

has gained over every foreign foe, to the remotest corners of the earth; the trophies still existing in various parts of these realms which have been extended by their achievements; and the recollection of the glory they have thus acquired, affords us the strongest ground to hope that on the present occasion, under the dispensations of Providence, whose blessing attend the arms of the just, all the machinations of our enemies may be confounded, and that the only traces they leave behind them upon our soil will be their own graves.

"The immense tract of country upon which these armies must act, occasioning many difficulties in the way of their speedy and mutual co-operation for the defence of an extensive frontier, the evident danger which would arise in case (which God forbid should ever happen) the enemy might penetrate into the interior of our empire, compel us to adopt the most efficacious measures to avert it, by the establishment of a general temporary armament or militia, which may be ready in all quarters at a moment's notice, to support the regular troops, and able to oppose to the enemy at every step the invincible force of the true sons of their country, united for the preservation of their most valuable enjoyments.

"In such arduous circumstances we refer with the fullest confidence to the distinguished order of the hereditary nobility of our empire, by whose faithful services in the field of battle, and extensive sacrifices both of life and property, Russia has been elevated to her present greatness, to that order which by examples of heroism, has on all occasions animated and assisted the subordinate members of the empire to participate in the salvation, defence and glory of our country. The memorable proofs of patriotism and of loyalty displayed in ancient and modern times by the nobility of Russia, and their well-known readiness on every occasion where the common good requires their exertions, to obey the summons of their sovereign, to meet with spirit every toll, & every danger for the service of the empire, convince us how cordially, zealously and efficaciously it will co-operate with us for the speedy and successful completion of such a provisional armament or militia, as is indispensably required, and now ordained for public security, according to the regulations annexed hereto.

"We are likewise assured, that our faithful corporations, and every class of citizens, as well as the crown peasants, and free boors through the country, will unite their efforts to bear the common burthen of this important public duty for the defence of our holy faith, and for individual preservation.

"May the servants of the church of God offer up in concert with ours elves, and all our faithful subjects, the most fervent prayers towards the Supreme disposer of events, that he may shed his divine favor on our efforts to avert the common danger, to vanquish and exterminate the foe, and to restore the blessings of peace and tranquillity in the heart of our empire."

To this manifesto is annexed a proclamation for erecting immediately a provisional force, or militia of 612,000 men. For this purpose, the different governments throughout the Russian empire are divided into seven districts, each of which according to a plan laid down, is to furnish a certain number of troops. These seven districts or contingents of districts were to be formed as soon as the making out lists, and appointing officers, had been gone through; but they were to continue no longer embodied than the present danger existed.

BY THIS DAY'S MAILS.

NEW YORK, April 1.

THE GALE.
Yesterday morning at 2 o'clock, a gale commenced from N. N. E. with a heavy fall of snow and continued till about 11, blowing most of the time from East. About 13 o'clock the wind fell to a moderate breeze, and immediately veered round to S. S. W. blew fresh from that quarter till 3 in the afternoon, when the wind commenced a gale from WNW. It is a remarkable fact, that the tide, at twelve o'clock, was from 12 to 18 inches higher than it has been known by the oldest inhabitants—from this time the water fell, though it was not time for high water till past 3 o'clock. Many cellars were filled, and considerable property damaged. During the gale, the brig Signal Pole was blown down, and three schrs. were driven from their anchors, and lodged on the mud-flats on the Jersey side, opposite the city; one of which is the Cornelia from St. Thomas. We have reason to fear, that the vessels on the coast, both those bound in as well as those which recently sailed, have suffered. The ships Frances, Braine, from Greenock; and Four Sisters, Latham, from Ireland; both rode out the gale, the former in the East, and the latter in the North River. The brig Almira, from Savannah, was safe at anchor in the Narrows yesterday at 1 o'clock.—Eight or nine sail of vessels went down on Monday morning, and all went to sea, except the ships Native, and Millford, and the brig Mars, from Amsterdam; they anchored in the bay, within the Hook.

Amidst the bustle along the docks, in securing vessels and getting out fenders, were seen hundreds with their dogs, killing Rats, which had been routed by the high tide. Hardly a terrier in the city was unemployed; and we may safely say, that not less than one thousand rats were destroyed on the east side of the town. Though this remark about rats may, by some, be considered unworthy of notice, it will be of use, if a proper use is made of it; that is, by removing the carcasses of those animals before the sun operate upon them.

