UP AND DOWN THE Eastern Shore

Sand Pit Caves In

Trappe—The prompt ass stance of CCC camp boys probably save the life of Levi Green when a sand bank in which he was working caved in. Green suffered a broken leg and was near suffocation when pulled from the pit.

Station Permit Denied

Easton—Issuance to build a filling station within the business district would lead to a great many other similar requests, the Mayor F. Hall Wrightson warned the City Council in declining to issue the permit. The Council was deadlocked on the application when the Mayor intervened.

Dark Bridges

Elkton—The Mayor and Board of Town Commissioners have lost their suit in Circuit Court against the State Roads Commission by which they sought to compel the roads body to furnish light for the highways over two railroad bridges within the town limits. Elkton will take the case to the Court of Appeals.

Mail by Bottle

Ocean City—Stumbling across a corked and sealed bottle on the sandy beach of Ocean City, J. E. Ellis took it to the Life Guard Station nearby, found it contained a message from the Rev. W. Austin Bishop, of Kingston, Pa., who served as a wrestling referee at the Olympic games in Berlin last summer. Communication with the minister revealed that he had tossed the bottle overboard from a liner while a thousand miles out from the port of New York.

"Landon" Explained

Crisfield—When the name of "Landon, Maryland" went around the country on the eve of the election as the only place that bore the name of the Republican nominee, Editor Joseph S. McGrath of the Crisfield Post assigned himself the job of finding out the whys and wherefores. As a matter of fact there is no town or community which bears that name but there is a sign "Landon" below the railroad station at Kings Creek. The NYP & N, a part of the Pennsylvania RR., named it in honor of four Landon brothers who devoted a life time of service to the railroad company. Nominee Landon had nothing to do with its name.
