Deponent.

But the witness exists

Joseph Ross lived in Annapolis a well known while after he came out of the army, and worked there in a hardware house and he was working around there for while - a laborer. He has a brother, William, living in the town of Annapolis and a son, Jack, and a daughter, all living here but I cannot tell where they are. I cannot tell you the names of any one in Annapolis who knew him. He had a house somewhere down about the depot. I do not know how long he and Eliza lived together. They separated here or there as I remember. I do not know the cause of it. I do not know whether he married again after he left Eliza.
He lived down here with a woman named Catherine - do not know whether they were married. He died while with Catherine.
I do not know anything about the date of his of Eliza's children - do not know how many she has. I do not know how old Ross was when he died, but I would think he was 70 years. I do not think he and Eliza were married when they separated - I never heard that they were I do not think he has any property of any kind.
I have made affidavit in this case. I never said that they (Eliza and Ross) were married before I have made this statement. I am positive and my answers have been given to the best of my knowledge.