During the height of the gale, several flocks of wild geese passed over the city, from the sea-shore—whence they no doubt had been driven by the severity of the storm.

It is also remarkable, that many Robins lodged in the rigging of the vessels at our docks, some of which were driven by the wind with such velocity against the masts and spars of vessels, that they fell down dead.

Since writing the above we learn by the Union Pilot-boat, which left the Hook at 12 o'clock, that two ships were ashore about 7 miles to the westward of the Hook, one of which had lost two masts, and the other came in from sea during the gale in the morning—probably one of the ships that went out the preceding day. There was also a large ship ashore outside, about 4 miles south of the light-house, supposed from her appearance, to be an Indian.

The vessels at our docks did not suffer so much as we had reason to expect—they were completely protected in many places by the extensive Piers which have been recently erected—particularly by those at the Whitehall.

RICHMOND, March 31.

EXAMINATION.
At 12 o'clock, yesterday, the marshal-major Scott, accompanied by two assistants, repaired to col. Burr's room in the Eagle, where he was under guard, and with perfect civility informed him that he had a warrant against him on the part of the United States. Col. Burr was now consequently in the custody of the marshal.

Within a very short time after, they repaired to another room in the Eagle, before Judge Marshall. The examination was a private one: There were few auditors present.

Edmund Randolph, and John Wickham, esqrs. counsel for the prisoner. Cesar A. Rodney and George Hay, esqrs. counsel for the prosecution.

The attorney of the district observed, that it was his duty to charge the prisoner present, and upon evidence which he should exhibit before the court, of the crime of treason against the United States and of the misdemeanor of having prepared within the United States an expedition against the dominions of the king of Spain, with whom the United States were then in amity.

The evidence was then produced. It consisted of the record of the proceedings held in the cases of Messrs. Bollman and Swartwout, before the circuit court of the district of Columbia. No in vivo testimony was produced, except that of Mr. Perkins, which related to the arrest of col. Burr, within the Mississippi territory.

After this evidence was laid before the court, Mr. Hay submitted the following motion in writing:

"The attorney of the United States for the Virginia district, prays that Aaron Burr may be committed, upon the evidence now submitted to the judge, in order that he may be tried at the next circuit court for this district, or at a special court to be held for that purpose, upon a charge of treason against the United States, and also for a misdemeanor, in setting on foot within the territory of the United States, a military expedition to be carried on from thence against the dominions of the king of Spain, with whom the United States were then and are now at peace."

It was then determined that a public discussion should be held in the capitol, this day, at 10 o'clock, and that in the mean time, col. Burr should be admitted to bail; his bail to be bound in the sum of 5000 dollars. Messrs. Thomas Taylor and John Gamble are his securities.

Yesterday the examination of col. Burr, before chief justice Marshall, commenced at the Eagle Tavern. It was conducted in private—no person being admitted but the prisoner, the officers of the federal court, the counsel prosecuting and defending, and the witnesses. The curiosity of the public was very much awakened, and vast anxiety for admission to this secret convulsion was displayed by multitudes, who were nevertheless disappointed. The reasons of this extraordinary mode of proceeding are variously represented. Some say that the chief justice consulted the counsel both for and against the prisoner, as to their wishes with regard to the place of examination; informing them that it should either be at the capitol or the Eagle tavern, as they might choose; and that they preferred the latter.

Others report, that the examination was secret, for the purpose of preventing persons who might be on the venire on his trial, from previously making up their minds on the subject. But we humbly conceive no good reason can be given for introducing in a free country a practice so similar to that of the holy inquisition in Spain. [Argus.]

CHARLESTON, March 30.

MESSRS. EDITORS,
The subscriber having observed in your Gazette of Wednesday last, a paragraph dated Savannah, 14th instant, relative to the capture of the island of Curracoa, in which, among other things, it is said, "That from the trifling opposition made to the British, in taking possession of that island, it was generally thought, that the place had been given up designedly. The chain which had nightly been extended across the harbor was neglected on the 31st December," &c. This compels him to protest against, and solemnly contradict the above paragraph, because he conceives his honor is therein concerned. Every one in Curracoa knows, or can be informed, why (for a long time past) it has been physically impossible to shut the entrance of the port with a sufficient chain, and why it has been necessary to discontinue, for several months, the closing of the port in the usual manner. It cannot, then, be said, with propriety, that the security of the port, in that respect, has been neglected. The subscriber does not consider it necessary to make any further observation on the curious insinuations contained in the paragraph alluded to; being on his way to Holland, there to render a faithful account of his colonial administration.

