FROM THE BALANCE.

AMERICAN CAPTIVES IN TRIPOLI.

Extracts from the Journal of Dr. Cowdery, kept during his captivity in Tripoli.

September 2.—At about 4, P. M. our squadron commenced another attack on the town, in which eight of our gun-boats drove sixteen Tripolitan gun-boats under the battery on the east side of the harbor; while the commodore bore down, and gave the batteries at the west end of the town several broadsides. Many of his shot came into the town and castle. Two bomb-ketches were employed in heaving shells into the town, which did considerable damage to several houses, and entirely destroyed the house of the Spanish carpenter, the bashaw's naval constructor. I observed the utmost confusion and random-firing among the Tripolitans. It appeared they were almost out of powder. Two of their guns bursted, one of which was an eighteen pounder of the late Philadelphia frigate. The men, women and children ran out of the town in the utmost terror and distraction.

September 3.—Had been to see the prince in the country, and was returning about 10 o'clock in the evening, with the bashaw and suite, when we saw a most extraordinary light or flash, and heard a heavy report. We all wheeled about, and made for the place we had left; but the bashaw soon altered his mind, and proceeded to town, while I went to the country-palace and staid all night. The explosion was a fire-ship, sent into the harbor by commodore Preble, which did but little damage.

September 5.—The Turks found ten dead men near the place where the vessel blew up on the evening of the 3d inst. The bashaw and his people held a thanksgiving to Mahomet on the occsaion. Their ceremony was prayer in a doleful tone, and singing accompanied with the sound of an instrument made by drawing a skin over a hoop.

September 6.—More men were found, 3 of whom appeared to be officers. By permission, I took our boatswain and a gang of our men, and buried these bodies a little east of the wall of the town. All that I saw, who appeared to have been killed in the explosion, amounted to fourteen. The bashaw's son-in-law told me that six more had been found, drifted on the western shore; but I could not ascertain the truth of it.

September 7.—John M'Donoh died of a consumption, with which he had long been ill.

September 9.—The bashaw took me with him and his suite to his country-seat, where we spent most of the day. About 5 o'clock, P. M. we went to see the grand Marabewt (or Mahometan priest) in whom the bashaw had great faith, and thought he could foretell events. It was said by the Turks that he foretold the stranding and capture of the Philadelphia; and that he got offended with the bashaw and caused and foretold her being burnt. But I had heard nothing of these mysteries until a little previous to this. He now said, that the commodore's ship, the Constitution, would never return to America—that she would either be blown up or run on shore; that the bashaw would have success in his warfare with America. It appeared that this great prophet was a sojourner; and that he only came to Tripoli when the bashaw was in want of a prophet. He was encamped on the sandy desart, at a tomb of an ancient Marabewt. The tomb had a house over it, with several rooms, and was encircled with several green trees. It was about two miles back of the gardens. We found this great Marabewt standing on a large mat, which was spread on the sand under the shade of a large mulberry-tree. About thirty of his attendants stood back of him, paraded in form of crescent. I was ordered to pull off my hat; and we all approached him from the west, the bashaw, with some of his most trusty attendants in front. When we came near him we all dismounted. The bashaw ran to him—kneeled before him—and kissed his hand. The Mamelukes followed the example. The Marabewt then sat down, and was followed by the bashaw and his suite, forming a circle on the mat. During this time, I stood by the mule, about five rods from the scene, with my hat in my hand. I was soon called and ordered by the bashaw to take off my shoes and feel the Marabewt's pulse. I left my shoes at the edge of the mat, or holy ground, and stepped on. I laid my hat on the edge of the mat in preference to laying it on the sand; but it was immediately taken off. I was then ordered to approach his holiness and kiss his hand. I felt his pulse; but before I had time to prescribe for him, he put his hand against me, and gave me to understand that I must go off the holy ground. I immediately stepped off—put on my shoes, took my hat, and went to my mule. The bashaw called me back, and asked what I would do for the Marabewt. I recommended bleeding; but the Marabewt shook his head and gave me to understand that he wanted nothing of the kelp (the dog.) I was then told to withdraw, which I did, and took a walk round the tomb, which I found to be very ancient. The bashaw spent about half an hour with the Marabewt when he kissed his hand; and we all returned to the country palace.—The bashaw apologized for the impoliteness of the Marabewt, and said that they had a foolish antipathy to all but Mahometans.

