Too Many Slow Growers In Best Of Hog Families

The greatest need of the hog farmer today is better hogs, says W. A. Craft, in charge of swine investigations in the United States Department of Agriculture. By this he means hogs more efficient in producing pork of high quality.

Slow growth and low efficiency in using feed are expensive and common traits in any breed of swine. Records kept by the Bureau of Animal Industry at the National Agricultural Research Center, Beltsville, Md., show that the feed needed to make 100 pounds of gain varies among litters within a breed from about 325 to more than 500 pounds. Similarly, on identical rations and similar management, the time required by pigs within a litter to reach a weight of 225 pounds, varies as much as 100 days.

Although these figures represent extremes, says Dr. Craft, they suggest the opportunity for cutting costs with better hogs, hogs that not only appear to be good but have in addition the ability to make high-quality pork cheaply and quickly, the ability to produce large litters and the ability to transmit these characteristics to their offspring.

Students of genetics know that the genes, the determiners of characters and the way in which they are combined in breeding, determine a hog's value as a feeder and breeder. Geneticists hope in time to have more knowledge about these genes and to have tests sufficiently simple to permit more accurate selection of animals for breeding purposes than is possible by present practices. They want to know whether the genes are good or bad, dominant or recessive, and how they will react in the feed lot and the breeding herd.

Scavenger Hunt, Party Given At Queen Anne

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clark entertained a number of the younger set Thursday evening in honor of the fifteenth birthday of their granddaughter, Elaine Murphy. The first event of the evening was a "Scavenger Hunt" which took the young folks to Moore's Mill and ended at Fred Sylvester's. After that the evening passed too soon in the playing of games at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clark. Refreshments of home made cake and ice cream were served.

Guests were Allen and Lansen Bennington, William Walls, of Ridgely; Clifton Hicks, Jr., Eugene Knotts, Ray Baker, Carol Holland, Helen and Sarah Frances Short, Norma Hicks. Esther Skinner and Charlotte Spry, Hillsboro; Charles Cannon Barton, Junior Gibson, Billy Messix, Billy Chaires, George Page Murphy, Elmer Murphy, Byron Barton, Florence Ann Moore, Helen Chaires, Esther and William Dudley, Elizabeth McDonnell and Edgar Morgan, of Queen Anne.

J. Hall Barton Elected

At a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of the Little Theatre, J. Hall Barton, was elected temporary President. Mr. Barton will serve in that capacity for the next six months.

NOTICE
AUTOMOBILE OWNERS

In answer to inquiry made by the County Treasurer regarding interest on autombile taxes, the State Comptroller replied as follows:

"If persons defer paying taxes on their automobiles until shortly before the time they file their applications with the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles for 1937 tags, and they do not tender payment of the taxes to you until after the date on which interest begins to accrue, these persons are chargeable with interest on their automobile taxes the same as they would be on any other taxes. The law allowing persons to defer applying for their tags until April 1st, 1937 does not waive interest on taxes, or give persons owing taxes on automobiles any privileges other than that they need not take out their 1937 tags until April 1st, or prior thereto.

WM. S. GORDY, JR.,
Comptroller.
