

New York, Sept 27, 1883
My Dear Wife I take great in writing you a few lines daring I do, not mean to hurt your feeling you must look over such nonsense as I feel it my duty to treat you with the greatest respect so you need not worry about me for I will return some time in the winter or sooner dear Alice I will send you one dollar Monday you may hold for it about Monday Evening and then I will try to send you one dollar Every month if I can Dear Alice you tell me that you are so again I am sorry
