At Old Point

Old Point Comfort, Va., March 29.—Old Point is enjoying a season of much gayety, with the usual vim and brightness characteristic of this resort, and the Easter season was crowded with events. The Chamberlin is full and indications are it will continue so well into May. The festive season here reached its climax with the brilliant cotillon given at the Chamberlin Monday evening. The decorations in the ballroom were unusually elaborate and attractive, while the favors were suggestive of the Easter time. An event o fequal importance for the juvenile was the children's ball of Saturday evening.

The visit of the Yale baseball team on Sunday with their continual flow of jests and good spirits, created quite a ripple of excitement and pleasure among the guests. After lunch a swimming party was arranged in their honor, and genuine sighs of regret were audible when the merry crowd left by steamer late in the afternoon, for Washington.

Many "fans" went from the Chamberlin Friday afternoon to Norfolk, to witness the game between the Yale and Holy Cross teams, this being the first game of the season in this section. In a party chaperoned by Mrs. Merritt were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Osborne, Miss Osborne, of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Brown, of Stamford, Ct.; Miss Elizabeth Fischer and Miss Faunie Foster, of Pelham Manor School; Miss McKegg, of New York; Clyde Fuller, of Milwaukee; J. N. Nelson, of Chicago, and Lieutenant Rogers.

Dr. Lyman Abbott, editor of the Outlook, one of the distinguished visitors here the past two weeks, spoke to a large audience Sunday evening in the ballroom of the Chamberlin. Following an annual custom, a chorus of 60 students of Hampton sang plantation hymns and melodies at intervals during the evening, proving a very entertaining feature for the guests.

An interesting occurrence of the week and an unusual one for the Chamberlin was the christening of the young son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Merritt Taylor, of Philadelphia. The beautiful ceremony, which took place Monday at noon in Mr. and Mrs. Taylor's suite, was conducted by Rev. Francis Lee. Mrs. J. W. Reed and Mr. Washington Read were the sponsors.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Allen Kimberly gave a delightful dinner party Saturday for Mrs. Kimberly's brother, Mr. Dunn, of New York. Their guests were Lieutenant and Mrs. Hotz, Lieutenant and Mrs. Knight, Lieutenant and Mrs. Wildrick.

Mrs. Guy Mix gave a small dance Friday evening for Mr. Kavanaugh, of New York, who is the guest of Captain and Mrs. Jewell at Fortress Monroe.

With the warm days tennis and golf have come into their own again, while horseback riding has many devotees. Among these are Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Phipps and the Misses Phipps, recent arrivals from Denver, who daily enjoy a long cross-country ride in this exhiliarating atmosphere. Bridge continues the most popular of all diversions. As many as 25 tables are engaged in this game every evening in the red room of the Chamberlin. Mrs. Corbin gave a small bridge party Monday afternoon for Mrs. Allen Kimberly, Mrs. Pettus and Mrs. Toppen. For Miss Batty, of Savannah, Ga., who is visiting Mrs. Wildrick at the Fort, Mrs. Allen Kimberly entertained at bridge Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. A. G. Walters and Miss Lady Harris, of North Carolina, are the guests of Mrs. Lee Holcombe in the Fort, and are the recipients of many atentions.

Thursday, after the christening of their son, Elmer Read, Lieutenant and Mrs. Guy Mix entertained with a buffet luncheon at their home in the Fort. Rev. Dr. Herbert Shipman, of New York, who, with Mrs. Shipman, arrived this week to spend some time at the Chamberlin, conducted the christening ceremony. Mrs. Shipman appeared as godmother and Mr. Read Beard, of Baltimore, as godfather. Mrs. Alma Beard and son, Mr. Read Beard, are the house guests of Mrs. Mix.

Among the recent arrivals at the Chamberlin are:

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lippincott, Mrs. J. Ellinger, Misses Ellinger, George Lowther, Mrs. C. M. Lowther, Misses M. M. Lowther and C. G. Lowther, Mrs. Vreeland, James and Reed Vreeland, eGorge Manning, H. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Rich, Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Fritz, Miss Elizabeth Rich; Dr. and Mrs. William Bell, U. S. WILDWOOD-BY-THE-SEA.

Special Dispatch to The American.

