Have known Thos Carmichael for 40 years and know from personal knowledge that prior to his enlistment in the U. S. Army he was a sound able bodied man.
I make the above statement from facts known from having worked with him.
And since his return from the army he has been a sufferer from injuries of the left ankle incurred while in the Army.
Since his discharge he has lived with and next door to me for 20 years and I know that at times he can hardly walk and at other times he is perfectly helpless.
At times he is able to do some light work and at other times cannot help him self out of bed.
At times he can do about 1 fourth as much as an ordinary man.