October 22.—None of our cruizers were to be seen from the top of the castle. The Tripolitan gun-boats were dismmed, and the bashaw's gunners were employed in drawing the charges from the cannon on the battery. Many of the guns now stood in the sand, as they did when commodore Preble first attacked the town. On being fired two or three times, they recoiled into the sand so deep, that they could not be worked, and were abandoned. The bashaw told me, that if he had three frigates, he would blockade America. He said he could do it as easily as a frigate and schooner could blockade Tripoli!

October 26.—A great scarcity of grain. Our crew had no bread for three days. The bashaw gave orders to all the market people, not to sell grain to any body but his household. There was no bread to be had for money. A dispute took place between the bashaw and the renegado Lyle, about the purchasing of some barley. Lyle was considerably intoxicated, and insisted on his right to purchase grain in the market. The bashaw was highly affronted, and flew at him with all his might, struck him, and ordered his Mamelukes to disarm him and put him in prison, which they strove to obey and carried him off. The bashaw, however, soon ordered him to be released; and then ordered his servant, who was supposed to be the cause of the quarrel, to be bastinadoed with five hundred blows, which was immediately put in execution.

November 9.—The bashaw had an epileptic fit; and his people thought he was possessed with the devil. They performed many ceremonies to cast him out, which they said succeeded. The Turks said they saw many ghosts the night before; and that a Marabewt drove the devil out of the bashaw.

December 6.—Our men suffer for the want of provisions. The bashaw does not allow them either victuals or cash. They get but a small allowance of bread, and that on the credit of their own country.—They are beat unmercifully and compelled to work hard every day.

December 8.—I was informed, that, thro' the influence of many Turks, the bashaw had given orders to Sarcy, our master, to treat the American prisoners with the utmost severity, in order to induce the United States the sooner to make peace. He was impatient for his money.

December 10.—Our men all agreed not to work unless they were fed; and accordly when the wardens went to the prison and ordered them out, they all refused.—The wardens whipped them until they were tired, and then went away to inform the bashaw what had happened. The bashaw immediately ordered them bread and oil, and they went to work.

December 21.—At evening, the bey, eldest son to the bashaw, was married to his first cousin, eldest daughter to the bashaw who was driven out of Tripoli by the present bashaw. The bride was said to be very handsome, and but twelve years old.

Our boatswain, carpenter, sail-maker, & first master's mate, who had the liberty of the town for a few months, were put in close confinement with our other officers, on suspicion of attempting to raise the crew to take the town.

December 25.—The bashaw's son in law Selim, who had charge of the stores, was detected in selling a quantity of cordage to a Tunisian merchant. The bashaw ordered him five hundred bastinodoes; but Selim fled to a Marabewt for protection, and escaped punishment.

January 24.—Renegado Wilson, who pretended to be a great engineer, was ordered by the bashaw to fire hot shot at a mark, but succeeded indifferently. The Bashaw, however, was highly pleased, gave Wilson eight dollars, and promised to reward him in proportion to his exertions in his future warfare. Wilson engaged to teach the Turks how to throw bombs, hot shot, and hand granades; and to alter and improve the fortifications, &c.

January 25—The bashaw sent me to visite the wife of Alla Mameluke. She was once a wife or concubine to the bashaw, who gave her as a wife to his favorite. She was sister to a wife of the emperor of Morocco—about eighteen, and very handsome. She was in child-bed travail, attended by a number of Jewish women. She was delivered of a son her first child, to the great joy of all the Turks in the castle, male and female. It was proclaimed by a loud yelling with clapping the hand to and from the mouth, by the women of the castle.

January 28—The bashaw was informed by Wilson, the renegado, that our crew were all armed, and about to rise upon the town. Search was made, and the report found to be false. But the bashaw was much intimidated, and an additional guard was placed over us.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.

Yesterday the very interesting and important cause between the commonwealth and Joseph Dennie, esq. editor of the Port Folio, was decided by an honest and independent jury, in favor of Mr. Dennie and the liberty of the press. It may be recollected that Mr. Dennie was indicted in the mayor's court of this city in July sessions, in 1803, by thirteen grand jurors, for the publication of a supposed libel on the constitution of the United States, and of this state, &c. &c. &c. The indictment was removed to the supreme court, and tried before judges Yates and Smith, at a court of Nisi Prius of the supreme court, which began it's sitting last week. Mr. M'Kean, attorney general for the prosecution, and Messrs. Merideth, Hopkinson, Ingersoll and Lewis for the defendant,

We hope to obtain a report of this trial; and when a similar prosecution, which is now depending against the editor of this paper for the same publication, is decided, we promise to give some explanations & notes by way of commentary on the business.
