NEW YORK, Sept. 25.

The Columbian brig Camelion, capt. Shannon, of sixteen 18-pound columbiades, from Baltimore for Laguira, arrived off the Hook this morning to take on board Com. Daniels and Col. Duane, who are going to South America. Yesterday, fifteen miles south of the Highlands, passed the French brig Jennette Josephine, for New York, with the loss of her fore-top-mast. Ev. Post.

LATEST FROM EUROPE.

The fine packet ship Amity, Capt. Maxwell, arrived at this port last evening, in 38 days from Liverpool. By this arrival the editors of the Commercial Advertiser have received a copious supply of London and Liverpool papers, the former down to the evening of the 14th August, and the latter to the 16th—both inclusive.

The most important intelligence furnished by this arrival, is the death of the Marquis of Londonderry, (late Lord Castlereagh) who committed suicide on the morning of the 12th of Aug. by opening an artery in his neck with a penknife. From the time this melancholy event was known until the sailing of the Amity, it entirely occupied the public attention, almost to the exclusion even of the royal visit to Scotland.

The insanity of his Lordship when he committed the fatal deed, and for several days previously, is clearly established. Before his departure from London, he was observed to behave wildly at times, and was careless and even slovenly in his dress and appearance.—And on his return to his house the Friday preceding his death, it was thought expedient to keep every instrument by which he could do violence to his person, out of his reach. The small penknife, not more than an inch long, escaped attention. The King, previously to his departure, was the first to discover the change that had taken place, and to communicate the same to Lord Liverpool. The King remarked in the last audience his Lordship had with him, that his conversation was very incoherent; and His Majesty immediately wrote to Ld. Liverpool about it. At the time of committing the act, his Lordship was making active preparations for proceeding to the continent, in order to be present at the approaching Congress. He had even appointed the next Thursday for his departure, and a steam-packet was engaged to convey himself and suite on that day to Calais.

The Liverpool Mercury mentions as curious historical coincidences, that when the King visited that country, whilst Prince of Wales, Percival was assassinated. Last year, whilst his majesty was on a visit to Ireland, during the first week, the Queen died; and lastly, during the first week of the royal tour to Scotland, his confidental minister, the very life and soul of the cabinet, has died by his own hand.

The King of Persia, it is said, has been recently converted to Christianity by the arguments of the celebrated missionary, Mr. Martin. Such a conversion must have an important effect in spreading the lights of the gospel through regions of darkness, ignorance and idolatry.

SPAIN.

The accounts from Spain are very loose and contradictory. According to the English and French ministerial papers, insurrections are daily bseaking out, and a speedy and terrible bloody conflict is inevitable. But the papers more friendly to revolutions hold a different language. According to these, it would seem that notwithstanding all the attempts of the enemies of the constitutional system, to bring about a counter revolution, their affairs were settling down in apparent tranquility. The Courier of the 14th, on the authority of Bayonne papers to the 6th, says—'anarchy is making rapid progress. The King has been publicly insulted and his authority contemned. The Legislature is now attacked. The permanent deputation of the Cortes,' observe these papers, 'have lost the confidence of the people, and are accused of temporising with his Majesty, and displaying an unbecoming apathy under present circumstances.' In plainer language, military execution is not made the order of the day.

THE GREEKS.

The most favorable accounts continue to be received of this long oppressed and interesting people. It appears from an official account published by the Greek Admiralty, that the damage sustained in the Turkish fleet by the fireships, was much greater than is represented in the accounts previously received. Besides the Captain Pacha's ship, three others of the line were burnt and sunk, and seven frigates forced on shore, the crews of most of which perished. The victors immediately detached a part of their squadron to the succour of Candia, which was in danger of falling into the power of the Turks, and completely succeeded in the enterprize. Napoli de Romania had capitulated, and the Turkish garrison was to be transported in French and English vessels. According to the report of the Turks themselves, their fleet consisted of 55 sail before the disaster at Scio, and after it had been joined by the expedition which left Constantinople on the 4th of June. On the 7th of July there were only 25 vessels—consequently 20 were missing.

