Musical Skill,

On the Piano Forte,

BOTH for execution and taste, at the present period, is brought to such a degree of perfection, and so highly esteemed, that it is looked upon as one of the branches of a well cultivated education. But as something easy and interesting can be still added to the means of coming nearer to the perfection of this instrument, by exposing to the view several fundamental principles which are not sufficiently known, I thought the public would kindly patronize a new and concise work on the said instrument, unlike to any known method, and which is the fruit of serious meditations of the first masters in Europe. In it will be found directions how to sit at the Piano Forte, to lay the hand on the finger-board, to strike the keys, use the thumb and finger, the seven intervals, and all the gamuts, with a new division. Likewise, expositions of every diatonic, and aromatic gamuts, examples of the various musical graces, signs, their effects, or manner to execute them, examples of every quivering, with the various ways of fingering, double quiverings with one and same hand, four preludes, &c. &c.

This work, containing 20 or 25 pages, is offered for subscription to the lovers of arts, at 1 dollar 75 cents: to non-subscribers the price will be $2 50. Subscriptions will be thankfully received at Mr. Chaudron's, No. 12 South Third-street, Mr. S. Bradford's, No. 4, South Third-street; and at Mr Willig's musical store, No. 12, South Fourth-street.

The buildings are extensive, the situation elevated, the views delightfully rural, were formerly erected for a female academy, and as such occupied for a number of years. They solicit the patronage of their friends and the public, and assure them no effort on their part shall be wanting to give general satisfaction to parents. Every attention will be paid to the children, as to their instruction, morals, person and diet. Terms of tuition, board, washing and mending, 130 dollars per annum, payable quarterly. To those who find their own beds a suitable deduction will be made.
