

two horses - and a cow or two, of usually nominal value - and the household furniture. I could name no definite figure as her probable income but I am satisfied from my own knowledge and some inquiry - it amounts to little or nothing when her expenses for taxes fertilizer &c are paid.

One of the places had not been paid for - and there is a mortgage against it - and I have been informed the place is to be sold.

Though her atty and from what I can learn from other sources Woolfords debts will amount to almost if not quite the value of all the property he left - so that when the estate is settled the widow will have very little if any thing left.

The claimants health is not good - she is an epileptic - and at times has quite severe attacks.

I am not related - not interested and my answers are correctly rendered

Mrs. [unclear]

Deponent.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 23 day of May, 1899, and I certify that the contents were fully made known to deponent before signing.

R. P. Fletcher

Special Examiner. 13