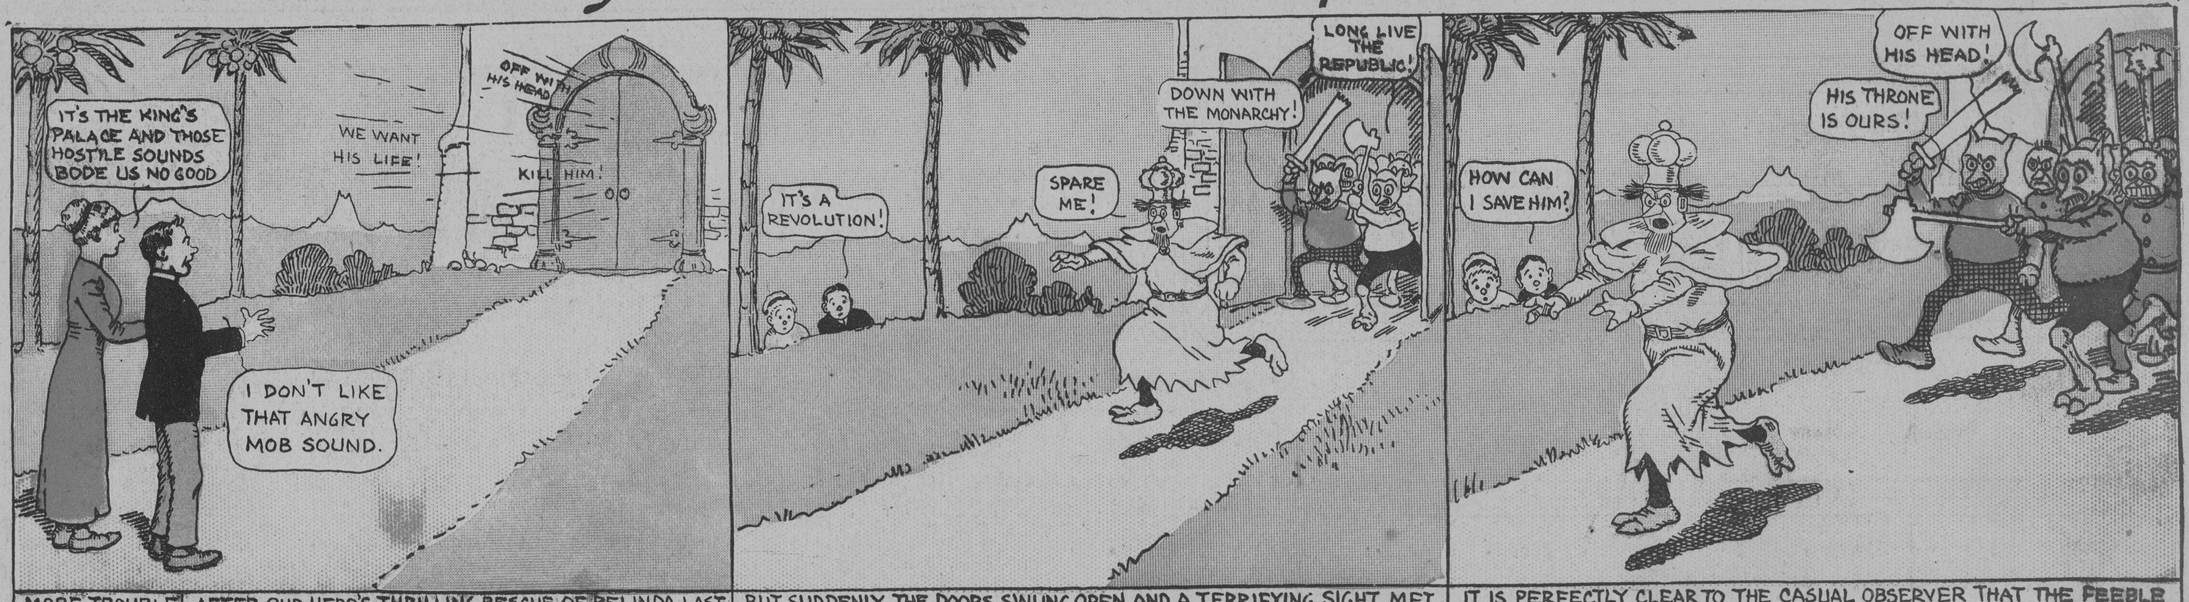
Hairbreadth Harry—Some Revolution Squelcher Is Our Hero

Drawn by C. W. Kahles



MORE TROUBLE! AFTER OUR HERO'S THRILLING RESCUE OF BELINDA LAST WEEK THEY NATURALLY HIKED BACK TO THE PALACE TO SPEND A QUIET EVENING WITH THE KING BUT OMINOUS SOUNDS GREETED THEIR EARS.

BUT SUDDENLY THE DOORS SWUNG OPEN AND A TERRIFYING SIGHT MET THEIR GAZE! OLD KING BUL-BUL TOTTERED FORTH, TERROR STRICKEN, CLOSELY FOLLOWED BY A PACK OF MURDEROUS REVOLUTIONISTS!!

IT IS PERFECTLY CLEAR TO THE CASUAL OBSERVER THAT THE FEEBLE OLD MONARCH HAS NO CHANCE AGAINST THAT BLOODTHIRSTY MOB, AND TO INTERFERE WOULD MEAN CERTAIN DEATH TO OUR HERO AND HEROINE.

SOMETHING MUST BE DONE AND DONE QUICKLY! BUT WHAT! A MOMENT MORE AND IT WILL BE TOO LATE! SUDDENLY OUR HERO GRASPED THE TRUNK OF A COCOANUT TREE AND WITH A SUPERHUMAN EFFORT BENT IT DOUBLE!!

THE NEXT INSTANT A TERRIFIC VOLLEY OF COCOANUTS GREETED THE ASTONISHED INSURRECTOS!!!

FINE WORK, OLD BOY! EVERY ONE OF THOSE COCOANUTS SPED TRUE TO ITS MARK AND KNOCKED OUT A PESKY TRAITOR. THIS IS THE QUICKEST WORK ON RECORD FOR QUELLING A REVOLUTION AND THE KING WONT FORGET IT.

Clumsy Claude

Learns That Pride Goes Before a Fall

Drawn by C. W. Kahles

©Maryland State Archives, msa_sc4150_1_215-0568