Tuesday Morning, Dec. 6.

From the American Farmer.

INTERNAL IMPROVEMENT.

"To meet the Convention on Internal Improvement, which is to assemble in Baltimore on the second Wednesday in this month, December; Delegates have been appointed in several counties of the state, and meetings are advertised to be held in others for the same purpose.

It is to be hoped that all the counties will appoint Delegates, in pursuance of the suggestion of the good citizens of Frederick county. It is due to them as an act of courtesy, independently of the intrinsic importance of the subject to all parts of the state. The Delegates as far as we have seen the lists, are gentlemen of known influence and distinction for their public spirit and services, and happily for the cause in which their talents will be employed; they have been chosen without reference to narrow sectional or party interests. One obvious benefit must result from the proposed Convention; it cannot fail to bring together, as to a focus, much valuable information as to the internal resources of the state, and the practicability of improving by human art and industry, the natural sources of wealth and population.

The Delegates will, as far as we can judge, come together unbiassed as to any particular measure; and as they have been deputed without solicitation, and will serve without "fee or reward," they may be expected to act with a single eye to the prosperity of the state, without any regard to the perpetuity of their own power, or that of any party."

To the above judicious observations of the Editor of the Farmer, it may be added; that it is the policy and the duty of every county of the Eastern Shore to send Delegates to meet the Convention; not only to obtain information, but to see and to watch what may be done, or attempted to be done. The sentiments and acts of this Convention may give a tone and direction to the energies of the state. It therefore behoves the counties of the Eastern Shore to be at the post, to see that nothing is done adverse to their interests, and to throw in their weight to aid in giving the right tone and direction to the proceedings of the Convention.

The time approaches, when the Legislatures of many of the States, and of the Union, will convene. There is a stillness pervading the political atmosphere, not unlike that awful calm which Poets represent as the harbinger of "a coming storm." The moral elements of our country will soon be roused to active commotion, and the political world around us assume a new and more interesting aspect. It is gratifying to the philanthropist and the patriot, to contemplate the spectacle which the regular return of this period exhibits; to mark the progress of improvement in the useful and elegant arts; to see the happiness of the people increasing, as the prosperity and glory of their country advances; to behold the constant accession of strength and wisdom which our free institutions are deriving from the development of new resources, and from the equal and liberal administration of miki, just, and beneficent laws. The problem of man's capacity for self-government acquires stronger proof, in the estimation of the world, from the practical illustration of our successful experiment; and while our political fabric rests in permanent security on the affections of a virtuous and intelligent people, the blessings of its example are becoming more widely diffused, as its happy effects are more and more felt at home, and admired abroad.

OFFICIAL.

The following Circular has been issued by the Secretary of the Navy to the Commandants of the different Navy Yards, Stations, and Squadrons:

[CIRCULAR.]

Navy Department, 29th Nov. 1825.

SIR: Captain THOMAS MACDONOUGH died on the 10th of this month, off the Capes of the Delaware, on his return from active service in the Mediterranean.

It is proper that a tribute of respect be paid to the memory of a man whose services were so useful to his country, and who so eminently united in himself the best qualities of a citizen with the highest reputation as an officer.

You will, therefore, on the day after receiving this order, cause the flag to be hoisted at half-mast, and thirteen minute guns to be fired at 12 o'clock; and you will direct the officers under your command to wear crape on the left arm, for thirty days.

I am, respectfully, &c.

THE NAVY.

A writer in the "Boston Patriot" speaks well on the propriety of having a higher rank in the Navy than that of Captain. To the want of it, he attributes many of the feuds that have existed in this arm of the national defence; and says, that "Captains can seldom be efficiently commanded by Captains." There is, no doubt, much justice in this remark; and we beg leave to think that the Navy would be better regulated if the grade of Admiral and Commodore were created and established by law. One Admiral and three or four Commodores might be all at present required, and the additional expense would be very trifling indeed. There is now one ship of the line, two frigates, and two sloops of war, with somewhat more than two thousand men, under the command of Captain Rodgers, and it is unpleasant and unprofitable that he should be outranked in the ports he may visit, by much younger officers in the service of other powers, and with a much inferior command. [Niles' Reg.