P. J. CHANGUION,
Late governor of Curracoa.

A WORK THAT OUGHT TO BE IN POSSESSION OF EVERY MAN.

THE LIFE OF

GEN. WASHINGTON,

By JOHN MARSHALL, Chief Justice of the United States.

Complete in 5 vols. 8vo. with an elegant Portrait, and a variety of Maps; is now ready for subscribers, and for sale, by GEORGE HILL.

The following remarks from a late London publication, attest the high opinion entertained of this authentic and interesting work:

"The public will learn with interest that the literary monument which has long been projected to the memory of the most illustrious character of modern times, is at length completed. No apology can be requisite for erecting such a monument to him, who was the first in war, the first in peace, and the first in the hearts of his fellow citizens: to him who was the founder of a great and prosperous empire, and whose moderation and pure patriotism challenge the imitation of all statesmen. This performance of Judge Marshall has already been distinguished by the most honorable and unequivocal testimonies; it has been hailed as an acquisition to standard literature; and it has been considered as deserving, in point of execution, a place by the side of Robertson's Charles the Fifth, and as unrivalled in the authenticity of its materials, by any work in the entire compass of history and biography.

April 4. d6t-60

Mr. Wrixford,

Late from Boston,

Purposes to teach the ART OF WRITING, in this place, by a new and expeditious method.

Persons rising ten or twelve years of age, possessing good common capacities may acquire a fair and handsome hand, by receiving twenty lessons; one hour of time to each lesson.

The method is well suited for the benefit of young persons fitting for the mercantile line of business; and a so for ordinary writers already engaged in the same line, of almost whatever age; likewise for young gentlemen who are either in or destined for the learned professions.

Ladies who either have or have not received their education, in other respects, can be attended either at their own dwellings, or elsewhere, as they may choose.

Mr. W. takes up the Art of Writing as a species of drawing, and teaches it by a system of rules, methodically arranged; but as the plan may perhaps be rather novel in this city, it would be difficult, in a notification like this, to point out the peculiar mode of proceeding.

Any person who may think proper to call on Mr. W. at Mr. D. Fulton's, sign of the Globe, Baltimore-street, will, it is presumed, be satisfied in those particulars of which they may wish to inquire.

A fresh supply of the following GENUINE

FAMILY MEDICINES,

Which are carefully prepared according to the proprietor's book of receipts now in possession of his widow.

The subscriber respectfully acquaints his customers, that during his late visit to New-York he made such arrangements as will most probably prevent any sudden demand from breaking up his assortment in future. Those who have been disappointed in their applications for Hamilton's Elixir, are informed they can now be supplied with that excellent preparation for speedily removing Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, &c.

JAMES HANNA,
Medical Warehouse, No. 102, Market-street.

HAMILTON'S WORM LOZENGES.

Perhaps the safest and mildest purgative now in use, either for children or adults, and should worms exist in the body, will undoubtedly expel them. To those prudent persons who generally take physic in the spring, they are recommended as remarkably efficacious in carrying off all gross humors and eruptions, feverish and bilious complaints, and for cleansing the stomach and bowels of whatever is foul and offensive. One box is sufficient for a family.

ITCH CURED,

By once using Lee's Sovereign Ointment, which although used for 20 years in Europe and for near eight years in America, has never been known to fail in any one instance. It is perfectly innocent, warranted not to contain a particle of mercury or any pernicious ingredient, and may be used with perfect safety on an infant, being a vegetable preparation and entirely free from the offensive smell which attends most other remedies.

DR. HAHN'S ANTI-BILLIOUS PILLS.

Every person who has used these Pills, prefer them to any other Pills now in use. They are celebrated for removing habitual constiveness, severe head-ache, and sick stomach. HAHN'S GENUINE EYE-WATER,

A sovereign remedy for all diseases of the eyes.

These preparations have been known to the citizens of Baltimore and throughout the Union for eight years past, during which time the most abundant and respectable testimony (ever known) has been given of their great efficacy; in consequence, all the arts of imposture have been practised to wrest from the widow and children of the late proprietor, the business and the emoluments arising from it. Those persons who wish to discourage such attempts, and to obtain Medicine prepared according to the receipts of the late proprietor, will be careful to apply only to the Widow's Agents—viz.:

JAMES HANNA,
Medical Warehouse, No. 102, Market-street.

BENJAMIN WILSON,
Opposite the Market, Fell's-Point.

And no where else in Baltimore.
