Late Foreign News.

By the ship Cotton Planter, capt. Mather, from Liverpool, we have been favored with London & Liverpool dates several days later than heretofore received. The following is a general summary of all the intelligence which they contain, and which will be found highly interesting. We conceive this summary will be the more agreeable to our readers, as it contains all the foreign intelligence for the week preceding the 20th March.

We understand that a flag of truce had arrived at Dover on the 19th March, from Bologne, which is said to have brought over proposals for a general peace.

The new ministry of England, appear anxious to continue on an amicable footing with the United States. Lord Selkirk has been appointed ambassador to the United States, and was to come out in the ship Science.

The court of Munich, on the 27th ult. received orders from Paris to keep the whole Bavarian army in readiness to march at a moment's notice. The French war-office for the general government of the army in Germany, is at Munich. Four messengers arrived there from Paris within 48 hours, and had occasioned the utmost activity throughout the department.

Anspach has been occupied by a French army of nearly 30,000 men, & the Prussian troops in the margraviate been obliged to retire into Bayreuth. Some think that this occupation was made without the consent of Prussia; it is certain that it was not preceded by any orders or communications from Berlin, in reference to that measure; on the contrary, the Prussian commander on the frontiers made dispositions to resist the invasion, until he was informed of the magnitude of the force opposed to him, and the civil as well as military authorities of the principality have protested against this violation of their neutrality, and have dispatched messengers to Berlin with the details. The French levy the necessary supplies by military execution, and the seizure of the Prussian depots.

The French troops in Suabia and the western parts of Germany have broken up for the interior, and have re-occupied positions on the Inn and in Salzburg. The troops which were drawn from Wurtzburg, Aichstadt, &c. have resumed their former quarters, & are followed by reinforcements from France. These extraordinary movements have excited the greatest alarm at Vienna, and we find by letters from thence, that a council of state had been held on the occasion, in which the emperor presided, and at which the archduke Charles assisted as vice-president. Couriers were immediately after dispatched to Petersburg, Berlin and Paris.

France is stated to have demanded a passage through the Austrian states, for an army to be employed against the Turks, but which his imperial cabinet refused. Such indeed is said to have been the purport of the French dispatches which reached Vienna on the 25th ult. and their result. Sir A. Paget received a communication from the Austrian minister soon after, and in consequence sent a messenger to London.

The French armies in Germany, on the first of the present month, comprised one hundred and forty-two thousand men, of whom twenty-seven thousand are conscripts who passed the Rhine subsequently to the 1st of January.

General Berthier, after a short stay at Munich, continued his route to Vienna. He was preceded by a messenger.

Lindau, Saltzburg, and numerous other positions in Germany, which the French evacuated agreeably to the treaty of Presburg, have been re-occupied by them; and at the former places they are forming magazines, &c.

The politics of Prussia continued involved in mystery. Nothiug further has transpired in regard to her views on Hanover. It was reported at Hamburg on the 7th, that a Prussian garrison was to be sent to Cuxhaven.

Some movements of the Prussian troops towards the eastern frontiers, had occasioned various reports at Hamburg, as to the differences between the cabinets of Petersburg and Berlin. It is stated that Prussia, by desire of France, had demanded the evacuation of Silesia, and Prussian Poland by the Russian troops; and had been answered by general Kutusow, that his orders did not admit of his compliance. The consequence, it is added has been, that the Prussian corps in Silesia have been considerably strengthened, and all the fortresses not occupied by the Russians, ordered to be placed in a state of defence.

Count Haugwitz coutinued at Berlin on the 26th ult. waiting the return of a messenger from Paris, when he was to set off to that capital with the king's ratification of the treaty of partition of Hanover, &c. The count has received presents of great value from Napolean.

It is said to be the intention of France to occupy the duchies of Holstein, Schleswick, and Mecklenburg, for the purpose of shutting the Sound against the commerce of Britain, and the passage of another Russian squadron fitting in the Baltic for the Medeteranean. Count Burnstoff's recent visit to Berlin is supposed to have been occasioned by some intimation from the French minister of the intentions of his master. Great activity prevails in the Danish marine; nineteen sail of the lins are to be ready for sea in the course of the ensuing month.

The prince royal of Denmark, on the 7th inst continued with his army in Holstein; on the arrival of count Bernstorff, at head quarters his royal higness gave orders for some Norwegian corps to reinforce the garrisons in Zealand, Schleswick, &c.

The emperor of Russia has ordered an army of observation to be established in the Beekowina. His armies already on the frontiers are computed at 300,000 men. The lately appointed levy is nearly completed, and it is stated from Wilna, that the peasants in some districts pressed in such numbers for enrolement that the restrections in the quota would not admit of an hundreth part of them being received. This circumstance is to be accounted for in the law of Russia, which emancipates all peasants on their becoming soldiers, and admitting them, at the expiration of their military service to all the advantages of citizens.

The best understanding continues to subsit between Russia and France, and the emperor Alexander has ordered provisions, to the value of two millions of florins, to be imported into Moravia, and the other distressed Austrian provinces.

The French troops in Holland increase daily, and the distress of the inhabitants surpasses all description. It has been reported at the Hague, that parts of Westphalia and of Hanover are to be given to the Batavian republic, in remuneration for his share in the war.

Admiral Verhuel has had several conferences with Bonaparte on the subject of the new plan of naval operation, in which the Texel fleet is to be employed.

The last accounts from Naples represent great preparations to have been made for the invasion of Sicily. The officers to be employ-
