BY THIS DAY's MAILS.

AUGSBURG, October 22.

The weather clears up—we are in hourly expectation of great news. The paper of the bank of Vienna, which had fallen to 70 and 80 per cent. loss, is now no longer received, in any trading town.

STRUTGARD, October 26.

The intelligence received here from Bareuth and Nuremberg, concerning the pursuit of prince Ferdinand and the troops he was attended by, contain the most deplorable details of their fatigues and losses.—Most of the Austrian infantry were taken prisoners; the regiment of Latour, so well known for its bravery, is reduced to 120 men. Thus is this fine army, of which this corps was the last wreck, destroyed, with the exception only of about 5 or 6000 men, almost all cavalry. One can scarcely form an idea of the misery of these fugitives; the horses and horsemen were for two days without resting or taking any nourishment, being continually engaged with French detachments. The troop appeared to be remarkably well satisfied with the conduct of the archduke Ferdinand. An adjutant of the prince Murat has passed through Bareuth in great haste, with instructions to deliver a dispatch to the archduke or the first general whom he should meet with.

A proclamation of the elector of Bavaria to the Bavarians.

BAVARIANS!

At a moment when I was solely occupied with your prosperity, when I foresaw no danger, I was forcibly separated from you.

Austria, for the preservation of which the generous blood of the Bavarians has so often flowed, had perceived perfidious design against you and against me. Your sons, my brave soldiers, were demanded with menaces, to be disseminated in the Austrian army, and to fight against a power which has at all times protected the indepenpence of Bavaria.

Thus the Bavarians were no longer to fight for their country, but for foreign interest; thus the very name of the Bavarian army, was to have been destroyed.

My duty, as a prince, and as the father of a faithful and independent people, must have led me to repel propositions so dishonorable for the nation, and to maintain with firmness the neutrality of my states.

I still flattered myself with the hope of seeing accomplished the most ardent of my wishes, the repose of my country. The negociations upon this head, were not yet broken off when Austria faithful to the system of annihilating the independence of Bavaria, violated the most sacred treaties, made her army cross the Inn, and treated you as the inhabitants of a conquered country. The most enormous requisitions were made; you were deprived of the most necessary instruments of your industry, even of those of your agriculture; your fields were laid waste, your cattle carried off by force; you were inundated by a depreciated paper currency; even a great number of your sons were constrained to serve under the standards of Austria.

After so perfidious an invasion, after such unheard-of outrages, my dignity commanded me, as prince and protector of the nation, to take up arms, and to deliver the country from its oppressors.

The emperor of the French, the natural ally of Bavaria, flies to our succor; with his intrepid warriors, he comes to avenge us: already your brothers and your sons fight in the ranks of these brave fellows accustomed to victory, and already we see the dawn of our safety.

Bavarians, who patiently bear the evils with which the enemies of your country overwhelm you; remember your prince, who knows your sufferings, who shares them and who cannot support the idea of being separated from you, but in the persuasion that in preserving his individual liberty, he has secured to himself the means of acting with absolute independence for his dear and faithful subjects.

Our good cause is under the protection of a just God, and of a courageous army, commanded by an invincible hero.

Let the rallying word of every Bavarian be for his prince and for his country.

(Signed)
MAX. JOSEPH, Elector.

Wurtzburg, 10th October, 1805.

ABBEVILLE October 25.

The military magazines are still storing with provisions and forage, as if the army were yet on our coast, or as if it were soon to return to it. It is assured that the emperor, upon quitting Boulogne, said to his army—"At Vienna before Christmas, at London at Easter." The national guard of this department is organising in haste. The custom house officers and clerks are not even exempt from duty. It is believed that prince Louis is going to fix his head-quarters at Montreuil: some persons imagine they will be at Abbeville.

FEDERAL GAZETTE.

MONDAY, JANUARY 6.

The brig George Washington, Smith, from Alexandria, has arrived at Providence, R. Island.

The Washington Federalist of the 4th instant says, The chairman of the committee of elections, Mr. Findley, yesterday presented the petition and memorial of a great number of the voters of the city and county of Philadelphia, and of the county of Delaware, complaining of corrupt and illegal practices in the election of Michael Leib, and of the absolute illegality in their opinion of a sufficient number of votes to set aside his election. Referred to the committee of elections.

The house were mostly engaged in going through with the BILL on the RULES and ARTICLES of WAR. After which, Mr. Randolph moved that the galleries be cleared, he having some communications to make requiring that measure—The house afterwards adjourned till Monday.

George C. Smoot has been elected by the legislature of this state, register of wills for Washington county, in the place of Thomas Belt, resigned.

From the Merchant's Coffee-House Books.

The following bill of no inconsiderable importance to our commercial cities, is now before the house of representatives of the United States, and is expected to pass in its present form.

A BILL,

To extend the time for taking the oath and giving bond in cases of drawback, and for other rpurposes.