Wildwood-by-the-Sea, March 29.—The Easter parade of last Sunday was the biggest event ever held at Wildwood during this season of the year. This great assembly can be accounted for by the fact that each year more persons become acquainted with the beauty of Wildwood, the comfortable, homelike, reasonable hotel service, the delightful, balmy invigorating climate and the smooth beach.

Many of the 15,000 Easter vacationists took advantage of the new Reading Railway connection. This is the first year that it has been possible for persons to get to Wildwood over the Reading.

At this early date many reservations have come in for cottages and hotel accommodations, ranging from a week to the entire season. Many prominent Baltimoreans have already arranged for a pleasant sojourn at this delightful seashore resort. All indictions bespeak the most prosperous season the Wildwood has ever known.

How To Darken Gray Hair

By A Specialist.

A very satisfactory preparation which darkens gray hair and acts as a corrective agent for dandruff and other diseases of the scalp can be made at small expense and in your own home by dissolving a small box of Barbo Compound in 7 ounces of water and then adding an ounce of bay rum and a quarter ounce of glycerine. Any drug store can furnish these ingredients. This is to be applied once a week until the hair is sufficiently darkened, then every two weeks to keep the hair soft and glossy and the scalp in a healthy condition. It may be used with equal success in darkening the beard. This is a preparation that gives splendid results, both as a hair darkener and a remedy for all scalp disorders, and is well worthy of a trial. You will find it far superior to the ordinary store preparation and much less expensive.

Old Turkish Rules for Diplomats.

[From the London Chronicle.]

The Turkish government used at one time to make foreign envoys in Constantinople conform in some degree to Mussulman customs. They were not allowed to appear in public accompanied by their wives, as this practice might have caused heartburnings among the native women, who could never hope to be treated on an equality with their husbands. Endeavors were also made at one time to extend Mohammet's prohibition of wine to foreign diplomats. This was found impossible, but until the end of the eighteenth century all the wine consigned to them had to be conveyed from the harbor in the dead of the night so that the faithful should not be contaminated by seeing the accursed liquor.

The Writing Mood.

[From the Atlantic Monthly.]

There is something half physical about it, like the tingling glory of standing on an autumn hilltop or at the prow of a swift sea-going ship. It is a breathless speed and wonder. It does not feel like any slow, deliberate process of heavy thought, or even of cunning, happy craftsmanship. There is freedom in it, like the freedom of seagulls, and of youth; abandon, audacity, shudderings and horror, splendors and mirth. I feel, when a good spirit of writing is upon me, expanded, powerful, infinitely alive. As Whitman has it,

I am larger, better than I knew.
I did not know I held so much goodness.

I draw deep breath, and am free to run where I will, over hill and dale, sea and city, dead ice fields and lush, lazy tropics. I become a dweller in Eternity and am not at all afraid to die.

And yet, when I am not writing, none of this swift wonder is with me. I have no winds and flames. Even with my friends, I am aware often that my freest self is dumb. There is no loss to them in that, perhaps, for they might not like my winds and flames at all. But it makes me sad that I cannot share with them what seems at least to be the happiest of me.

Plantagenet's Long Pedigree.

[From the London Chronicle.]

The longest authentic pedigree on record was probably that of the late Gen. Plantagenet Harrison, which is inserted in his History of Yorkshire. It begins with Odin, King of Asgardia, 76 B. and among the general's ancestors numbered the Emperors Claudius, Dio tian and Maximianus, Gondergus King of the Vandals, our own Edwa III. and many lesser known monarchs.

General Harrison, who died only a fe years ago, always claimed to be a legi mate prince of the blood royal of En land and Scandinavia. He was know among his friends as the Last of t Plantagenets, a title which fitted hi well, as he stood 6 feet 4 inches in h socks and looked every inch a king.

Style in Men's Dressing Gowns.

[Paris Cor. Men's Wear.]

I noticed a unique dressing gown no worthy both for its shape and fabric. was cut on straight lines and made black silk, brocaded with yellow Orien flowers.

The collar was similar to the p shape and was of yellow silk. The slee were wide at the bottom, like the Ja nese kimonos, but there was a tight-fitt undersleeve of yellow silk, finished w a turned-up cuff. The garment finished with a belt of yellow silk.
