or purchases are important, in as much as they consolidate disjoined parts of our settled country, and render their intercourse secure; and the second particularly so, as, with the small point on the river which we expect is by this time ceded by the Piankeshaws, it completes our possession of the whole of both banks of the Ohio, from its source to near its mouth, and the navigation of that river is thereby rendered forever safe to our citizens settled and settling on its extensive waters. The purchase from the Creeks too has been for some time particularly interesting to the state of Georgia.

The several treaties which have been mentioned will be submitted to both Houses of Congress for the exercise of their respective functions.

Deputations, now on their way to the seat of government from various nations of Indians inhabiting the Missouri and other parts beyond the Mississippi, come charged with assurances of their satisfaction with the new relations in which they are placed with us, of their dispositions to cultivate our peace and friendship, and their desire to enter into commercial intercourse with us. A state of our progress in exploring the principal rivers of that country, and of the information respecting them hitherto obtained, will be communicated so soon as we shall receive some further relations which we have reason shortly to expect.

The receipts at the treasury during the year ending on the 30th day of September last have exceeded the sum of thirteen millions of dollars, which, with not quite five millions in the treasury at the beginning of the year, have enabled us, after meeting other demands, to pay nearly two millions of the debt contracted under the British treaty and convention, upwards of four millions of principal of the public debt, and four millions of interest. These payments, with those which had been made in three years and an half preceding, have extinguished of the funded debt nearly eighteen millions of principal.

Congress, by their act of November 10, 1803, authorised us to borrow one million seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars towards meeting the claims of our citizens assumed by the convention with France. We have not however made use of this authority: because the sum of four millions and a half, which remained in the treasury on the same 30th day of September last, with the receipts which we may calculate on for the ensuing year, besides paying the annual sum of eight millions of dollars, appropriated to the funded debt, and meeting all the current demands which may be expected, will enable us to pay the whole sum of three millions seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars, assumed by the French convention, and still leave us a surplus of nearly a million of dollars at our free disposal. Should you concur in the provisions of arms and armed vessels recommended by the circumstances of the times, this surplus will furnish the means of doing so.

On this first occasion of addressing Congress since, by the choice of my constituents, I have entered on a second term of administration, I embrace the opportunity to give this public assurance that I will exert my best endeavours to administer faithfully the Executive Department, and will zealously co-operate with you in any measure which may tend to secure the liberty, property, and personal safety of our fellow citizens, and to consolidate the republican forms and principles of our government.

In the course of your session you shall receive all the aid which I can give for the dispatch of the public business, and all the information necessary for your deliberations, of which the interests of our own country, and the confidence reposed in us by others, will admit a communication.

TH: JEFFERSON.

December 3d, 1805.

NEW-YORK, December 2.

A letter from Liverpool, dated October 9, received via Savannah, says, "Upland cotton is very brisk at 21 1-2 to 24 pence."

We owe it to the politeness of captain Crowell, of the brig Washington, from Savannah, that we are enabled to lay before the readers of the Mercantile Advertiser this day a regular series of interesting European intelligence from the first to the fifth of October. The ship Tippoo Saib, capt. Bowman, had arrived at Savannah in 42 days from Liverpool: She brought London papers to the 5th, and Liverpool to the 7th of October; and the extracts that follow were published in a Savannah paper of Saturday se'nnight, with which captain Crowell has obligingly favored us.

LONDON, October 1.

Bonaparte has issued a declaration of war against Austria and Russia. The intelligence reached government yesterday morning by the way of Holland. The declaration was submitted to the senate on the 23d ult. and it is highly probable that Bonaparte has set out from Paris to head the army assembled at Strasburg.

October 3.

The last accounts from Vienna, in the Batavian Gazettes, reach to the 19th ult. They state that the emperor of Germany was to go to the Tyrol in the ensuing week, whence he was speedily to return and proceed to Hungary to open the Diet. The Hungarians would, it was thought, raise another army of reserve. The archduke Ferdinand has by this time joined the army in Bavaria.

The 2 columns of Austrians which have entered Suabia are estimated at 36,000 men. They will be followed by the main army, under the archduke Ferdinand and general Mack. The latter arrived at Augsburg on the 18th of September, and proceeded on the same day for Ulm. The imperial troops at Bregenz are also advancing towards the west of Suabia.

It is mentioned in several articles from the Tyrol, of the 14th of September, that the imperial troops from Venice are advancing in great force to the Adige, with a great train of battering artillery. The French were also advancing to the other side of the Adige. The bridges Della Pietra and Ponto Nuovo, at Verona, have been broken down by the French; and a third bridge strongly guarded. Marshal Massena had arrived at French Verona previous to the 13th of September, and his army had been reinforced by 4000 cavalry.