The whole of the Creek Deputation not having arrived, the business of their visit has not yet been opened with the Government. As, however, the Chief of the Deputation is among the number of those who are here, we understand the remainder of the Deputation will not be waited for longer than this day, and the conferences on the subject of the Treaty will commence probably to-morrow. It is said that the Government has reason to anticipate the most favorable results from these conferences, and, of course, a satisfactory accommodation of the difficulties which grew out of the late Treaty.

[Nat. Intel.

Extract of a latter from a young gentleman in New York.

"A few days since I was on board the new splendid 64 gun ship built for the Colombians. Perhaps a better and more finished ship never floated: the belaying pins are all burnished brass; the coomings of the hatches covered with copper; her cabins of superb curled maple and mahogany. She is called the Bolivar, and I understand will shortly sail for South America. Three other 64 gun ships are on the stocks, nearly ready for launching; also one 24 gun ship; and a fourth is soon to be commenced. The old steam ship Robert Fulton has been made into a 24 gun ship, and is truly beautiful—Making a total of seven ships of war in our yards all for foreign nations. This makes business uncommonly active here, and shipbuilders' wages are from $2 to $2 50."

Dorchester Cattle Show & Fair

The first public exhibition by the Dorchester Agricultural Society, held on the 10th and 11th ult. was attended by a large concourse of people. The variety and quality of articles exhibited, exceeded the most sanguine expectations.

At 12 o'clock on Thursday, an address was delivered at the tent of the society, before a numerous audience, by the President, Dr. Muse.

On Friday were exhibited the Implements of Husbandry, and the Ploughing Matches; and at 1 o'clock the President delivered the premiums.

HORSES.

The Committee appointed to inspect Horse, and determine who should receive the premium for the best stallion, report,—that but one was exhited for premium, belonging to Dr. John Hooper, and although there was no competition, still his beauty of form, and activity and elegance of action, justly entitle him to the premium. They also further report, that Capt. Anthony Manning is entitled to the premium for the best brood mare; the one exhibited by him was remarkable for its beauty. We would remark, that Dr. Hooper's stallion wanted only size, to be considered a very superior horse.

CATTLE.

The Committee on Cattle have awarded to Dr. Joseph E. Muse, for his bull Champion, by Col. Lloyd's imported Champion, the first premium of $10.

To Mr. Joseph Byus, for his bull Prince Hall, of the improved Teeswater and short-horned breed, the second premium of $5.

To Dr. Thomas Woolford, for his bull Lafayette, by an imported Devon of Mr. Oliver's of Baltimore, out of an improved short-horned and Holderness cow, belonging to Col. Richardson, of this town, the first premium under two years old, of $5.

To Wm. V. Murray, for his bull Champion, junr. the second premium under two years old, of $3.

The competition in milch cows being small, and the committee considering none exhibited of sufficient distinction to merit the first premium, have awarded to Mr. Thomas Hayward, for his red cow, the second premium of $3.

To Wm. V. Murray, for his white heifer Rose, by the imported Champion, under 3 years old, and without a calf, the first premium of $5.

To Dr. Thomas Woolford, for his heifer 6 months old, the second premium of $5.

To Mr. Samuel Cook for his yoke of broken oxen, the first premium of $5.

To Mr. John C. Henry, for his yoke of broken oxen, the second premium of $4.

To Charles Goldsborough, Esq. for the best bullock, the premium of $5.

SWINE.

The Committee report—that a great variety of swine were inspected, the great majority of which, in point of form, fatness, and general excellence, would have entitled them to the premium at any other cattle show but this. The committee, after frequent and repeated inspection, and the most perplexing deliberation, as to which swine were superior, determine and award, that

For the best boar, Dr. Tho. Woolford.
For the 2d best, Barzillai Streets.
For the best sow, Thos. Hayward.
For the 2d best, Dr. J. H. Hooper.
For the fattest and heaviest hog, live weight, Solomon Wilson.

STEPHEN RIDDLE.

SHEEP.

The Committee appointed on Sheep, beg leave to report—that they have particularly and attentively viewed and examined the several lots of sheep offered for premium. The competitors were numerous, and deserve much praise for the efforts which they have made to promote the views and interest of the society, by giving a character of importance to its first exhibition. The committee have nevertheless to regret that the sheep exhibited, were not, generally, of a quality as good as they expected to see. Indeed, we have reason to believe, that the sheep submitted to our inspection, were not, with a few exceptions, much if at all superior to many, which might be selected from numerous flocks in this county. However, your committee believe that the owners of some of the sheep exhibited are entitled to premiums, and do therefore award as follows:

For the best ram, to John C. Henry.
Second best do. to Wm. V. Murray.
Best ewe, to John C. Henry.
Second best, to John C. Henry.
Best lot of wethers, to Thomas and James Woolford.

