Mr. George Murdoch

Having again very unnecessarily called the attention of the public to his complaints against me for having inflicted a punishment on him which his conduct compelled me to, it is with regret and reluctance I consent to make a very short reply.

I stated in my former advertisement that finding mr. Murdoch had taken offence at some observations which familiarly fell from me some evenings ago, at a party, I promptly and voluntarily made such apology as a gentleman in such case should do, and which was received and understood as satisfactory by him and others, as will appear by the annexed Certificates. On the next day however to my surprise, I found that Mr. Murdoch, instigated probably by others, wished to extort from me more and stronger apoligies by threats of challenge—Conceiving myself very improperly called upon to give such, I immediately replied to Mr. Richard B M'gruder the bearer of his first note, I should make no other explanation, than those already made, and on his demanding if I would be ready to give his friend satisfaction (meaning by Pistol) I replied, I would give him satisfaction, and which (after receiving his second note, a Challenge) I accordingly performed: It was however of a different description from that looked for, but the only kind which I conceive "any man of honour Sense or courage" could give in such a case That it was effectually performed many can attest who were witnesses to it, and needs not Certificates to substantiate; I however subjoin one.

I hold it the duty of any man if he inadvertantly passes an insult to make adequate reparations, and it is equally the duty of the other, to abide by what he has assented to receive as such Mr Murdoch not adhering to that, could be treated in no other way than he has been.

It should be proof sufficient of Mr. Murdoch's error in this business; that it was with difficulty he could obtain a bearer to his note after appplication to five or six, and some of whom proffered their mediation, being mutual friends; which he rejected.

I solicit the indulgence of the public for being compelled to appear before them in such a transaction.

MIDDLETON B. MAGRUDER.

Being present when the difference between Mr George Murdoch and Mr. Middleton B. Magruder took place, I hereby certify that I heard Mr Magruder at the time make an apology for what had passed, which I considered satisfactory.

FRANCIS P. HAMILTON.

I certify, I also was present, when the difference between Mr. Murdoch and Mr. Magruder took place, and that the above statement is correct.

THOMAS S. JONES.

I hereby certify that I was present when the affray between Mr. Magruder and Mr. Murdoch took place, that when Mr. Murdoch's friend interfered, in the scuffle the whip dropped from Mr. Magruder's hand on the pavement; but he immediately recovered it and repeated his blows, that Mr. Murdoch did not strike Mr. Magruder with the whip, neither had he it in his possession to the best of my recollection.

☞ To those of our friends who have so repeatedly urged us to procure and sell tickets in the NEW YORK LOTTERY, we hereby inform them, that the practice is in direct violation of the LAW—By an act of the state, a penalty of TEN POUNDS is inflicted, and by an ordinance of this city, the fine is TEN DOLLARS for every such ticket sold; so that besides our respect for the laws, we have too much RESPECT FOR OUR POCKTS to be subject to daily contributions from informers, who we understand are intitled to half the BOOTY. Besides we think motives of Patriotism should induce us to give a preference to Lottery Institutions, intended to benefit our own city, particularly when we have so great a choice of Schemes.