It is rather a singular coincidence, that the Commercial Treaty with France, and the Law opening the British West Indies to the trade of the United States, are both dated on the 24th June—the one at Washington, and the other at London. W. C. Gaz.

FROM THE NEW-YORK AMERICAN.

NATIONAL RESOURCES.

It will be recollected that, in the annual report of the Secretary of the Treasury, transmitted to Congress on the 10th day of December, 1821, the receipts for the year 1822 were estimated at sixteen millions, one hundred and ten thousand dollars. Of this amount it was computed that the customs would afford fourteen millions—leaving two millions one hundred and ten thousand dollars to be supplied from other sources of revenue:—and even on that basis, it was calculated that the receipts of the current year would exceed the expenditure by 1,162,338 dollars.

It is with much satisfaction that we feel ourselves authorized to congratulate our readers and the nation, upon the clear, and almost indubitable prospect, that the estimates of the Treasury will be more than realized.

We have been favoured by a friend, on whose acquaintance with the subject we can very implicitly rely—whose statements may be received as verity, and whose estimates are founded upon the best knowledge of the subject, with the following abstract of duties received and receivable at the port of New York for the current year.

Duties on goods imported in 4th qr. in 1821		$1,398,508 41
do. in 1st qr. in 1822,		2,314,721 43
do. in 2d qr. in 1822,		3,412,448 84
		7,625,678 68
do in 3d qr. in 1822, estimated at		2,500,000 00
		$10,125,678 68

This statement and estimates are made only upon the duties on goods, wares, and merchandises, and are independent of the duties on tonnage, &c. which, in this port only, will probably amount to three or four hundred thousand dollars, and which are understood to have been included in the estimate of the Secretary of the Treasury.

From these facts it will appear that the revenue of the Union, instead of exciting apprehension and alarm, is calculated to inspire the greatest hope and confidence.

We are aware that computations by figures are not usually of an attractive character;—and any thing in the similitude of a sum in arithmetic, is apt to repel even a reader of research. The subject under consideration, however is entitled to at least a few moment's reflection. We recommend it to the particular observance of the editor of the Statesman, and of all those other croakers whose mournful elegies over the departed prosperity of our country have been spread and re-echoed through the Union. A little attention to the subject will show that the amount thus received and receivable at the single port of New York falls short of the contemplated estimate for customs in all the ports of the United States, only by $3,874,322.

It will also be seen that it falls short of an amount equal to the estimated expenditure of the whole administration of the government only $4,821,983.

Nor is this all. The receipts of customs at the single port of New York for the present year will pay more than two thirds of the whole national expenditure, including the civil, diplomatic, and miscellaneous disbursements; the appropriation for the public debt (amounting to $5,722,877) and the whole military and naval establishments of the country.

In the year 1820, the receipts of customs at this port, in relation to all the other ports in the United States, stood about as five to twelve; the last year they were, if we are correctly informed, a little more than half; and admitting them to retain the same relative proportion that they possessed the last year, it follows that this portion of the public revenue will surmount the calculations of the Secretary of the Treasury, by a no less sum than six millions two hundred and fifty one thousand three hundred and fifty-six dollars. Admitting even that the customs received at this port (of which we do not arrogate to ourselves the belief) should exceed by one third those of all the other ports in the union, yet there would still be a surplus above the Treasury estimates of more than half a million of dollars.

At the same time that these facts furnish a subject for well-gounded congratulation, they may, perhaps, supply us hereafter with some other and more important considerations naturally deducible from them.

CHARLESTON, Sept. 17.

It was reported at St. Thomas, when Captain Chazel arrived at Charleston, in 10 days from that place, that on the arrival of the wounded men at St. Johns, P. R. sent by Captain Gregory from the Palmyra, the man who had his leg shot off was placed in a conspicuous part of that city, to raise the spirits of the mob, and all the Americans in port were obliged to keep close until the arrival of the Cyane, two days after, which ship had orders to demand the release of all American vessels which had been captured by Spanish cruisers, and in case of refusal, to capture all cruizers she might fall in with.

The prisoners composing the crew of the Spanish prize brig PALMYRA, landed on Saturday, under a guard of seamen and marines from the U. S. Schooner GRAMPUS, and conducted to jail.—Hitherto it has been customary here to convey prisoners, to or from prison, under a military escort; but in this instance, and very properly too, according to our notion on the subject, they were safely deposited in jail by the boys who captured them.

