FROM THE MARYLAND CENSOR.

THE PEOPLE OF MARYLAND, vs. THE FEDERALISTS.

A Declaration of Grievances, and Emancipation.

WHEN in the course of events, it becomes necessary for the people to dissolve the political bands which connect them with their public servants, and to exercise their constitutional power of dismissing from their counsels those who have betrayed their confidence, a decent respect for public opinion, requires that they should declare the causes that impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident: that all men are created equal; that the many were not made for the few; that those who administer the government, are not superior to the laws; but are, and of right, ought to be equally subject to them with the meanest of their fellow citizens; that government is instituted for the benefit of the people, and not for the gratification of rulers; that when the latter shew themselves hostile to the interests of the former, it becomes the duty of the people to transfer the administration of their affairs to more faithful agents. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that the ministers of the public should not be discarded for light and transient causes; and accordingly experience hath shewn, that the people of Maryland are more disposed to suffer while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by dismissing the authors of them. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations evinces a design to trample upon the constitution; to depress the common people, and elevate the rich; to gratify, at all hazards, an inordinate ambition and lust of office, it is their imperious duty to cast out the unfaithful stewards, and to provide new guardians for their future security.

Such has been the patient sufferance of the people of Maryland; and such is now the necessity which constrains them to transfer their affairs to safe hands. The history of the present incumbents, is a history of repeated injuries, frauds, and usurpations; all having in direct or indirect object, the establishment of an aristocracy, and the gradual destruction of the dearest rights of the people. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid public

They have in the most flagrant and during manner, violated the elective franchise in the instances of Saint Mary's, Allegany, and Anne Arundel.

They have in a most illegal and unprecedented manner, invaded the constitutional rights of the city and county of Baltimore; adopting the principle of taxation without representation; and assuming, by a mere act of ordinary legislation, to new model election districts for party purposes.*

They have violated the constitution of the United States by an act of Assembly impairing the obligation of contracts

They have contaminated the representation in its source,

By importing numerous hordes of foreign mercenaries, in order to obtain a fraudulent majority of votes:

By expending immense sums of money to corrupt the resident voters.

They have introduced an odious system of "family compact;" according to which, not fitness or qualification, but family connexion with "the powers that be," is the passport to preferment.

They have uniformly opposed, in the legislature, the participation of the people in the equal right of suffrage;† and are still consistent in their impotent hostility to that distinguishing attribute of freemen.

They have erected a multitude of new offices, and created swarms of officers, civil and military, to harass our people and eat out their substances, and to increase the number of executive tools and dependents ‡

They have ruined the finances: by exhausting the treasury: by diminishing the amount of the revenue: by drying up the resources; and finally by leaving a deficit of one hundred and eighty six thousand dollars unprovided for!!!||

They have practised peculation on the treasury in favour of a governor for extra services;§ in contempt of the plainest injunctions of the constitution.

They have expended more than nine thousand dollars on pretence of per diem, for service during the long holiday adjournments of the two last sessions of the legislature!

They have burthened the state with the reimbursement of large six per cent loans, and

Have, from an unjustifiable hostility to the administration of the general government, and a consequent refusal to co-operate with it during the late war, saddled the people of Maryland with enormous militia expenses, which would otherwise have been borne by the United States.

With a view to render the war as burthensome as possible to the good people of this state, for party purposes, they have refused to assume the state's quota of the direct taxes, by which fifteen per cent on 606,462 dollars, amounting to NINETY THOUSAND NINE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY THREE DOLLARS AND EIGHTY CENTS, would have been saved to the people!!!

Like desperate gamesters on the last stake, they have in destruction of morals, resorted to lotteries as a permanent source of revenue.

From a proud rank among the most opulent states in the union, they have, by prodigality, of which the above is a fair specimen, reduced Maryland to the verge of bankruptcy.

Thus have they shewn their consistency their uniform professions of contempt for "œconomy."

From mere hostility to the republican principles of the Baltimoreans, they have burthened them with an extraordinary militia law, which is partial, oppressive and unconstitutional.

From a pusillanimous fear of losing their popularity and their places, they have by means of new and unnecessary banks and lotteries, reduced Maryland to the condition of a vast gambling-house.

They have endeavored, during the late glorious war, to render us disaffected; to frustrate the loans necessary for the support of our political existence; to discourage enlistment; to encourage violations of every law connected with the support of the "holy cause;" to dissolve the union of the states; and to excite us to rebellion and civil war.

They have during the same period, uniformly exulted at the disasters of their country and triumphed in the success of her enemy.

They have invariably justified the atrocities of the one while they have vilified and calumniated the conduct and counsels of the other.