THOMAS I. H. ECCLESTON,
Chairman.

JOSEPH BYUS,
WM. M. ROBINSON,
JOHN D. STEVENS.

IMPLEMENTS OF HUSBANDRY.

The Committee to whom was assigned the inspection of Implements of Husbandry, Report—That, as they were to examine no implements but those of recent invention and would be of general utility, and for such only the premium was offered, there were but few submitted to their inspection—Mr. Samuel Keene exhibited a Briar Hook, which is of a different construction from those now in common use—it has two edges instead of one, and although but an improvement of the one heretofore used, yet possesses such superior advantages, that the committee are of opinion that he is justly entitled to the premium, and therefore award it to him.

JNO. R. PITT,
THOS. HAYWARD,
LEVIN JONES.

PLOUGHING.

We, the undersigned judges appointed on the ploughing matches have with pleasure performed the duties with care and attention and upon the most minute inspection or attention, award the first premium to Mr. John C. Henry—to the ploughman $3.

The Second premium we award to Mrs. Sophia Murray—to the ploughman, $3—and we hereby offer with pleasure, our award of praise to all the competitors.

FAMILY MANUFACTURES.

The committee appointed by the Dorchester Agricultural Society to examine and decide on the various articles of Family Manufacture this day exhibited for premiums, having duly and deliberately compared and considered their several merits, make the following report viz.

For the best piece of Linsey not less than 10 yards, we award the premium of $4—to Mrs. Hughlett.

For the best Hearth Rug, we award the premium of $4—to Mrs. Henrietta Trippe.

For the best Counterpane, we award the premium $4—to Mrs. Eliza Ennalls.

For the best piece of Carpeting not less than 20 yards, we award the premium of $5—to Mrs. Ann Byus.

For the best piece of Linen Sheeting not less than 10 yards, we award the premium of $4—to Mrs Keturah Dorsey.

For the best piece of Linen Diaper for Table cloths, we award the premium of $4—to Miss Rebecca Richardson.

For the best Towelling Linen Diaper, we award the premium of $4—to Mrs. Sarah Waggaman.

For the best pair of Knit Woollen Stockings, we award the premium of $3—to Miss Keturah Dorsey.

For the best pair of Knit Cotton Stockings, we award the premium of $3—to Miss Keturah Dorsey.

The Committe further represent that sundry articles of Household Manufacture were produced for their Inspection, of such neat, handsome, and ingenious execution, as for a time to stagger their judgements, and occasioned considerable perplexity in deciding between the worth and splendor of these, and those of the successful competitors. Other Valuable Articles of fine texture were shown among which was a piece of White Cotton Flannel of very superior quality the property of Mrs. Emily Woodard, highly deserving of premium; they regret their inability to offer them, being restricted to the Manufactures contemplated and specified by the Society, but as no pieces of real Kersey were exhibited for the premium offered for that article, they would suggest the propriety of presenting that premium of 4 dollars—to Mrs. Emily Woodard, for her elegant piece of Flannel. All which is submitted.

JOSEPH K. TRAVERS.

BUTTER.

The Committee appointed on the department of Butter, at the Dorchester Cattle Show, No. 1, held at Cambridge, on November 10th 1825, Report—That the display of both fresh and potted butter, was very large and splendid; and that it was with considerable difficulty they could discriminate between several parcels; that between those for which they have awarded premiums, a distinction of first and second in regard to both the fresh and potted, was made rather from necessity than otherwise, and that the whole exhibition of butter afforded the most gratifying evidence of the neatness and extent of Dorchester dairies. They report and award that the parcel of fresh butter, marked Mrs. Micah Steele, of Elden, receive the first premium, and that the parcel marked Mrs. Sophia Muse, the second premium—and that the parcel of potted butter marked Mrs. Elizabeth Vane, received the first premium—and that the one marked Mrs. Sophia Muse, receive the second.

CROPS.

The Committee to whom was referred the decision on crops beg leave to report—That from the accompanying papers they adjudge as follows, to wit.—

The premium proposed by the Agricultural Society for the best crop of good hay, well cured, we award to Colonel Richardson, he made on 1¾ acres 14 500 pounds.