Might it not be well for owners and masters of American vessels, captured by the PALMYRA, alias the PANCHITA, to forward on to this city, immediately, the evidence in their possession of all illegal or piratical acts committed by the officers and crew of that privateer.

Courier.

SEPTEMBER 18.

The prize brig Palmyra having been converted into a prison ship, the prisoners composing her crew were yesterday taken from jail and transferred on board her for safe keeping, until they shall be put upon their trial. And a requisition having been made by his excellency the Governor, on major Bird, commanding the U. S. troops on this station, for a lieutenant's guard to take charge of them, it was immediately complied with, and the guard placed under the command of Lieut. Griffith. Ibid.

SEPTEMBER 19.

A number of seamen who had been recruited in this city, contrary to the laws of the United States, for the Colombian private armed schooner Mary, captain Baker, at anchor off the Bar, were stopped as they were in the act of embarking to join her on Tuesday evening; and yesterday an officer who had assisted in enlisting them, was arrested and committed to prison to answer for the offence. Ibid.

BOSTON, Sept. 20.

We understand that the Court of Inquiry, which has been sitting for the last forty days with uncommon patience and industry, examining into the official conduct of Captain Hull, during the whole period of his command on this station, yesterday closed the examination of witnesses, after having had before them every individual who it was known could testify to any circumstance connected therewith. The Court adjourned from yesterday to Monday, 30th inst. when the whole evidence will be summed up, and the defence delivered in. We hope, whatever may be the result of this Court, that all will be disposed to rest satisfied with its decision. Bost. Pat.

DEATH WARRANT.

LANCASTER, Sept. 20.

The sheriff of this county, on Wednesday morning last, received from the Governor of the state, the Death Warrant of John Lechler, directing that the sentence of the law as passed upon him be executed between the hours of ten and two o'clock, on Friday the 25th October next.

A few words of altercation took place on Friday evening last, at Wilmington Del. between a white man and a colored one, when the latter drew a knife and gave the former a cut in the lower part of the abdomen, through which his intestines protruded; and the poor fellow walked home a considerable distance holding them in his hands! The wound, we are informed, is of such a nature as to render his life entirely hopeless. The perpetrator of this inhuman deed has been committed to the jail of this county. Watchman.

A NEW COMET.

Another Comet has made its appearance, which has been observed in Europe and in this country. The Charleston Courier of the 19th inst. says that it has a tail apparently fifteen feet long, and that it is passing from west to east with great rapidity, in the southern quarter of the heavens.

We have received a communication of violations of Law by a certain class of people in a neighboring county which we recommend to the attention of the civil authority instead of the newspapers.

DIED—On Friday last, Miss Ann, third daughter of Gen. William Potter, of Caroline county.

WILLIAM HAYWARD, Jun. of Talbot, offers himself as a candidate to his fellow citizens of Queen-Ann's, Caroline and Talbot counties (the seventh Congressional District of Maryland) and will faithfully represent them in the next Congress of the United States, should he meet with their suffrages on the first Monday of October next.

Easton, August 5th, 1822. te

We are authorized by Col. THOMAS EMORY, of Queen-Ann's, to state that he will serve the People of this Congressional District in the next Congress, if he shall be so fortunate as to obtain their suffrages at the approaching election; and we are assured that he will serve them with the strictest fidelity.

Fifty Dollars Reward.

RANAWAY from the subscriber living in King Georges county, Virginia, on the 23d instant, a negro man called BILLY, 5 feet 4 inches high—Billy is a stout well made fellow, remarkable for the largeness of his head, the whiteness of his teeth, and the smallness of his ears. This fellow was stolen from my farm on the 17th August last, and on the 16th of the present month lodged in the jail of Dorchester county, with four others stolen at the same time; on the 23d of the present month was delivered to me by the Sheriff of that county, and eloped from me near Vienna, on my way to that place, to embark for home.—It is presumed this fellow will endeavor to get to Philadelphia. The above reward will be given for lodging him in any jail so that I get him again.