They have insulted the people by placing in the Senate of the United States, men who were notorious and avowed advocates and encouragers of British aggressions, men who, in questions between the two countries, had uniformly sided with the enemy.¶

They have uniformly defended and applauded the Hartford Convention; thereby identifying themselves with "the accursed thing."

In short, they have incurred the guilt of moral treason, by embarrassing and opposing their own country, and by "adhering to her enemies, giving them aid and comfort."

In every stage of these abuses, we have remonstrated and protested against them in the most unequivocal terms; we have warned them to desist from usurpations which would inevitably interrupt our connexions and correspondence; but they have been deaf to the voice of justice and policy Our repeated remonstrances have been answered only by repeated injuries. A party, whose character is thus marked by every art which may define a faction, is unfit to rule over the destinies of a free people.

Let us, the freemen of Maryland, therefore, in our respective election districts and wards, assembled, appealing to heaven for the necessity of the measure, and by our sole and sovereign authority, solemnly publish and declare, that the state of Maryland is, and of right ought to be, freed and emancipated from the domination of the faction falsely called "federalists." That it is absolved from all allegiance to, and all political connexion with them And that as a sovereign and politically regenerated state, we will exercise our rightful power of expelling from our councils those who have betrayed them; and of selecting others whose sentiments and tried fidelity entitle them to our confidence And will do all other necessary acts and things in the premises, which an emancipated and sovereign people may of right do, for the security of their liberties.

And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on our ability, let us mutually pledge ourselves to each other and to our country, zealously to promote that vigilance and harmony which are so necessary to ensure success to the great cause of THE PEOPLE.

FOR THE STAR.

Having seen a piece published in the Star of July 28th, 1818, called "A caution to Farmers," and signed "Justice," which appears to cast a reflection on the Bank of Caroline which I think is not correct, I hope the Editor will insert a few words in his next paper in answer to it. He signs his name "Justice"—I always thought Justice and Truth were linked together, and as his piece is not confined to Truth, it cannot correctly be called "Justice." How many of his "Farmers" may be idiots and need guardians, I cannot tell, nor how far he may be justifiable in abusing other Banks is not for me to say; but with regard to the Bank of poor Caroline, I am authorized to say his assertions are false—and if he can find any paper on the Bank of Caroline, at 8 or 10 per cent. (as he states) he may make a good speculation by buying it and bringing it to the subscriber (in Caroline) who is as great a friend to the Branch Bank at Easton, and to the Farmers too, as Justice himself can be. But I rather incline to think he would be glad to have a little Caroline paper himself, if he could get it.

WASHINGTON, August 26.

Members of the 16th Congress.

DAVID TRIMBLE, GEORGE ROBINSON, and RICHARD C. ANDERSON, are re-elected from Kentucky.

The corner stone of the Capitol of the United States was laid at 12 o'clock on Monday last, the 24th inst. in presence of the Commissioner of the Public Buildings, and the Architect of the Capitol; after which the workmen and laborers employed about the building partook of refreshments, provided by direction of the Commissioner.

This ceremony took place, it will be recollected, on the anniversary of that day, on which the barbarous enemy here made war upon the arts, upon literature, and upon civilized laws, and hoped to perpetuate his infamous exploit, by laying in a heap of irreparable ruins the edifices raised by taste and genius to the peaceful purposes of legislation, and the promotion of human knowledge and happiness.

RURAL ECONOMY.

Messrs. Gales & Seaton:

I have noticed that the causes of smut in wheat, and the methods most proper for preventing it have recently excited considerable attention, both in Europe and America; and as the subject is important, and particularly so to agriculturists, I have been induced to pay particular attention to the subject; and, from observation and experience, I am satisfied, that it is the weak kernels of the wheat that do grow, and but barely grow, that produce smut. And in confirmation of this it may be observed, that the wheat that yields the smut does not generally grow as tall as the other wheat, & the root of it sends up fewer stalks in number than the healthy wheat And to prevent the growth of smut, it is necessary for the cultivator to entirely separate the weak kernels of wheat from the strong; or, in other words, to seperate the light from the heavy; which may be done either by casting or by selecting the heaviest from the field, before harvesting, or with brine, lye, liming, or any expedient, so that the weak part of the wheat will be entirely killed, and not grow at all; and let the remaining sound and good wheat be sown in ground that is good, and well prepared, where every kernel will grow vigorously. If the cultivator will be particular in the above directions, he may be assured that his crop will be entirely free from that destructive enemy to good flour—smut

A GOOD ONE!

