Extra Telegraph.

Feeling that a crisis has arrived—when it becomes the duty of every friend of his country to offer up his prejudices and his personal interests, so far as they are in conflict with the great end of redeeming the Government from the misrule which threatens the overflow of the best interests of society, and believing that the establishment of some organ of communication, through which the advocates of constitutional law can address the public intelligence at a price within the reach of every citizen, is essential to its accomplishments, the subscriber proposes to publish a semi-monthly

EXTRA UNITED STATES TELEGRAPH.

To consist of sixteen large octavo pages, at the reduced rate of one dollar and fifty cents per annum, for a single copy.

It is intended to constitute a medium through which the ablest pens may address the people, and all such are invited to contribute. It is especially recommended to the consideration of the State Rights Societies now springing up in every State of the Union; and will embody the leading facts, documents and arguments, upon which the success of the principles which give them life, depend, In a word, its great end will be to harmonise conflicting opinions, and by promoting a surrender of political prejudice and personal interests unite those who disapprove of the manner in which the Government is now administered in a common effort to rescue the institutions of the country from the destiny which, in the opinion of all intelligent and distnterested persons, otherwise awaits us.

With a view to enable subsequent subscribers to obtain the whole series the first numbers will be stereotyped, and new editions issued as the subscriptions may be enlarged,

Editors with whom we exchange will do us a favor by noticing this proposition, and all persons who desire its success are requested to obtain subscribers.

All subscriptions must be paid in advance.

The first number will issue as soon as five thousand subscribers are obtained,

Items of News,

The Cap.

The Jackson Pennsylvanian of Saturday, in order to account for the loss of the liberty cap on the new coin, says ;

When a Roman discharged his slave from bondage, he put a cap on his head to denote that he was no longer a slave. That is we believe, pretty nearly the fact, and we are hence to infer that General Jackson, thinking he has reduced the people to slavery, orders the cap to be taken from the national emblem, to denote that they are no longer free. U. S. Gazette.

A brother editor in this state says, to correspondents, "'Common Sense' is too unimportant a subject to be admitted into his paper." Ib.

To-morrow, General Jackson commences his journey "back again" to Washington. Ib.

The Brattleborough Inquirer says, a gentleman from Dummerston, Vt, informs us that the drought is so great in that vicinity that the grasshoppers are reduced to mere skeletons, and sit upon the fences with tears in their eyes for the want of something wherewith to satisfy the cravings of hunger!

The Alexandria Gazette offers the best comment upon the Jackson cry of GOLD that we have yet met with. The editor says; we heard a very good Jackson friend of ours from Virginia say—yesterday, I hear a great deal about this Gold, but d——l a bit do I see of the precious metal. People reading so much about Gold will be anxious to handle it.

Horrid Murder.

A letter from a gentleman in Montgomery county informs us that on the night of the 6th inst. the Rev. Thomas Philips was shot dead at his own house,

He was aroused from his bed by the barking of the dogs, and the noise made by stones thrown against the house; he took his gun and went into the piazza to see the cause of the disturbance and was immediately shot down. Three large and fourteen small slugs were found in his body by the jury called in upon the occasion. Nothing more was known of this horrid affair when our informant wrote.

Western Carolinian.

Pleasant.

The following paragraph is from Mr isaac hill's own paper ;

"When such reptiles, such crawling sycophants of aristocratic power, as Southard, Chambers, Clayton, Frelinghuysen and Ewing, shall be remembered only as the collared serfs, the pensioned slaves of an institution, menacing the liberties of the country, the name of Isaac Hill, will stand in characters of bold relief by the side of Franklin and other benefactors of mankind who have been the architects of their own fortune."

Over Work.

A gentleman who employs a great number of hands in a manufactory in the west of England, in order to encourage his work people in a due attendance to church, on a fast day, told them, that if they went to church they would receive their wages for that day in the same manner as if they had been at work. Upon which a deputation was appointed to acquaint their employer, that if he would pay them for over hours, they would attend likewise at the Methodist Chapel in the evening.

The Commonwealth, Printed in Frankfort, Ky. says that the extra allowance fund was freely circulated, at the late elections in that state, but without success.—Whigs are not to be bribed.—West Her.

Net Proceeds.

A man in Chelmsford, (Mass.) on Monday evening last, took nine hundred and sixty pigeons at one spring of his net, Pro digious!

From Blackwood's Magazine.

Folly.

There is folly in all the world
Go we east or west,
A folly that vexes the old,
And keeps the young from rest.

The miser has folly enough,
For his soul is in sordid bags,
And the spendthrift's folly alas!
Brings him to sin and rags.

There is folly in statesmen's 'schemes,
For spite of their plotting at wit,
There's a wiser hand above
That leads them with bridle and bit.

There's folly in power and pride,
That makes full many to fall,
There's folly in maiden's love,
But that is the sweetest of all.

But of all the follies, the worst—
For it stings with constant smart,
The scorpion of the mind—
Is that of a thankless heart.

For the thankless heart is cursed,
And with blessings enccompass'd grieves,
For it cannot rejoice with the hand
That gives nor yet receives.

To be thankful, makes better the good;
And if Heaven should send us ill,
There is kindness in him that gives—
So let us be thankful still.

O let us be thankful in youth,
And let us be thankful in age—
And let us be thankful through life,
For there's pleasure in every stage.

Youth has its own sweet joys,
And he must be blind as a bat,
Who cannot see love's sweet smile,
And will not be thankful for that.

There are friends the dearest to cheer,
Ere half our sand is run—
And affection makes wintry days,
As bright as the summer's sun.

And when from the dearest on earth
We part, let us hope 'tis given—
A boon to be thanked for still—
To meet them again in Heaven.

SINGULAR GOOD LUCK,

An Irishman at Limerick, named Tomy, on his way down to the ship James for America, which was recently lost, met a widow, who inquiring where he was going, told him he "might perhaps do better at home." He took the hint, and forthwith courted and married her, forfeiting his passage money. What is singular, two men are now in jail for an attempted abduction of the same woman. We should call this a curious concatenation of romantic incidents.

Star.

ELEVEN HUNDRED GROG SHOPS.

The Baltimore Temperance Herald, says;—

From a late report made by a committee to the Young Men's Temperance Society, we learn there are eleven hundred grog shops in this city—and we verily believe more than half of them are selling the abomination without license. We should like to be informed by the "powers that be," of the reasons why and wherefore they are not all obliged to dispose of their death distilled according to law. The "by authority" that lays taxation upon the shoulders of one individual in this free country, should lay it equally upon the shoulders of all who profit by its privileges.

HORRIBLE DEATH.

A few days since, a white and colored man were bathing in the Thames river, off Groton, opposite New London (Conn.) when they were pursued by a large shark, which overtook, seized & devoured the negro. With difficulty the white man effected his escape. The shrieks of the sufferer were horrible in the extreme.

ACCIDENT.

A friend of ours, a young physician, about being married, the minister announced as usual, immediately before the sermon, that Doctor——and Miss——intended marriage, and then in a very audible voice gave out his text—"They that are whole need not a Physician, but they that are sick"—to the infinite amusement of his tittering congregation. Whether the lady most interested was present, the deponent saith not.
