

I have seen Claimant at least once a week since his discharge - and I have often heard him complain of his leg. Cannot state how much time he has lost on account of it. Know that he has frequently ^{been} laid up for a week or so at a time for the wound. I have not seen the wounded leg - and cannot state whether there is a running sore there or not.

I have lived in the same neighborhood with Claimant during the greater part of the time since he was discharged from the service.

I have previously testified in this claim. I do not recollect that I testified that he had been $\frac{1}{2}$ disabled since his discharge by reason of the wound.

I have no recollection that Claimant had rheumatism prior to his enlistment and do not know whether he has had it since he was discharged. I have only heard him complain of the wound of right leg.

I am not related or interested.
