

made to order for him, and he did so, and afterward told me that he thought his feet felt better, but that they still hurt him. That was about nine or ten years ago. No, I don't remember that I ever saw his bare feet. No sir, I never knew him to be laid up on account of his feet - He is always able to get about, but sometimes his feet cripple him up pretty bad. Well, besides the trouble with his feet, I have known the said claimant to complain of rheumatism since the war. Well, I think I have heard him complain of rheumatism, more or less, all during the time I have known him since the war. He used to complain of the rheumatism being in his shoulders, legs and knees, I think. All that I know about his having the rheumatism is from his complaints. I thoroughly understand your questions and my answers have been correctly recorded in this deposition.
