"man and wife, and were so recognized "by their neighbors and lived together "as such up to the date of enlistment," as has been demonstrated by affidavits of George and Eliza Brooks, now on file in the case.

The fact is also made apparent from the evidence that after the said deceased soldier was discharged from the Army, he and the claimant resumed marriage relations, upon the discharge of said soldier from the U.S. Army, that they were recognized by the community as man and wife, up to the date of said deceased soldier's death.

That the form of marriage as provided by Law, was gone through at the advice of friends in the church, but so far as a real, true bona-fide marriage was concerned, the claimant and her