A heavy cannonade was heard at Augsburg about the 18th of September, from the side of the Tyrol and Switzerland, but no particulars were known.

The Russians continue their march to the hereditary dominions with the utmost expedition. They are allowed to halt only one day out of seven. The whole of the war establishment fixed by the court of Petersburg is stated at 300,000 men. In other words, this constitutes the total number of troops destined to co-operate against France. An article dated Petersburg the 11th ult. says, that the regiments which were to embark at Cronstadt had commenced their march for that port, where the stores and provisions were already shipped. Gen. Kutusow had received orders to go through the Austrian territory to Saltzburg, where he is to receive further instructions. The junction of the Russians with the imperialists on the frontiers of Bavaria cannot well be expected before the middle of this month.

October 4.

It was yesterday said that ministers had actually received by the last Hamburg packet, a declaration from the king of Prussia, in answer to the note presented to him by the two Imperial courts, that it was his determination to maintain a strict neutrality in the Circle of Lower Saxony, and that for the purpose of securing that part of Germany against encroachment by the armies of either of the belligerent powers, he had put his own army, to the amount of 100,000, on a footing of complete preparation.

Sir Sidney Smith attended yesterday morning at the admiralty, to make his report of his late attempt to burn the Boulogne flotilla. He came no doubt to consult with the board upon his further operations, and to receive instructions. Forty gun-boats are fitting out for him at Woolwich. They carry two guns, one on the bow and the other in the stern. They are very light, and consequently draw very little water.

The following bulletin was this morning issued from the admiralty, and posted at Lloyd's:

Admiralty Office, October 4.

Extract from the log-book of his majesty's ship Haddick.

Friday, Sept. 27, lat. 49, 8, long. 9, wind variable E. N. E. at half past 2, several guns fired in the N. W. at 3, observed his majesty's ship Calcutta, haul out of the convoy; at half past 3 a heavy cannonading commenced between the Calcutta and a very large ship; observed another ship coming up firing her bow chasers and two more ships following her. At half past 4, observed the large ship to haul from the Calcutta and heave to. At dark spoke the Indus, Indiaman, who informed me that the ship which engaged the Calcutta, was a large frigate, and the ships in chase of her were line of battle ships. At half past 9, heard a very heavy cannonading in the S. W. supposed to be between the Calcutta and the enemy. At half past 10, the firing ceased. At day light 4 sail in sight. At noon fresh breezes and cloudy; 3 strange sail in sight. It is perfectly understood at the India House, that none of the Calcutta's convoy were regular Indiamen. They consisted in all probability, of the Indus extra ship from Madras, and some South-Sea Whalers and Swedes. When admiral Rainier sailed from St. Helena, he left the following vessels there: the Indus; Maria Carolina (a Swede) from China; Africana, from the South-Seas; and a Dutch ship, prize to the Calcutta.

October 5.

In addition to the Bulletin, which we gave yesterday, respecting his majesty's ship Calcutta and her convoy, we have now to communicate the following extract of the log book of the African South Whaler, transmitted to the admiralty:—

"Thursday the 26th September, lat. 49, 20, N. long. 8, 40, W. the Calcutta made a signal for a strange fleet, and in the course of the day another for the enemy, and for all the convoy to disperse. Observed a ship of the line and four frigates, with about twenty sail of merchant ships supposed to be West-Indiamen, which they had captured. Two French frigates in chase of the African, coming up fast, hauled to the windward.

"Friday, 27th.—French frigates still in chase; at about 4 P. M. saw one of the enemy open her fire upon the Calcutta, which was returned from the stern chase guns of the latter. Apprehend that the whole convoy, except ourselves, fell into the enemy's hands. At sunset heard the report of many guns, and observed flashes in the W. S. W.

Upon this interesting subject no official account has reached the admiralty; but it is ascertained, by dispatches brought from admiral Cornwallis, by the Adrian cutter, lieut. Forbes, that on Friday se'nnight, a squadron had been sent from the channel fleet in quest of the enemy. The morning of that day rear admiral Stirling, with 5 ships of the line rejoined admiral Cornwallis after an unsuccessful cruize in pursuit of the Rochefort squadron, which was known to have been out a month. Such has been the anxiety of admiral Cornwallis for the security of our trade, that when the Adrian left the fleet, he had not a single frigate with him, having dispatched them all on the look-out for the enemy.
