[Excerpt from Section 4, Act of Congress approved July 25, 1882.]

The 4 inch carpophalangal joint is articulated with phalangy notwithstanding the proximal joint function is limited to $1\frac{1}{2}$ normal. Middle finger - metacarpophalangal joint has about 30% of motion - phalangal joints are normal. This phalanx to these fingers from being flexed into a position which is especially true of the 4 finger - The 3 finger could be used in grasping large objects - but 4 finger would be useless. Also compensating of scapulothoracic of hand opposite the elbow. Use of hand must be much improved from disability of fingers and the disability gives no other disability.