Sec. 1. Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the U. States of America, in congress assembled, That the time prescribed for taking the oath and giving bond in cases of goods, wares, and merchandise, intended to be exported, for the benefit of drawback, as is directed in the seventy-sixth section of the act "to regulate the collection of duties on imports and tonnage," be and the same hereby is extended to the term of twenty days, any thing in the said act to the contrary notwithstanding; and at least five days notice in writing, shall be given, by the collectors of the customs in the different ports of the United States, to all persons claiming the benefit of drawback, of the time at which the aforesaid twenty days will expire, for which notice the collectors shall be entitled to receive twenty cents, and which shall be equally shared among the collector, naval officers and surveyor, as is now provided by law.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the comptroller of the treasuary be, and he is hereby authorised and empowered to extend the benefit of drawback, in cases which have heretofore happened, where the persons claiming such benefit, have omitted to take the oath and give bond within the ten days prescribed by law. Provided the comptroller shall be satisfied, that no frauds against the revenue laws of the United States was intended to be committed by such omission.

AN ACT

Supplementary to the "Act making provision for the payment of claims, of citizens of the United States on the government of France, the payment of which has been assumed by the United States, by virtue of the convention of the thirtieth day of April, one thousand eight hundred and three, between the United States and the French republic."

BE it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, That the balance of the appropriation of three millions seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars, made by the act to which this is a supplement, which may remain unexpended on the thirty-first of December, one thousand eight hundred & five, shall not be carried to the credit of the surplus fund, but shall remain appropriated to the same purpose for which it was originally appropriated, any act to the contrary notwithstanding.

NATHL. MACON,
Speaker of the house of representatives.
GEO: CLINTON,
Vice-president of the United States, and president of the senate.

December 31, 1805.

APPROVED,
TH: JEFFERSON.

Extracts from the proceedings of the house of delegates of Maryland.

December 26.

Mr. Ayres delivers a bill, entitled, an act to straighten the road known by the name of the York road, within Harford and Baltimore counties; which was read.

Mr. Porter delivers a bill, entitled, an act to lay out and open a road from the Pennsylvania line, to the Susquehanna canal, in Cæcil county; which was read.

The bill to authorise any two justices of the peace in this state to qualify the coroners of their respective counties, was read the second time, passed, and, with the further supplement to an act for the better regulation of apprentices, the bill for the benefit of the corporation of the Roman catholic clergyman.

The bill to confirm a division of the real property of the Havre-de-Grace company, was read the second time, passsed, and sent to the senate.

The speaker laid before the house a letter from Samuel Smith, esquire, enclosing a bill to regulate the laying out and making a road from Cumberland in the state of Maryland to the state of Ohio, originated in the senate of the United States; which was read and referred.

Mr. Lloyd delivers a bill, entitled, an act to establish a chancery tribunal on the Eastern Shore of this state, and to alter and abolish all such parts of the constitution and form of government of this state, as are repugnant thereto; which was read.

December 27.

Ordered, That the act to provide for the organization and regulation of the courts of common law in this state, and for the administration of justice therein, be recommitted for amendment.

Mr. Lemmon delivers a report on the petition of sundry inhabitants of the western precints of the city of Baltimore, against the petitioners; which was read and concurred with.

The clerk of the senate delivers the following message:

We have received your message of the 21st instant, with the resolutions therein referred to. We do not discover any new evidence on the subject of the resolutions accompanying your message to induce us to alter our opinion. Permit us to observe that our decision on the subject was the result of much reflection and mature deliberation, after taking into view the finances of the state, and the situation of the petitioners, as well as the many years indulgence heretofore granted to the said petitioners. We have, therefore, determined not to reconsider the resolutions; which was read. And also a letter from the executive, informing the legislature of the resignation of Thomas Belt, register of wills of Washington county. The resolution in favor of Charles Gardiner, endorsed, "dissented from." The bill to straighten the road leading into Howard-street in the city of Baltimore, the supplement to the act for introducing a copious supply of wholesome water into the city of Baltimore, severally endorsed, "will pass with the proposed amendments."

On motion, the question was put, That the bill to provide for rendering passable through Baltimore county, the public road leading from the city of Baltimore, by Belle-Air, in Harford county, to Peach Bottom ferry, on the river Susquehanna, now have a second reading? Determined in the negative.

The bill to authorise and empower the levy court of Baltimore county to levy a sum of money for the purpose therein mentioned, was sent to the senate.

December 28.

A petition from sundry citizens of Baltimore, was read and referred.

Ordered, That the bill to incorporate a company to make a turnpike road from the line of the district of Columbia, where it crosses the post-road leading from Georgetown to Frederick-town, through Montgomery and Frederick counties to Frederick-town, have a second reading on Monday, the 6th of January next.

December 30.

The bill to lay out and open a road from the Pennsylvania line to the Susquehanna canal, in Cæcil county, was read the second time, passed, and sent to the senate.

The amendments to the bill to straighten the road leading into Howard-street in the city of Baltimore, were agreed to, and the bill ordered to be engrossed.

December 31.

According to order, the house proceeded to the second reading of the bill to alter the time of the meeting of the general assembly of this state, and the bill being read throughout, the question was put, shall the said bill pass? Resolved in the affirmative—Yeas 38—Nays 26.

January 1.

Mr. Stephen delivers a bill, entitled, an act to enlarge the powers of the levy court of Baltimore county, and for other purposes; which was read.
