LATE FROM EUROPE.

Arrived this morning, the ship Missouri, capt. Kennedy, in 40 days from Rochelle. A passenger in the Missouri informs, that it was currently reported at that place, that a decisive engagement between the Russians and French had taken place, in which the victory was obtained by Bonaparte. The report added that the Russian commander in chief had fallen into the hands of the French. We presume that this rumor, like the others with which the public have been deceived, has reference to events anterior to the 2d March.

From Paris papers to the 25th March, received at Philadelphia.

MILAN, March 17.

By several arrivals at Ancona, from Constantinople, we learn, that on the 12th of February, all the Russian merchant vessels in that port were seized, and that two frigates with troops for Corfu, in attempting to pass the Dardanelles, were also captured.

FRANKFORT, March 19.

By several letters from Vienna, we learn, that general Michelson, whose army is numerous, has received orders to send the greater part to join the army under General Bennigsen. His orders are, to remain with the remainder to maintain his position at present, and to avoid all offensive operations. In consequence, the Russians are remaining on the defensive.

The Turkish government has not relaxed in its preparations. As soon as the reinforcements, expected from Asia, shall arrive at Andrinople, the Grand Vizier, with all the generals will depart, and act on the offensive, to drive the Russians out of Moldavia and Wallachia. The plan of operations has been agreed upon between the Grand Vizier and general Sebastiani, the French ambassador, who enjoys the fullest confidence of the Grand Seigneur and the Divan.

FEDERAL GAZETTE.

MONDAY, MAY 18.

The ship Almy, Crow, from Jamaica for New-York, was captured about the middle of April by a French privateer, and in endeavoring to carry her into Trinidad, Cuba, she was lost on Key Largo, about twenty leagues to windward of that port. It is said that an English frigate from Jamaica has taken off the passengers and burnt the ship. Among the passengers were two ladies of New-York. The cargo is stated to consist of 300 punchcons of rum.

The following is a copy of the answer of the commander of the British sloop of war Driver, to the letter of Captain Kalteisen, which appeared in the Federal Gazette of Thursday last:

[COPY.] H. M. S. DRIVER, Rebellion Roads, Charleston, May 3.

SIR—I have received your letter, and having some doubts as to the authority by which it was written, I thought proper to satisfy myself on that head before I should reply. By the threat it contains, you appear, like your government, to have something to learn. A British subject knows too well how to respect and obey the laws of his own country, to offer, intentionally, an outrage to those of others, when once they are known to be so; but I have to observe, the proclamation you mentioned to have been issued in May, 1807, I know nothing of: of that which was issued in May, 1808, I have only to say, that so far from being either creditable or becoming in the president of a country, wishing to be ranked among the civilized nations of the world, it would, in the opinion of every liberal and enlarged mind have disgraced even the sanguinary pen of a Robespierre, or the most miserable petty state of Babary. It appearing that the supposed offence is to be rendered by a repetition of the circumstances complained of, and that on those who, so far from having anything to do with the supposed aggression, were not even on the American coast at the time. And as captain Whitley's trial may, probably at this moment be pending, with the concurrence of the United States, the proclamation resting on his being brought to justice, it ought to have been thought of.

However, as my proceeding to sea, comes within the limits of my intentions, according to the orders I am under, I shall do so whenever the pilot things proper—which orders have for their view, the advantage of the American flag, as well as the protection of the British. But I must observe, that the difficulty I have experienced in obtaining a sufficient quantity of water for the purposes I wish, obliges me to have recourse to such methods as are completely within my power, which I otherwise should not have thought of. In the mean time, it is necessary to inform you, that his majesty's ship under my command, is at all times ready to resist, and punish any insult that may be offered to the flag she has the honor to bear, to the last drop of blood that shall remain, of the dutiful and loyal subjects of a beloved sovereign, and an exalted country.

I have the honor to be, Sir, your humble servant, (Signed) WILLIAM LOVE, To Captain Kalteisen, &c. &c. Fort Johnson, (S. C.)