About a week before our line of battle ship, the Independence, sailed for the Mediterranean, the venerable John Adams, now fourscore years of age, was invited, by the Commander, to visit his ship. He was accompanied by a number of Gentlemen of his neighborhood, and among them was Josiah Quincy, Esq. Mr. Adams reviewed and examined the ship with admiration, contemplated her uncommon strength of structure, and had the false story of her being too low in the water cleared up to him; and was convinced, from his pretty thorough knowledge of ships (the structure of which had been a favorite study) that she was, in several respects, superior to any ship of any other Nation. Beside the structure, and fine arrangement of the Independence, he viewed with delight her healthy, hearty, well dressed, and cheerful looking crew, as he walked the gun deck, on which were arranged 600 brave and smiling American Sailors—the tear stole from his eyes—when, after recovering himself, he turned round to the Gentlemen accompanying, and said, with his characteristic emphasis,

'Let Mr. Strong say what he will, these are the Bulwarks of OUR Religion!'

On which 'Demosthenes,' who was at his elbow, blushed, and hemed, and choaked, and tried to speak; but could not: While all the rest claped hands, and the Sailors snickered from stem to stern.

We pledge ourselves for the truth of this Anecdote. [Yankee.]

Baltimore Hospital,

24th August, 1818

The board of visitors have much pleasure in announcing to the publick, that within the last eighteen months, a large and elegant addition has been made to this valuable institution, in the erection of the East wing of the building. This wing is 152 feet in length and 36 in width, with an extensive Southern projection at its extreme East end. It contains between 30 and 40 apartment, admirably calculated for the accommodation of every class of patients. Of this number are several large and airy wards, intended particularly for the reception of seamen, and well adapted to their various diseases These different rooms and wards will be warmed by open fires, and by heated air thrown into them, from furnaces constructed on a safe and improved plan. Arrangements will also soon be made, for lighting the apartment in the entire building with gas.

The unwearied exertions of Doctors Mackenzie and Smyth, the attending Physicians of the Hospital, in their attention to the construction of the building, and their care of the sick, have given a character to this Institution, which is now inferior to none in the United States. In the short space of six years, a most noble establishment has been erected—a thing without paralled in this country. It is well known, that above half a century has been consumed, in bringing the Hospitals of New York and Philadelphia to their present size, and it is admitted by many gentlemen, who have visited these Institutions, that the Hospital here, is by far the most extensive; the whole building being now 360 feet in length.

The daily increase of the sick in the Hospital, renders it absolutely necessary that the new wing should be finished; and every exertion is now making to have it completed, before the cold weather shall set in.

The visitors at their late meeting, examined the Institution with much care—the apartments of the sick in the private infirmary—those in the lunatick asylum—and the wards of the sick and disabled seamen in the Marine Hospital—and they assert with confidence, that the sick and afflicted of every description are well accommodated and carefully attended They have seen at their different meetings, the private patient comfortable: the wretched maniac humanely taken care of; and the sailor, disabled by age, wounds and sickness, well provided with suitable medicial assistance, and with every other comfort which his condition may require. Indeed the agreeable situation in which this very useful class of men are placed does much credit, as well to the Director of the Marine Hospital as to the attending Physicians, to whose immediate care they are entrusted. Every praise too which the visitors can bestow, is due to Mr. & Mrs. Catchel the Steward and Matron of the Hospital, for the neat and clean manner in which the House is uniformly kept, and for their care and attention to the administration of the internal economy of the establishment.

Before they conclude this account of the Hospital, the visitors would invite the attention of their fellow citizens throughout the United States to the ANATOMICAL CABINET of WAX PREPARATIONS, by Chiappi, which certainly far surpasses any thing of the kind ever exhibited in this country; and will afford to those whose curiosity may lead them to see how "fearfully and wonderfully they are made," but more especially to the medical student, a fund of useful information.

The Hospital is under the care of the following medical gentlemen:

Doctors Colin Mackenzie, James Smyth, } Attending Physicians.
Dr Horatio Gates Jameson, Att'ng Surgeon.
Doctors George Brown, John Coulter, John Campbell White, Solomon Birckhead, John Cromwell, Peter Chatard, Ashton Alexander, John Owen, William Donaldson, } Consulting Physicians.

By order of the Board of Visitors,
JOHN HILLEN, Sec'y.

Caution to Sportsmen

on the Eastern Shore and elsewhere,

A pair of valuable young SETTING DOGS both white, thickly covered with small dark spots, and resembling each other in all respects except that one has dark brown head and ears, with a white stripe in his face, were stolen in Batimore about the middle of August, and it is supposed have been carried into the country, most probably to the Eastern Shore. If they should be offered to any sportsman who knows their value, it is hoped and presumed that he will freely and cheerfully give information respecting them. Fifty dollars, if desired, will be paid at the Federal Gazette office for the dogs, and such information as will lead to the detection and conviction of the thief—and twenty dollars for the dogs only or ten dollars for information where they may be found.
