wrote his former affidavit was the same man who swore him to the paper. It will be observed that this affidavit bears two dates of execution but affiant swears he was there but one day. The affidavit is in the handwriting of Mr Lloyd - well known to your Examiner.
It therefore appears that Mr Lloyd himself was in the habit of swearing witnesses and subsequently having C. E. Warner speak the juror. The fact that the juror has a subsequent date to that in the caption of the affidavit corroborates the witness that Lloyd
- the man who wrote the paper - did swear him.

I respectfully recommend that this case be referred to Law Div. for consideration of other cases of like character tending to the disbarment of A. Parker Lloyd for illegal practices.

Very respectfully
Geo. D. Sidman
Spl. Examiner