To John Willoughby for the best crop of Indian Corn on not less than three acres of land, the premium offered by the said society—he made as per certificate, on 3 acres 169 bushels 3 pecks and 1 gallon.

FERMENTED LIQUORS.

We, the Committee of the Dorchester Agricultural Society on Fermented Liquors, have examined a barrel of Cider for Mr. Wm. McKinsey, and find it to be of a superior quality, and notwithstanding there was no opposition, we, the committee, think Mr. McKinsey's sample is entitled to a premium—In witness whereof, we, the committee, have hereunto set our hand this 10th day of November, 1825.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.

LIBERALITY.—We are pleased to be able to state that our city banks have extended a liberal hand to their mercantile friends who were applicants at their counters Wednesday was a joyful day, and yesterday was no less so. The extraordinary scarcity of money for some time past, has been a serious inconvenience to all classes. A deficiency in any other commodity is felt but by a few, comparatively; and at all events, a proper adaptation of price soon regulates the consumption: but every fluctuation in the money market extends its evils over the whole community. A promise three months ago to pay one thousand dollars, has now become a promise to pay eleven hundred; and the fall in the value of money, which must inevitably occur sooner or later, will cause another derangement, the reverse of the present—then the debtor will gain and the creditor lose. These variations, however, are rather the necessary result of commercial intercourse, than to be attributed to any of the late local embarrassments.—No currency can be sounder than ours, (the bank paper of this city generally is here intended,) nor better adapted to lessen the power of those fluctuations, which, if gold and silver constituted the only circulating medium, would be constantly and severely felt on every export and import of specie. The confidence placed in the banks is such as enables them to neutralize, in a great measure, the evils of these constant variations; but occasions may happen, when safety may absolutely require a withdrawal of their paper. Such an occasion has been felt; heavy drafts have been made by the French merchants on the Spanish coin, while the custom house bonds have absorbed the American dollars. Under such circumstances, to which should be added the diminution of confidence in each other, if the banks or any one of them had continued their discounts without restriction, very great inconvenience, to say the least would have been the consequence; but, like prudent individuals, they have limited their business by their means, and deserve in turn the confidence and gratitude of the public. The extreme pressure is now over, and the result has been highly beneficial. We have been informed that many stockholders have felt much alarmed at the depressed state of stocks; but we believe we can assure them their fears are groundless; the fall of price is not so much owing to and want of confidence in the institutions as to the high value of money; and this will be apparent in due time. PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.

On Saturday at 12 o'clock, the body of Commodore MCDONOUGH, in a cask of spirits, was brought up from the brig Edwin, lying opposite the Navy Yard, in the Navy Yard barge, accompanied by a detachment of Marines and several officers. It was placed on board the steamboat Philadelphia, to proceed to New York, from thence to Middletown, Conn. where it is to be interred.

SPANISH EXPEDITIONS.

It was stated in the last London papers that the naval expedition preparing for Havana had not left Spain on the 30th of September—but we learn by an arrival here from Cadiz, that the fleet sailed from Corunna on the 26th of that month. It consisted of the Lesttad, 84, Yberia, 64; brig Sason, 20; a sloop of war and ten transports with 3000 troops. One thousand of the troops were to be landed at Porto Rico, the residue at Havana.

At Cadiz, ready to sail for South America, the Guerro, 74, and a sloop of war. The San Pable, 74, was repairing.

MURDER AND SUICIDE,

In Portsmouth, R. Island, on the afternoon of the 23d instant, were found by Arnold Pearse, while setting his boat along shore, the bodies of a woman and two girls, apparently of about 35, 13, and 5 years of age. It appeared by evidence given the jury that the deceased had been in the water about one hour when discovered that they were tracked to the water's edge, that their outside garments were dry on the shore, and that there were evident marks of a struggle on the shore opposite where they were found. On account of the position in which they were found, and other circumstances, the jury had no doubt that the two girls were drowned by the woman, who afterwards drowned herself. The woman proved to be Ann Lawton, daughter of George Bromwell and wife of John Lawton, absent, and in parts unknown, all of Portsmouth. It is believed that the eldest girl was her daughter, and the youngest her neice, whom she had taken under her care on the death of the child's mother, and that their needy condition urged the unhappy woman to commit the horrid acts. It is to be hoped that this is the only case of a person, who has sustained a moral character, in this State, so destitute of property and real friends, as to be induced to resort to such extreme means of escaping from distress.