The Key'd Violin, A New invented Musical Instrument, of five Octaves, by C. VELTENAIR. A RESPECTABLE Public are hereby informed that C. Veltenair, a celebrated Artist, inventor and improver of several useful machines, and citizen of Virginia, being on his journey to Washington to obtain letters patent of the president of the United States, intends in passing this city, to exhibit and to give a concert, on this instrument, by himself invented, and which in the opinion of a number of judges and connoisseurs, is admitted as the only musical instrument of the kind. This curious and wonderful, and in the highest degree of art discovered musical instrument, has never been known in the musical world, produces the soft and swelling notes of the violin by a perpetual and uniform friction of an endless and artfully constructed band or bow, excites at the same time the grave and majestic tones of an organ. This instrument is played like a piano or organ but in such a manner that the ear may be delighted with the most pure and perfect sounds of a grand piano, with or without the accompaniment of the touching tones of the violin or rolling sounds of an organ. The most ingenious artists of England and France have long labored on a discovery of an instrument of this kind, but in the course of their tedious experiments have failed in the attempt, and at last declared this possibility impossible, as an experience of three years, during which time this instrument was accomplished, proves. The proprietor flatters himself with the idea that the performance on this instrument will give entire satisfaction. The exhibition will take place at Mr. Myer's Hotel in Market-street, on Tuesday evening next at 7 o'clock. Tickets of admission (1 dollar each) to be had at the bar. May 18. 45t

Le Sr VELTENAIR, ARTISTE, ET FABRICANT DES INSTRUMENTS MUSICAUX. Comra d'iji dans des differens pays pour ses inventions mechaniques.

A l'honneur d'informer le public, qu'il est intentionné d'exposer son Instrument, le seul de son espèce, et donner un CONCERT Ladessus. Cet Instrument, perfectionné au décent le plus haut, fait naître les doux sons du Violon, excite par le touchement perpetuel d'un arc infini et merveilleux, en faisant entendre en même temps tous les sons graves et majestueux de l'Orgel. On le touche comme un Forte-Biano, mais de la maniere, qu'on peut deceler l'oreille des sons les plus purs et perfectionnés d'un Forte-Biano, sans l'accompagnement ni des sons touchés du Violon, ni des voix orangez de l'Orgel. Malgré que les artistes les plus célèbres, et de la France et de l'Angleterre, après avoir cherché pendant plusieurs années à construire un Instrument de cet espèce, à la fin on ne la possibilté de le finir jamais; le Sr. Veltenair cependant a prouvé le contraire, par un travail de trois ans, et le sacrifice d'une grande partie de sa fortune. Il ose donc se flatter, que l'attention et la sensibilité de tous les connoisseurs, qui veulent bien l'honneur de leur presence, sera contenté entièrement. On va commencer demain (Mardi) le soir, à sept heures, dans l'Hôtel de Sr. Mayer, rue Marché; où on peut avoir aussi les Billets d'entrée à $1 pour chaque personne. May 18. d3t+

A Fashionable Disease CURED WITHOUT ANY USE WHATSOEVER OF MERCURY. NOTWITHSTANDING the many remedies for curing and removing the Venereal disease from the constitution, and without the use of Mercury, which have been frequently proposed, and almost as often proved ineffectual; although the honorable faculty, Docti Medice, have united most generally in declaring no remedy to exist, in their belief, capable of removing the Venereal in all cases without the use of Mercury, which they do not hesitate to pronounce extremely pernicious, and not infrequently making the most desperate ravages on the whole constitution, and rendering the state of health ever afterward wretched and miserable; yet, notwithstanding all these objections heaped together, the writer, who has no other interest in the business than such as every well disposed citizen ought to have, and feel for the happiness and well being of his fellow creatures, does most confidently give assurance, that it is positive that there is another remedy, perfectly mild and easy in its operation, and which will effectually remove the disorders in all cases, and to all intents and purposes, as that Mercury will effect the same, but infrequently making the most desperate ravages on the whole constitution, and rendering the state of health ever afterward wretched and miserable;
