſtanding up the Bay, wind ahead.

THE ROADS.

It muſt be admitted that whatever will add to the proſperity of Baltimore, is the intereſt not only of Baltimore county, but alſo of all that portion of country ſituate nearer to it than any other ſeaport town; becauſe the more populous and opulent Baltimore is, the more certain and ſteady will the market for produce be. Good roads will doubtleſs have an effect to bring more produce to market, by the ſhipment of which the merchant will have his profit and thereby be enabled more compleatly to purſue his uſeful employ; without which, agriculture cannot exiſt, but to a very limited extent. The farmer and planter will be enriched by being enabled with greater facility to tranſport his heavy produce to market; hence it is the intereſt of all claſſes of the community to have good roads. What is the reaſon lands are ſo much more valuable 3 miles diſtance from market than they are 30? The anſwer is very plain. It is becauſe the difficulty and expence is leſs in getting their produce to market. If you have lands within one mile of the city that you can neither get to or from, of what more value are they, than thoſe ſituated on the top of the Allegany mountain? Suppoſe there are no roads to market, of what value would produce be to the farmer? None. It muſt remain in the granary to be deſtroyed. If you have a road ſo bad, that it will require four horſes to convey thirty buſhels twenty miles in a day, it will be exactly the ſame expence to tranſport your produce to market that twenty miles, that it would be to convey it double the diſtance. if the roads were ſuch as that you could carry ſixty buſhels with the ſame force; hence the land forty miles from market is of the ſame value, provided you have a good road, that it would be only twenty miles, if the roads are bad. It may be very readily ſeen by this, how much it is the intereſt of the community to have an eaſy communication to market; and yet, ſtrange as it may appear, there are perſons to be found, who, with conviction ſtaring them full in the face, oppoſe the roads being made better; but from what motives, I ſhall leave the public to judge. However, I truſt the good ſenſe of the citizens of this ſtate will diſcern what is, and what is not their intereſt, and who are their real, and who their pretended friends.

The St. John's Church Lottery.

THE Managers of St. John's Church Lottery feel themſelves under great obligations to the public, and their friends in general, for the encouragement they have met with in the ſale of their tickets; they alſo inform the public, that they have yet on hand, from a correct ſtatement, 985 tickets, from which the managers wiſh the adventurers in this ſcheme to judge whether they have acted with impropriety or not in poſtponing the drawing. The managers do not pretend to continue drawing until a ſufficient number of tickets are ſold to warrant its completion; but when half the number on hands is diſpoſed of, they will again commence, and the public may then depend that they will continue to draw at leaſt 500 tickets or upwards a day, until the drawing is completed.
