Ticket No. 1525.

First drawn blank yesterday (25th day's drawing, entitled to 1,500 dollars, was divided into one half, one quarter, and two eighths, at G. and R. Waite's truly fortunate Lottery Office corner of Market and Charles-streets about one hour before it was drawn, and an eighth part of it only sold. It is a singular circumstance that this ticket (among others) had been offered for sale at Waite's office at least fifty times that day, and afterwards divided as above stated.

THE POOR MAN'S PETITION.

Now bent with age and willing to resign,
A life that pity has with tears beheld;
How small a portion of the world is mine,
Two ells of earth, and that in Potter's Field

Tho' mine to blame the indolence of youth,
And still to ponder on neglected days;
Can the harsh world forgive that honest truth,
That while it comments, must condemn its ways.

Ah! all is lost if hope's denied a place
In those warm bosoms it delights to dwell;
And yet how just, tho' prominent the case,
To shackle pity as it tells the tale.

How few possess a sympathetic eye,
And fewer still a sympathetic heart
How kind that nature gives us leave to die,
And proves she's kinder than from those we part.

Yon house * that opens wide its folding door,
Where Fortune sits magnificently great,
And in the lap of such as purchase pours,
The easy method to be good and great.

Oh lead me to the spot where Fortune dwells,
In Market street I may be good and great.
And I who hope with confidence can tell,
She lives at corner of Charles's street.

Short is the time for penury to wait,
Ah! why defer it to a future day;
Perhaps to morrow is a day too late,
As he that asks it may be far away.

* Corner of Charles and Market-streets.
